GUERNSEY.

COPY of a LETTER from the Secretary at War, to the Secretary to the Treasury, respecting the Office of GOVERNOR of Guernsey, and the Emoluments from Tithes of Corn, from the King's Revenue, and other sources; also, a Statement of the Amount of these several Emoluments, distinguishing the Amount of each Branch.

War Office,
6 March 1835.

J. C. HERRIES.

COPY of a LETTER from the Secretary at War to the Secretary to the Treasury, dated 16th February 1835.

SIR,

THE recent death of Sir William Keppel having rendered it necessary to take such measures as may be necessary to carry into effect the general recommendation of the Committee on Army and Navy Appointments, that vacant sinecure garrison appointments should be abolished, the emoluments being applied either as rewards for distinguished military service, or, as in certain cases directed by the Committee, to defray the charges of the effective garrisons maintained in the places, I have the honour to request, that you will report to the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury, that the appointment of Governor of Guernsey, which Sir William Keppel's death has rendered vacant, is one of those appointments requiring their special consideration.

When that Committee was assembled, full information in regard to the emoluments of this government had not been received from Sir William Keppel, and the War Office accordingly reported them to the Committee, from an old Return, as amounting to 1,100*l.* a year.

Upon this information, the Committee decided, that on a vacancy the emoluments of the Governor should be applied towards defraying the salaries of the general officers resident and commanding there, or the whole cost of the garrison establishment.

After the Report of the Committee had been made to Parliament, the deficient information was supplied by Sir William Keppel, and instead of 1,100*l.*, it appeared that the net receipts of the Governor average only 383*l.* a year, the gross income being subject to deduction in the island, amounting to nearly 54 per cent.

The enclosed copies will more fully explain the nature and amount of these deductions.

As it is quite obvious that the reduced net emoluments will not suffice for the end to which the Committee desired that they should be applied, and as it has been deemed on all occasions desirable that these irregular emoluments should if possible be claimed for the Crown, leaving the whole charge for the Military Staff apparent in the Army Estimates, I beg you will move their Lordships to give such directions upon this point as to them may seem fit, only observing, that as the Committee have specifically directed an appropriation of these emoluments, they do not appear to me to form any part of the sum which the Committee desire to recommend as grants for distinguished military service.

I am, Sir, your most obedient servant,

To the Honourable James Stewart, Treasury.

COPY of a LETTER from Sir William Keppel to the Secretary at War, dated Bury-street, 9th August 1833.

Sir,

HAVING been obliged to have recourse to His Majesty's Receiver-General at Guernsey for the information desired, I have now the honour, in compliance with your letter of the 27th ultimo, to send you the Return of the Governor's emoluments in that island, as required by the Committee on Army and Navy Appointments.

I have the honour to be, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

To the Right Honourable the Secretary at War. (signed) W. Keppel.

COPY of a LETTER from Mr. John Carey, His Majesty's Receiver-General for Guernsey, dated 5th August 1833, to Sir William Keppel.

Dear Sir,

In reference to my letter of the 2d instant, I have now the honour to enclose, for the information of the Select Committee on Army and Navy Appointments, an account of the gross and net amount of emoluments accruing to the Governor of Guernsey for each of the last five years, from the tithes and champarts of corn and pulse in the island of Guernsey, by which you will perceive, that instead of 1,100*l.*, as stated in the Return alluded to in the Committee's resolution of the 25th of last month, the average of these last five years has only been 825*l.* 19*s.* 8*d.*, which sum of 825*l.* 19*s.* 8*d.*, after making the proper deductions, as explained at foot in (note a) is reduced to 383*l.* 2*s.* net per annum. The difference between the above 1,100*l.* and 825*l.* 19*s.* 8*d.* may partly be accounted for by the change contingent on a state of war and one of peace, and partly by the increased cultivation of potatoes in lieu of corn by many of our farmers, on which the King receives neither tithes nor champarts.

The return in question was sent up by Sir John Colborne, our then Lieutenant-governor, as being the average of 20 years, from 1805 to 1824, both years inclusive.

I likewise transmit, for your Excellency's information, a letter from the King's Comptroller, in reply to my application for information on the question regarding the origin and nature of the property, which I hope will be found sufficiently explicit.

In regard to the manner in which the King's tithes and champarts are paid and collected, I have to state, that they are generally farmed out for terms of three years to the highest bidder, and that the farmer who holds them, on being duly warned by the cultivators of their intention to remove their corn from the field, presents himself to receive them in kind, the cultivators having previously reaped and stacked them in each field.

I have the honour, &c.

To the Right Honourable Sir William Keppel, G. C. B. (signed) John Carey.

ACCOUNT of the Gross and Net Amount of EMOLUMENTS of the GOVERNOR of Guernsey, from the Tithes and Champarts of Corn and Pulse in the Island of Guernsey, for each of the last Five Years, from 1828 to 1832, both years inclusive.

For the year 1828, the said Tithes and Champarts were farmed at 10,604*l.* Tournois, or	757	8	7	sterling.
Deduct, proportionate share of general charges, as explained at foot (a)	412	16	–
	£. 344	12	7	net.
For the year 1829, they were farmed at 11,510*l.* Tournois, or	822	2	10	sterling.
Deduct, proportionate share of general charges	446	6	9
	£. 375	16	1	net.

For

For the year 1830, they were farmed at 11,510 l. Tournois, or	822	2	10	sterling.
Deduct, proportionate share of general charges	447	9	5
	£. 374	13	5	net.
For the year 1831, they were farmed at 11,510 l. Tournois, or	822	2	10	sterling.
Deduct, proportionate share of general charges	418	–	6
	£. 404	2	4	net.
For the year 1832, they were farmed at 12,685 l. Tournois, or	906	1	5	sterling.
Deduct, proportionate share of general charges	489	15	9
	£. 416	5	8	net.

Being, on an average, £. 825. 19. 8. gross, per annum; and, £. 383. 2. net, per annum.

(a) His Majesty's revenue in this island, being liable to considerable charges for a variety of objects, such as salaries paid to the Bailiff and other His Majesty's officers, maintenance of prisoners in the public gaol, hire of a boat and crew for the service of the garrison to and from Castle Cornet, stipend to public executioner, discount on remittances, commission, &c. &c. &c.; the amount of which during the last five years has, on an average, been equivalent to about 53 ½ per cent. on the aggregate of the gross receipts. The article of tithes and champarts, forming a branch of that revenue, is, like the rest, liable to its proportionate share of those charges; and therefore the sum carried to the Governor's credit in the General Annual Account as what they yield, cannot be considered as the net amount of his emoluments from that source, but only as the gross accruing therefrom. The quantity of pulse is very trifling.

(signed) John Carey,
His Majesty's Receiver-General.

Guernsey, 3 August 1833.

COPY of a LETTER from His Majesty's Comptroller or Solicitor-General, Guernsey, to John Carey, Esq., His Majesty's Receiver-General in that Island; dated 3 August 1833.

Sir,

I DULY received your Letter of the 1st instant, in which you desire to be informed "of the origin and nature of the property due to the Governor of this island, under the head of King's Tithes and Champarts;" this I will do as far as I am able.

As to the first, the King's Tithes: The levying of tithes, dates from an early period; they were originally part of the revenues of churches, monasteries and convents. It appears they were paid to ecclesiastics for their subsistence, and were so paid whilst monasteries existed; but on their dissolution, they were taken possession of and attached to the King's revenue. They are the eleventh portion, paid by the farmer, of the corn, peas, beans and vetches, growing on nine parishes in this island. In one part of the tenth parish (the Clos du Valle), one tenth portion is paid.

The champart, as appears by the Extent of King Edward 3, is an ancient duty, from time immemorial, paid in this island. It is called Champart, being the twelfth sheaf after the tithe taken out of the corn-field, due almost throughout the island, so that of twelve sheaves there are two taken, one for the tithes and the other for the said champart.

The champart, though originally mostly due to the King, is now much reduced; some having long been alienated and granted away; some part of that also originally payable in corn, is no longer so, the proprietors of fields in a part of the island having been exempted or freed from it by a modus paid in lieu thereof.

I remain, &c.

—No. 1.—

"AN ACCOUNT of the present AMOUNT of INCOME received by the ECCLESIASTICAL COMMISSIONERS under the Church Temporalities Act; specifying the Sources from which they are derived, and distinguishing those which are permanent from those which may be temporary."

	£.	s.	d.	£.	s.	d.
PERMANENT:
INCOME of Waterford and Lismore See Estate	3,947	10	9
Ditto Clonfert and Kilmacduagh ditto	2,970	–	–
Ditto Killalla and Achonry ditto	3,400	–	–
Ditto Raphoe ditto	5,000	–	–
Payment by the Lord Bishop of Derry	4,160	–	–
TEMPORARY:
Glebe House Loan Instalments, if paid, for 15 years	7,400	–	–
Tax on Ecclesiastical Benefices and Livings, if collected, may be estimated for the current year at	750	–	–
Income arising from suspended Benefices, if paid	1,500	–	–
				9,650	–	–
			£.	29,127	10	9

N.B.—The foregoing is exclusive altogether of whatever Income may accrue within the current year from the Sales of the Perpetuities; and with respect to the foregoing Income of a temporary nature, it is to be observed, that a considerable portion of it arises from Tithe Compositions, and the residue of it is payable by the Clergy, who are dependent entirely on the collection of their Compositions, in order to enable them to defray those demands, so that the Commissioners cannot with any degree of certainty calculate on the Revenue to be derived from this source.

By Order, J. Wilson, Secretary.

—No. 2.—

A CALCULATION of the future INCOME which may be expected to be received by the ECCLESIASTICAL COMMISSIONERS derived from suppressed Sees, Tax on Incomes, Sinecures suppressed, and other sources of a permanent description.

THE future Income which may be expected to be derived from suppressed Sees (including the 19,477 l.) in hand	50,780	3	3
Tax on Incomes: it is impossible to ascertain the amount within a short time, but there is reason to suppose it cannot exceed	22,000	–	–
Annual Payment by future Primates	4,500	–	–
Ditto by future Bishops of Derry	6,160	–	–
‡‡ £.	83,440	3	3

N.B.—It is estimated that the Funds which may eventually be at the disposal of the Commissioners from Sinecure Dignities, Prebends, &c., may amount to 22,000 l.; but the Commissioners cannot reckon on this with any degree of certainty from the little information they possess on the subject at present.

By Order, J. Wilson, Secretary.

—No. 3.—

AN ACCOUNT of the average ANNUAL CHARGE for the Repairs of CHURCHES, and other Expenses formerly defrayed by the Vestry Cess, &c., together with the Expense of the Board under other heads, stating what may be expected to be the permanent average Expenditure of the Ecclesiastical Board of all descriptions.

	£.	s.	d.
A considerable sum will be required to be immediately expended in Repair of Churches throughout Ireland, the amount of which cannot be estimated at present, as the reports of all the provincial Architects have not been received; and it is conceived that for the future Repairs of Churches there will be required, annually, a sum of	25,000	–	–
Other Expenses, formerly defrayed by the Vestry Cess, &c.	34,412	6	4
Expenses of the Board, including the Salaries of Commissioners, Secretary, Treasurer and Clerks, Solicitors, Agents of the See Estates, Provincial Architects, House Rent, Stationery, Printing and Incidents	10,000	–	–
Probable permanent average Expenditure £.	69,412	6	4

By Order, J. Wilson, Secretary.

No. 4.

AN ACCOUNT of the SUMS which have already been received, and which may, within any specified period, be expected to be received, and the total sum likely to be at the disposal of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners by the purchase of the Bishops' Lands under the Church Temporalities' Act.

Amount which may be expected to be received in addition up to the close of the present year - - - - - - - - £.	88,623	14	7

The total sum likely to be at the disposal of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners by the purchase of the Bishops' lands under the Church Temporalities Act, cannot be estimated, as it is quite optional with the tenants whether they will purchase or not; but, were they all to purchase, it might amount to somewhat about £. 1,200,000.

By Order,
J. Wilson, Secretary.

No. 5.

AN ACCOUNT of any MONIES issued by way of Loan from the Treasury to supply the deficiency under the foregoing Account.

Of the loan of 100,000*l.* which the Ecclesiastical Commissioners are empowered, with the consent of the Lords of the Treasury, under the Act of 4 & 5 Will. IV. c. 90, to receive from the Board of Works the sum advanced amounts to - - - - - - - - - -	46,000	–	–

Thereby leaving a balance, applicable to the same purposes, for the claims still under investigation, of - - - - - - - - £.	311	1	10

An application has been made by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for the residue of the £. 100,000, amounting to £. 54,000, which is in progress of being advanced, and will be in immediate demand for the Repairs of Churches.

By Order,
J. Wilson, Secretary.

A GENERAL RETURN to the four remaining Orders of The House of Commons, dated the 25th March 1835, and requiring the following particulars to be set forth; viz.

No. 6.

A CALCULATION to be made from the data afforded, in Three Accounts first mentioned in the said Precept, showing at what period the permanent INCOME, or Annual FUNDS of the ECCLESIASTICAL COMMISSIONERS (Ireland) are likely to be equal to the permanent Expenditure of the Commissioners; also the period when the Fund will reach its maximum, and the Amount; also the Debt on the Fund likely to be created by the accumulation of the yearly Deficit, until the Income may be equal to the Expenditure, and the Number of Years necessary to pay it off, with Notes explanatory of the same.

Answer.

Referring for the statements and reasoning upon which this question is investigated to the detailed and specific Answer to the same, in the annexed Return (A) the General Answer is practically as follows; viz.

1. If the permanent income of £. 83,440, set forth in the Return No. 2 by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and marked ‡‡ thus, is considered as the only income which is to be certainly forthcoming, the annual funds of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners will never equal their contemplated expenditure; but, on the contrary, fall short of the same by an immediate and perpetual annuity of £. 3,446. 18. 6, or an immediate capital of £. 86,173. 2. 6.

2. But assuming that the doubtful income of £.22,000, which is also therein set forth, may eventually be realized, then the period when their annual funds will equal their yearly expenditure will be rather less than 18 years, viz. at February 1853.
3. The period when the fund would in that case reach its maximum is 38 years, viz. 1st August 1873.
4. The amount of the fund then and thenceforward will be £.105,440 per annum, subject to the contemplated expenditure of £.69,412. 6., thus leaving a perpetual surplus of £.36,027. 14. per annum.
5. The debt on the fund likely to be realized by the accumulation of the yearly deficit, "until the income may be equal to the expenditure" is £.412,382. 9.
6. The time required to pay off such debt after it shall thus have attained its maximum, will be 20 years from February 1853, being from and after August next 37½ years.

And this Answer, moreover, proceeds on the supposition that the Commissioners are clear of all debt on 1st August next, which takes for granted that the sum of £.100,000, now owing by them to the Treasury, will be repaid from the first proceeds of the Perpetuity Fund.

No. 7.

A CALCULATION of the SUM which may be expected to be realized by the purchase in perpetuity of the BISHOPS' LEASES, according to the Act of 3 & 4 Will. IV. c. 37, styled "The Church Temporalities Act."

Answer.

Referring in like manner to the Return, No. 4. of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and to the statements and reasoning on which this question is considered, in the detailed and specific Answer to the same in the annexed Return (B.) the practical result is, that if all the tenants were to purchase their perpetuities, the total produce thereof ought to be £.1,507,050, whereas the Ecclesiastical Commissioners estimate the same (in their Return to this Precept, No. 4.) only at £.1,200,000. But reasons are assigned for inferring a doubt whether the purchases may in reality take place to any considerable extent.

No. 8.

CALCULATION explanatory of the difference of the SUM required of the Landlord to redeem £.100 composition under the Tithe Bill of May 1834, and the sum which will be required by the proposed Bill of March 1835,—repayment of the instalments under the Million Act, to be included in the calculation with references to the Bills and Acts, and with notes explanatory of the same.

Answer.

Referring, as before, to the specific Return (C.) annexed hereunto, the practical answer to this question, assuming land to be at 20 years' purchase, is, that the Bill of March 1835 will require in all cases £, 1,500 to redeem £. 100 per annum.

The Bill of May 1834 required

1st.—£.1,650. 10. 0. when no instalments were payable under the Million Act.
2d.—£.1,868. 2. 1. when instalments were due, but when the person redeeming was not himself the defaulter of the arrear of tithe which caused the liability.
3d.—£.1,928 5. 11. when the instalments were due, and were occasioned by the default of the person proposing to redeem the same.

No. 9.

A CALCULATION of the EXPENSE which would have devolved on the Public in carrying into effect the Provisions of the Tithe Bill of August 1834, by which the difference (amounting to £.17. 10.) between the Rent Charge of £.60 for £.100 of Tithe Composition, and the Income of £.77. 10. guaranteed to the Tithe Owners, was to have been paid out of the Consolidated Fund,—the appropriation of the Perpetuity Purchase Fund, in diminution of the charge on the Consolidated Fund, to be included in the calculation."

Answer.

Referring, as before, to the annexed special Return (D.), in which the grounds of this Estimate are set forth, the practical answer is, that the loss would be a perpetual annuity of £.147,161. 6., equal to an immediate capital of £.3,870,544, while the amount of the Perpetuity Fund, which was charged to make good the greater part of this sum, "in preference to and exclusion of any other application of such fund," was shown in the Return to No. 7 to be a quantity, the precise amount of which cannot be stated, but at its maximum cannot exceed £.1,507,050, supposing the whole of the tenants were to purchase.

National Debt Office,
14 April 1835.

John Finlaison,
Actuary of the National Debt, and Government Calculator.

APPENDIX (A.) (B.) (C.) (D.) Referred to in Returns, Nos. 6, 7, 8, 9.

(A.) Refers to No. 6.

A CALCULATION to be made, showing at what period the permanent Income or Annual Funds of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners (for Ireland) are likely to be equal to the permanent Expenditure of the Commissioners; also the period when the Fund will reach its maximum, and the amount; also the Debt on the Fund likely to be created by the accumulation of the yearly Deficit until the Income may be equal to the Expenditure, and the number of years required to pay it off; with notes explanatory of the same.

IT will appear from the following STATEMENT and CALCULATION, that the answer to this part of the Precept, is,— 1st.—If the permanent Income of £. 83,440. which is set forth in the Third Column under-mentioned, marked † is considered as the only income which is to be certainly forthcoming, the annual Funds of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners will never equal their contemplated Expenditure, but, on the contrary, fall short of the same by an immediate and perpetual Annuity of £. 3,446. 18. 6. or an immediate Capital of £. 86,173. 2. 6.

2d.—But assuming that the doubtful Income of £. 22,000. which is also therein set forth, may eventually be realised, then the period when their annual Funds would equal their yearly Expenditure, will be rather less than 18 years, viz. at February 1853.

3d.—The period when the Fund would in that case reach its maximum, will be at the end of 38 years; viz. in August 1873.

4th.—That the amount of the Fund then and thenceforward will be £. 105,440. per annum, subject to the contemplated Expenditure of £. 69,412. 6. leaving a perpetual surplus of £. 36,027. 14. per annum.

5th.—That the Debt on the Fund likely to be created by the accumulation of the yearly deficit, until the "Income may be equal to the Expenditure," is £. 412,382. 9.

6th.—That the time required to pay off such Debt after it shall thus have attained its maximum, will be 20 years from and subsequent to February 1853, being from and after August next 37 ½ years.

And these Answers, moreover, proceed on the supposition that the Commissioners are clear of all Debt on 1st August next, which takes for granted that the Sum of £. 100,000. now owing by them to the Treasury, will be repaid from the first proceeds of the Perpetuity Purchase Fund, the nature and probable amount of which Fund forms the subject of the next answer to this Precept.

THE four Items, marked (a) (b) (c) and (d) are to be respectively valued on different conditions. The rate of Interest is taken at £. 4. per cent. and the law of mortality, according to the Government Tables (for males) as the basis.

The Item (c) consists of the tax expected from the inferior Clergy. Their ages are unknown; but being all of them necessarily above the age of 25, the distribution of the tax among the individuals who exist at each age, is easily effected, by considering them similarly circumstanced as the members of a Life Insurance Office (the Amicable), which has been established for a century, and which therefore presents the ages of its members at a maximum.

It is not forgotten that the clergyman is liable to the tax on his acceptanee of promotion, and therefore that his interest in the exemption from the same, is not in all cases a life interest. But, on the other hand, it is considered that this is countervailed by the probability that the Clergy, as a body, inhabitants of rural situations, are rather superior in vitality to the aged members of an Insurance Office at the maximum, the great majority of whom are resident in London.

The item (d) is in the same situation as the item (c). They will immediately be considered conjointly as one item of income, and valued accordingly; but in the meantime, taking the item (c) separately, it will stand as follows:

The question is at what period of time will the Commissioners come into possession of this surplus Income of £.36,027. 14.; for when this happens, they will stand clear of all obligations?

The answer to this question is, a period of time less by a fortnight than 75 half years, viz. on 15 January 1873.

Because a present surplus Capital of £.204,290. 10. 6. will exactly purchase the Reversion to a perpetual Income of £.36,027. 14. which is only to commence payment at the end of 74 half years and 168 days.

The progressive Debt to be incurred by the Commissioners, and the gradual extinction of the same, is exhibited as follows:—

The Life Interest of the several persons at whose decease the prospective Revenue is to fall in, has been shown in the form of a series of Terminable Annuities, which was in each case the value thereof equally, and the same as a specific sum. When these Annuities are collected together in the order of their duration, they stand as follows; those marked thus (‡) having reference to the Items (a) and (b), which form the Episcopal Revenue expected.

A CALCULATION of the SUM which may be expected to be realized by the Purchase in Perpetuity of the Bishops' Leases, according to the Act of 3 & 4 Will. IV. c. 37, styled, "The Church Temporalities Act."

IT appears by the First Report of the Commissioners on Ecclesiastical Revenue and Patronage (printed 28th August 1833), page 8, that the present Lord Primate of Armagh, like many of his predecessors, is in the practice of receiving, in consideration of the yearly renewal of leases, such fines, as with poundage and fees included, made up one-eighth part of what is shewn below as "profit rent," while in the rest of Ireland the said fines, &c. were required to be such as should make up one-fifth of the same.

By that Report (page 213) it further appears, that the leases on longer tenure than for a term of 21 years, are of comparatively small value, not inluding even five per cent. of the whole rental; so that, for the purposes of this calculation, the leases may all be considered as having now 21 years to run.

Moreover, it is generally admitted that the average value of land in Ireland is fairly to be taken at 20 years' purchase; and it is matter of notoriety, that interest is convertible into capital by means of the public funds, always twice in the year, throughout this empire. Then interest being at five per cent. (payable half-yearly) the present value of a lease continuing 21 years, is - - - - - - - - - - - - 12·9103032 years' purchase.
And the present value of the reversion of such lease in perpetuity is - 7·0896968 —

Both together making up the price of land in fee-simple - 20·0000000 —

The following Statement then results arithmetically:—

	That the Gross Rental of all the Bishop's Lands is as under:	Because the Reserved Rent being given in the said Report as follows:	Leaving a Residue of Profit Rent as under (in which the Tenant has a property.)	And the whole of the Fines being also set forth in the said Report as averaging the following Sums:	It results, that the clear surplus Rent, remaining in the hands of the Tenantry, is as under:
	£. s. d.	£. s. d.	£. s. d.	£. s. d.	£. s. d.
In Armagh - - -	93,835 1 11	4,829 4 7	89,005 17 4	11,125 14 8	77,880 2 8

To the Fines, add the Reserved Rent - - - - £.	38,252 15 8
The Total is to be the "New reserved Rent" for the future, in case the reversion to the perpetuity shall be purchased; viz. - - - - -	124,553 3 2†
And the Gross Rent being, as above stated - - - -	503,131 17 4
The difference is the same, as is shown in the last column, being the clear Rent - - - - - - - - - - - - £.	378,578 14 4

And this is the property to be sold in reversion.

VALUATION.—First Method.	£. s. d.
Value thereof, at 7·0896968 years' purchase - - - - - - - -	2,684,008 – –
From whence, deducting the value of the Fines of £. 86,300. 7. 6. to which the tenants are, during the currency of their leases, to be hereafter subjected in the shape of further reserved Rent, the same at 12·9103032 years' purchase is worth - - - - - - - - - - - - - -	1,114,164 – –
If no abatement were to be made, the difference is evidently the price of the Reversion - - - - - - - - - - - - - -	1,569,844 – –
Abate from this a Bonus of four per cent. (on the thing to be purchased, viz. the Reversion) allowed by the Act - - - - - - - - - -	62,794 – –
Hence, the Residue is the Purchase Money to be paid - - - £.	1,507,050 – –

VALUATION.—Second Method, as literally directed by the Act.

In performing the Valuation according to the terms of the Act, section 145, the Calculator whose duty it is to obey this precept understands that the Statute can only mean a valuation to be made which is arithmetically just and true. Its meaning, however, is interpreted by those who have advised the Ecclesiastical Commissioners in such a sense as would occasion a loss of public money to the serious extent of £. 240,069. in favour of the Tenants, if all were to purchase; and, as far as the sales have hitherto proceeded, a proportion of this loss has, in fact, been actually sustained.

This difference is no doubt the cause of the Commissioners having estimated the produce of the Perpetuity Fund in their Return to this Precept, No. 4, so low as £. 1,200,000.

* And this item forms the perpetuity of which the reversion is to be sold.

† Of this sum there belongs to the suppressed Sees as follows:

Reserved Rent - - - - £.	13,350 4 2
Fines - - - - - -	28,579 6 5
TOTAL - - - £	41,929 10 7

The section 145 directs the Commissioners "to inquire and ascertain the full improved yearly value of the said lands and premises, according to the usual and accustomed mode of ascertaining and estimating the same by the Archbishop or Bishop in whose diocese, &c. such lands shall be respectively situate.

"To estimate and compute, according to the best of their knowledge, skill and ability, the value of the fee simple and inheritance in such lands and premises, subject to the annual rent to be reserved and made payable thereout by the deed of conveyance, to be executed in manner hereinbefore appointed.

"And having estimated and computed the value of such fee simple and inheritance, subject to such rent, the said Commissioners shall deduct therefrom four per cent. on the amount thereof, and ascertain and declare the amount of such value so reduced.

"And the said Commissioners shall also estimate and compute [but N. B. on what principle is not stated] the value of the interest in such lands and premises possessed by such tenant, &c. under his, her or their then subsisting lease.

"And shall determine and declare the difference between the value, reduced by such per-centage as aforesaid, of such fee simple and inheritance, subject to the rent aforesaid, and the value of the interest possessed under such lease,

"Which difference shall be the amount of purchase-money."

The value of the whole fee simple and inheritance subject to the reserved rent, comprehends the value of the several parts thereof, one of which parts is the immediate right to the estate during the lease; the other is the right to the reversion of the same after the lease. If, from the whole, there is to be a deduction of four per cent, while it is considered singly, there must needs be the like deduction from each one of the parts, when the fractions are considered in relation to each other.

The Gross Rental of the Estate being - - - - - - - - -	503,131	17	4
And the ancient Reserved Rent (to which all the Leases are already subject) being - - - - - - - - - - - - - - -	38,252	15	8
The Difference is the Estate in which the Tenant and the Church have jointly the whole inheritance - - - - - - - - - -	464,879	1	8

	The Tenant's Interest or Share of the Estate being valued at 12·9103032 Years' Purchase, is as under.		The Commissioners' Share of the Value, at 7·0896968 Years' Purchase, is as below.		The Sum Total of these Two Values is the same as the Value of the whole at 20 Years Purchase; viz.
	6,001,730	+	3,295,851	=	9,297,581
If 4 per cent be deducted from each portion and from the whole, the Sums to be set off are -	240,069†	+	131,834	=	371,903
The Reduced value is - - - -	5,761,661	+	3,164,017	=	8,925,678

It is evident that the Tenant's share, without reduction, can only be compared with the whole Inheritance, when this last is also without reduction, and vice versâ, if the whole Inheritance is to be reduced, so also must the parts of which it is composed be reduced, in which case the item marked †, which is the thing in dispute must be taken off the Tenant's Share.

But the Commissioners are to charge their Share with the value of a further reserved Rent, continuing for ever and commencing immediately, of £. 86,300. 7. 6. in lieu of the present Fines. This, at 20 years' purchase, is - - -	£. 1,726,007
But this is a part of the whole Inheritance of £. 464,879. 1. 8., from the value of which £. 9,297,581, four per cent. was abated as above. Therefore, abate four per cent. from this, which is one of its parts - - - - - - -	69,040
Deduct its Reduced Value from each of the above - -			1,656,967	1,625,967
Remains - -			- - -	7,268,711
And deduct, moreover, the Tenant's reduced Interest from the whole Inheritance, "reduced by such per-centage as aforesaid" - - - - - - - - - -			- - -	5,761,661
The Difference in each case is the Amount of Purchase-Money			1,507,050	1,507,050

It is maintained however by those who advise the Commissioners, that the above item of £. 240,069. ought not to be taken off the tenant's share, with a view to "estimate and compute the value of the interest in such lands and premises possessed by such tenant under his then subsisting lease."

It is affirmed, and acted on, that the computation should be as under—

From the Gross Rent of the Estate - - - - - - -	£.	503,131	17 4
Deduct the old reserved Rent - - - - - - - -		38,252	15 8
The residue in which the Tenant has an interest is - - £.		464,879	1 8

[It is asserted, that in valuing the Tenant's interest it ought not to be assumed that the Interest of money is payable half-yearly, because heretofore the Fines were only payable annually, and that the mode of collecting rents in Ireland is only once a year. The question is not, however, how and at what times the tenant paid his rent and fines, but how often he can convert the profits of an estate which is in his own occupation into capital for his own benefit. This question admits of no dispute.] At half-yearly Interest, the Tenant's gross Interest was already shown to be £. 6,001,730.

Deduct the new Rent to which the Inheritance is further to be subjected -		86,300	7 6
Remains the clear Rent subject to and after deducting the whole Rent to be reserved as aforesaid - - - - - - - - - - -	£.	378,578	14 2
Value of such Fee Simple at 20 years' purchase - - - - - -		7,571,574	– –
Abate four per cent. from the same - - - - - - - -		302,863	– –
There remains the reduced value - - - -		7,268,711	– –
Value of the Tenant's interest possessed under his lease (gross value) - -		6,001,730	– –
The sum to be paid would be the difference, viz. -	£.	1,266,981	– –

In this train of reasoning there is involved the singular arithmetical anomaly, that the Tenant obtains a discount of four per cent., not merely on the price of the commodity which he is to purchase, but also on his own property, which is not on sale. This can never be intended.

If indeed the spirit and meaning of the clause be that from the fair and ordinary value of land in fee simple, the Commissioners are to make an abatement of four per cent. in favour of a purchaser; that when land is at 20 years' purchase, the Commissioners are to reckon as if it were at 19½ years' purchase only, in this case the value of the fee simple of £. 378,578. 14., being the whole estate, after deducting old and new reserved rent, is, at 19½ years' purchase - - - - - - - - - - - - - £. 7,268,711 – – which is the same thing as to abate four per cent. from it at 20 years' purchase, as above shown.

But the Tenant's interest in his Lease is no longer to be reckoned in the same way, for under these circumstances the rate of interest is no longer five per cent. but £. 5. 4. 2. per cent.

And then the value of a Lease continuing 21 years is, at half-yearly interest 12·67814246 years' purchase.

Multiplying this by £. 464,879. 1. 8., the total interest of the Tenant in his Lease is only - - - - - - - - - - - - - 5,893,803 – –

And the difference is, under any interpretation, the sum payable -	£.	1,374,908	– –
But this is short of what the Calculator conceives to be the correct value by - - - - - - - - -		132,142	– –
Such correct value being - - - £.		1,507,050	– –

The reduced valuation exceeds the estimate of the Commissioners by £. 174,908., such estimate being by the Return No. 4 only £. 1,200,000. "if all the tenants were to purchase."

The probability of the tenants purchasing in any very considerable proportion seems to be impaired by the provisions of the statute which instituted the fund, and the Act of the following year amending the same.

The tenants on Bishops' lands may be considered henceforward as forming two classes.

The 1st. Those who hold lands on the Sees which now are or in the course of time are hereafter to be suppressed.

2d. Those who hold in Bishopricks which are in future to be maintained.

With respect to the first class, as the revenue of the suppressed Sees are to appertain to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, sec. 160 of the Temporalities Act provides, that "while and so long as any tenant, &c. holding or who shall at any time hereafter hold immediately from and under the said Commissioners, shall be desirous of holding such lands, &c., by the like tenure as the same have been theretofore holden, and shall apply for a renewal of such lease, the said Commissioners shall and are hereby required to demise anew the lands, &c., for such like term or interest as may have been granted therein by the lease so surrendered, reserving by such new lease the annual rent theretofore reserved, and receiving for and in consideration of making such new lease payment of such a fine as may be equal to the average amount of the renewal fines theretofore paid, or agreed to be paid or customarily paid."

With respect to the second class, it is provided by the Act 4 & 5 of the King, cap. 90, sec. 21, that tenants so holding under any Bishop may tender to the Bishop the customary fine, and in case of his refusal to accept the same and renew the lease, the Commissioners are required to accept the tenant's proposals for a purchase of the perpetuity, and to receive all arrears of fines customarily paid up to the day of purchase for the use of the Bishop, and complete the conveyance.

In

In the First Report of the Commissioners of Ecclesiastical Revenue, page 12, there is a Table of the Fines to be paid in such cases; from which it appears, that in the case of a tenant whose profit rent might have been £.100 (and whose customary fine would therefore have been £.20. per annum), leaving his fine unpaid or disagreeing with his Bishop for ten years together, he is entitled to call on the Commissioners to convey to him the perpetuity on payment for arrears of fines - £.287 16 -

Whereas if he had regularly paid the Bishop his customary fine, the amount thereof at five per cent. would have been - - - - - - - - - - 251 11 2

The difference therefore is only - - - - - £. 36 4 10

Under this safeguard in favour of the tenant, it is not likely that the Bishop would have any inducement to refuse the customary fine.

From all these circumstances, it is impossible to answer the question implied in the precept, by assigning any definite sum as that "which may be expected to be realized by the purchase in perpetuity of the Bishop's leases."

CALCULATION explanatory of the difference of the Sum required of the Landlord to redeem £.100 Composition under the Tithe Bill of 1834, and the Sum which will be required by the proposed Bill of March 1835;—Re-payment of the Instalments under the Million Act to be included in the Calculation, with reference to the Bills and Acts, and with Notes explanatory of the same.

IT will appear from the subsequent explanation, that whereas "the proposed Bill of March 1835" required (on the supposition that land is worth 20 years purchase) in every instance the sum of £.1,500 to redeem £.100 per annum of tithe composition;—the Bill of May 1834 required for the same redemption:

1st. The sum of £.1,650. 10. In the case where an estate was absolutely free from any additions on account of arrears of tithe previously to November 1833; either because the tithe-payers had made good their payments or because the proprietor of tithe had omitted to substantiate his claim to relief under the Million Act, retaining his legal remedy to the recovery in his individual capacity.

2dly. The sum of £.1,868. 2. 1. In the case of an estate liable to a yearly instalment continuing for five years of £.47, on account of such arrears, in addition to £.100 of tithe composition. This would happen where the tithe owner had obtained the relief under the Million Act to the extent permitted of £.235 (the fifth part of which is £.47) out of £.300 of tithe owing, on the condition, however, that the chief landlord or lessee liable to the composition (with the said addition) had not himself been the person liable to pay the tithe when the arrear occurred, nor in point of fact the original defaulter.

3dly. The sum of £.1,928. 5. 11. In the case of an estate liable to a yearly instalment continuing for five years, of £.60., being the fifth part of £.300., on the supposition that the tithe owner in respect of such an estate, had obtained the relief of £.235. as above referred to; but that in this case, the person liable to the composition of £.100. (with this addition of £.60.) had been himself the actual occupier of the land at the times when the arrear of tithe had been incurred, and was in point of fact himself the original defaulter.

The Act of 16 August 1832 (2 & 3 Will. IV. cap. 119.) prescribed measures for including tithe property all over Ireland in one general system of composition rent, from the payment of which yearly tenants were to be wholly exempted. Hence the liability to pay the composition would attach either immediately or prospectively to the real proprietor of the land, and not to him who held only a temporary or partial interest therein.

A privilege was conferred on the real proprietors, as well as on certain lessees, of allowing them to undertake the payment of all the composition affecting their lands. Their reward was an abatement of 15 per cent., if they made good the composition within six months after it fell due.

And at this time it was payable half-yearly, in May and November, until the statute of 29 August 1833 (3 & 4 Will. IV. cap. 100) commonly called the "Million Act," rendered it an annual payment, falling due on the 1st November.

This last Act enabled the proprietor of tithe to receive from the Crown relief in the nature of a loan, to the extent of £.75. out of every £.100 which might then have been due to him in respect of tithe or composition for the two years ending at November 1832; and £.85. per cent. in respect of the tithe or composition which should fall due at the ensuing month of November 1833. It ordained that the said per centage, amounting to the sum of £.235. should be recovered in five instalments, the first of which should fall due at 1st November 1834, in addition to, and as if it were a part of the regular composition into which tithe had by this time been commuted, under the Act just mentioned of the preceding year. On receipt of every such instalment, the party relieved was bound to pay that same amount in part of his debt to the Crown. If, as already mentioned, the person liable to composition had been himself, and not a subordinate occupant, the original debtor of the arrear, then the whole £.300 was recoverable by five instalments, instead of £.235.

Thus, in the one case, the annual addition for the first five years was, at the utmost £.47; in the other case it was £.60, if no tithe had been paid for the whole three years; and wherever it happened that the proprietor of tithe had either made no application for relief under the Million Act, or failed in obtaining it, there was no addition.

Bill of May 1834.

The Act of 16 August 1832 having changed the income derived from the occupant of the land in the shape of tithes into an income denominated composition to be derived from the owner of the land, it was the primary object of the Bill of May 1834 to change the nature of this composition into that of a land-tax, payable to His Majesty in the first instance, and which, unless redeemed on the conditions about to be explained, was to be levied in full, together with the addenda for arrear, if any, during and for each of the five years ending at November 1838. At the sixth year ending 1st November 1839, this land-tax, if still unredeemed, was once more to be changed into a rent-charge on the head landlord of the estate, but to the extent only of 80 per cent. of the sum falling due on that day, and continuing payable for ever, unless in like manner redeemed at some subsequent time. The landlord, however, was to pay as much money for the 80 per cent., if redeemed under the name of rent-charge, as he would have been required to pay for the £.100 per cent. if redeemed under the name of land-tax.

The five Addenda, where an estate was charged with any, were to be redeemed separately by simply discounting them at four per cent.; hence, at November 1834, their value would be either £.217. 12. 1. or £.277. 15. 11., according as the addition had been £.47 or £.60 per annum. This part of the redemption money was to be immediately transferred to the Exchequer, in repayment of the monies advanced for relief under the Million Act, and the Bill exempted the parties who had received such relief from the liability to refund, which the said Act had imposed.

The land-tax itself was to be redeemed as follows:—

Measures were prescribed for ascertaining what had been the current value of land in the respective counties, on the average of ten years preceding 1831. The number of years' purchase which it was worth being thus fixed, and the land-tax of any given estate multiplied thereby, the product was the "full value," of which, however, he who redeemed was only required to pay four-fifths, besides another item for what is called the "Indemnity Fund," a term to be immediately explained. It was a small sum equal to the difference between eight-fifths of the yearly tax to be redeemed, and a per centage of £.6. 16. 10½. on the purchase-money required to be paid, or what is easier to reckon by, and amounts to the same thing, it was the difference between eight-fifths of the tax and £.5. 9. 6. per cent. of the "full value" of the same in fee-simple. Thus, if the tax were £.100 per annum, and land worth 20 years purchase, the "full value" of the tax in fee-simple would be £.2,000.

£.5. 9. 6. per cent thereof is - - - - -	£.109	10	–
And eight-fifths of £.100 per annum is - - - -	160	–	–
The difference being the item for "The Indemnity Fund," would be - - - - - - - - - -	£. 50	10	–
And 80 per cent. of the full value, viz. four-fifths, would be	1,600	–	–
So that the Total Redemption Money equals - -	£.1,650	10	–	as set forth in the above
Where there were instalments to be redeemed of £.47 per annum, the value was - - - - - -	217	12	1	Answer, Case 1st.
Total - - - -	£.1,868	2	1	as set forth in the An-
Lastly, where the instalment was £.60, there was a further charge of - - - - - - - -	60	3	10	swer, Case 2d.
Total - - - -	£.1,928	5	11	as set forth in the Answer, Case 3d.

The meaning of the term "Indemnity Fund," and the small item payable on that account, may be thus explained.

It seems to have been judged that, when the sum which was the total price of the land-tax in fee-simple was declared, four-fifths of that sum, if paid in ready money, would suffice to purchase a permanent but diminished income, equal to four-fifths of the original one represented by the tax, time being given to look out for judicious means of investment. It seems also to have been thought that two years might be requisite to effect that object. During those two years the purchase-money was to remain with the Commissioners of the National Debt, who nevertheless could only guarantee that the daily interest of it should be 2½*d.* per £.100, or £.6. 16. 10½. per cent. for the whole two years. This per centage, however, would be less than even the diminished income eventually expected, which at the end of two years ought to be at least eight-fifths of the whole original income. He who redeemed the tax was therefore required to pay down the difference, in the first instance, by way of indemnity for the loss, and this he was to pay over and above the 80 per cent. of the full value of the tax in fee-simple.

(D.) refers to No. 9.

CALCULATION of the EXPENSE which would have devolved on the Public in carrying into effect the provisions of the Tithe Bill of August 1834, by which the difference, amounting to £.17. 10., between the Rent-Charge of £.60. for every £.100. of Tithe Compositions, and the income of £. 77. 10., guaranteed to the Tithe Owners, was to have been paid out of the Consolidated Fund; the appropriation of the perpetuity purchase fund in diminution of the charge on the Consolidated Fund to be included in the calculations.

FROM a careful summation of the Returns laid before this Honourable House in the Session of 1834, (No. 309, 333 and 401), showing the amount of Tithe Composition in Ireland, it appears—

That out of the total number of Parishes in Ireland (2,324) only 80 Returns were missing.—

That in respect of the 2,244 Parishes which had compounded, the amount of composition rent was				£.645,888	14 2
And allowing a due proportion for the 80 parishes, whose composition was unknown. The total amount should be				668,915	– – per ann.
Of this rental the income proposed to be guaranteed, was 77½ per cent. or	£.518,409	2	6
While the income proposed to be collected was only to be 60 per cent., or	401,349	–	–
From this last proportion the expense of collection and all other costs and charges were to be defrayed. It was provided that the receivers alone might have any allowances not exceeding five per cent. on the sums collected. [Section 37.]
Wherefore it is computed that all the charges, including losses, might not fall short of a constant deduction of 7½ per cent. on the gross collection, viz.	30,101	3	6
So that the nett collection would be	£. 371,247	16	6
And the income guaranteed having been as above exhibited	518,409	2	6
It follows that the loss to the public would be a perpetual annuity of	£.147,161	6	–

Which annuity, if it be represented by a capital sum in Exchequer Bills, bearing interest at two-pence halfpenny per diem, the same which is allowed the Saving Banks, is the interest of one issue of £.3,870,544

The Bill of August 1834 made provision for collecting, in addition to the said 60 per cent., the arrears of tithes due at and preceding November 1833, (and which are minutely described in the Returns to this Precept (C.) by five equal instalments, the first falling due at November 1835. No allowance is made for any possible defalcation in this collection, which comprehends a sum of £.637,000; although the amount thereof is directed to be paid to the Exchequer out of the general collection, as the instalments should fall due:

The said Bill of August 1834, further provided, that the annual charge on the Consolidated Fund, which is thus estimated at £.147,161. 6., should be divided into two portions; one of which was to have reference to the lay impropriators, the other to the clergy of all ranks. The loss to be incurred on account of the latter portion was, by sec. 64, to be repaid by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, "from and out of the monies accruing to the said Commissioners on the Perpetuity Purchase Fund Account:" which was thereby "charged with and made subject and liable to the payment of all such sums, in preference to and exclusion of any other application of such Fund."

In the foregoing Return to this precept (B.) the Calculator has shown that if all the tenants were to purchase their perpetuities, the total produce thereof ought to be £ 1,507,050; whereas the Ecclesiastical Commissioners estimate the same only at £.1,200,000 in their Return, No. 4; and reasons are given for inferring a doubt as to the extent to which purchases may take place.

With respect to the portion of the total tithe composition, which is strictly clerical as distinct from lay impropriation, the papers above-mentioned are known to be somewhat inaccurate in this respect. As far as they go they show the lay impropriation to be 18 per cent. of the whole, and this is partly confirmed by the proportion of lay applicants for relief under the Million Act, who received £. 114,000 out of the total sum of £. 637,000 distributed, which is also very nearly 18 per cent. of the whole. In this proportion it would result that the total claims on the perpetuity fund would be £. 3,173,846.

CLERGY, IRELAND.

RETURN to an Order of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 29 July 1835;—for,

A CALCULATION of the INCOMES of the Archbishops, Bishops, Dignitaries, and Parochial Clergy of Ireland, before the Church Temporalities Act, under the Church Temporalities Act, and under the proposed Bill for the better regulation of ECCLESIASTICAL REVENUES, and the promotion of Religious and Moral Instruction in Ireland.

(Mr. F. Baring.)

Ordered, by The House of Commons, to be Printed,
31 July 1835.

A CALCULATION of the INCOMES of the Archbishops, Bishops, Dignitaries, and Parochial Clergy of Ireland, before the Church Temporalities Act, under the Church Temporalities Act, and under the proposed Bill for the better regulation of ECCLESIASTICAL REVENUES, and the promotion of Religious and Moral Instruction in Ireland.

Quere 1. What is the whole Income of the Church?—Answer. The whole Income of the Church, belonging to Corporations, sole and aggregate, is as follows:

I. CORPORATIONS SOLE.

	GROSS INCOME.	NET INCOME.
1. The Annual Revenue of the continuing and suppressed Sees, appears by the Report (see pages 42, 43,) of the Ecclesiastical Revenue Commissioners, to amount to - - - - -	£. s. d. 151,127 12 4	£. s. d. 128,808 8 3
N. B. The principal sources of this Revenue arise from rents reserved by lease and annual renewal fines; but the true and real amount of Episcopal Revenue is greater than is above stated, as it appears by the Commissioners' Report that there were 213 tenants under the Sees, holding for terms of 21 years, are not included in the average amount of yearly revenue for the three years ending December 1831, these tenants not having renewed within the period; neither are the casual fines, though of small amount, payable by 360 tenants, holding for terms of 40 years, included, for the same reason; but it is observed by the respective Diocesans, that if all their tenants were to renew annually, the amount of Episcopal Revenue would be increased by the annual sum of 5,500 l.
2. The income arising from Glebe lands amounts annually to	92,000 – –	81,972 – – deducting the gross amount of reserved rents 5,428 l., & the expenses of collection, at the rate of 5 l. per cent.
3. The income arising from Ministers'-money, fees, &c. in 28 City Benefices - - - - - - - - - - -	10,300 – –	9,270 – – after deducting 10 l. per cent. for expenses of collection and losses.
4. The income arising from Ecclesiastical Tithe Compositions, is - - - - - - - £. s. d. 555,000 – –
Deduct amount of compositions belonging to Archbishops, Bishops and Corporations aggregate, held either in their own hands, or let to tenants at reserved rents, and taken credit for in the amounts of their respective revenues - - - - - - - *23,218 – –
	531,782 – –	505,192 18 – after deducting 5 l. per cent. for expenses of collection.
5. The income arising to Dignitaries and Prebendaries, as such, from rents of houses and lands reserved by lease, annual renewal fines, and interest on Government stocks, exclusive altogether of tithe composition rents - - - - - -	†7,500 – –	7,125 – – after deducting 5 l. per cent. for expenses of collection.
TOTAL REVENUE of Ecclesiastical Sole Corporations - - £.	792,709 12 4	732,368 6 3

II. CORPORATIONS AGGREGATE.

1. The income belonging to Deans and Chapters, and divisible amongst the members thereof, as a common estate, (see 2d Report of Ecclesiastical Revenue Commissioners, page 126, col. vii. x.) amounts to - - - - - - - - - -	1,042 11 5	928 – 2

* The difference between this sum and that of 43,500 l., (the gross value of tithe compositions belonging to these corporations,) is at present enjoyed by their lessees, under existing leases.

† This does not include any portion of the income arising from the deanery of Christ-church, Dublin, or the prebends annexed to the Episcopal Dignity; inasmuch as these are included in the amounts of Episcopal Revenue.

II. Corporations Aggregate—continued.	GROSS INCOME.	NET INCOME.
2. The income arising from the Economy Estates belonging to 16 Deans and Chapters, (see 2d Report of Revenue Commissioners, as aforesaid, page 128, col. iv.) amounts annually to - -	£. s. d. 11,055 14 7	£. s. d. 10,552 18 11 after deducting 5*l.* per cent. for expenses of collection.
N.B. This income is appropriated to the repair of 16 cathedral churches, and the maintenance of the officers and servants of those cathedrals; but it is to be observed, that the foregoing is not the true and real amount of income arising from these estates, as it appears by the Commissioners' Report that there were 72 out of 83 tenants holding for terms of 21 years, the amount of whose annual fines are not included, inasmuch as these 72 tenants did not renew within the three years ending Dec. 1831, and the average amount of their annual fines is therefore not included in the amount of the yearly income arising from those estates, as above stated.
3. The income arising from the estates of Minor Canons, Vicars Choral, &c., (see Report aforesaid, page 156, col. xi.) amounts annually to - - - - - - - - - -	10,525 19 5	9,999 13 6 after deducting 5 l. per cent. for expenses of collection.
N.B. This income is appropriated to the sustentation of five canons, 59 vicars choral, and 15 choirmen and choristers, in 12 cathedral churches; the same observations as the preceding, with respect to the real amount of yearly revenue, applies equally, but not to the same extent, to these corporations; as out of 56 tenants holding for terms of 21 years under them, the annual renewal fines of many are not included in the average amount of yearly revenue for the three years, ending Dec. 1831, for the reason above-mentioned.
Total - - £.	815,333 17 9	753,848 18 10

N.B. In the continuing Sees, as above stated, there are 89 tenants holding for terms of 21 years, and 133 tenants holding for terms of 40 years; whose annual renewal fines ought to be, but are not, included in the average gross and net amounts of yearly income made to the Commissioners for the three years ending December 1831.

Quere 3. What is left by the Church Temporalities Bill, and the Bill of last year, for Deans, Prebendaries, &c.?—

IN the case of any dean, dignitary or prebendary who has cure of souls annexed to his dignity or prebend, the income belonging to such cure is left whole and untouched by the provisions of these Bills; but if there be any rectory, vicarage, tithes or glebes, or part or parts thereof, annexed thereto, it is competent for the Lord Lieutenant and Council, on the next avoidance, under the 124th provision of the former Bill, to disunite them from and out of such dignity or prebend; and to unite such rectory, vicarage, tithes and glebes, or part or parts thereof, to the vicarages or perpetual or other curacies of such parishes respectively; so that each such rectory, vicarage, tithes and glebes, or part or parts thereof, shall, with its respective vicarage, perpetual or other curacy, form a distinct parish or benefice.

And under the Bill of last year, the further powers given to the Lord Lieutenant and Council enable them, on the recommendation of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, to suspend, on the next avoidance, the appointment of clerks to dignities and prebends not having cure of souls, and to vest the emoluments thereof in the Commissioners, to be by them applied to the purposes to which their general fund is made applicable; applicable; or, in case there shall not be any vicar or curate in any parish, the tithes or glebes whereof may be appropriated to any dignity or prebend, it empowers them to disappropriate said tithes or glebes, or part or parts thereof, and to unite them to any neighbouring rectory, vicarage or perpetual curacy, or to erect them into a separate benefice and parish, provided divine service shall be constantly and duly celebrated therein.

Answer.—Such being the provisions of the two Bills, it is to be observed, in reply to this quere, that the Ecclesiastical Revenue Commissioners only required the dignitaries and prebendaries to return the amount of their revenues, exclusive of the amount of any benefices with cure of souls, forming the corps of their respective dignities and prebends; it would therefore be extremely difficult to ascertain what is the value of the benefices with cure forming the corps of these dignities and prebends, which will be the provision left by the Church Temporalities Bill and the Bill of last year for deans, prebendaries, &c. in case the tithes and glebes without cure shall be disappropriated therefrom.

The Commissioners have, however, inquired into and ascertained the amount of revenue of sinecure dignities and prebends; as also, of tithes without cure appropriated to other dignities and prebends; which appears to be as follows—(see 2d Report of Commissioners, p. 291):

	£.	s.	d.	£.	s.	d.
The gross amount of Sinecure Dignities, as also of tithes without cure, &c. annexed to other dignities, is						31,329 17 6
From which deduct the deanery of Christchurch, annexed to the episcopal dignity						5,314 5 11
The gross revenue of Sinecure Prebends, as also of tithes without cure, annexed to other prebends, is	8,993	6	7			26,015 11 7
From which deduct three prebends, annexed to episcopal dignities	527	6	2
						8,466 – 5
Out of 139 dignities, there are 45 without any cure of souls, the revenues of which amount to the gross sum of	13,038	15	8			34,481 12 –
And out of 178 prebends, there are 55 without any cure of souls, the revenues of which amount to	6,400	2	6

Leaving a revenue arising from tithes and glebes without cure, annexed to other dignities and prebends with cure, of £.						15,042 13 10

Quere 4. What will remain after the Bill of the present Session comes into full effect, for the Parochial Clergy; and what for Buildings and Parish Clerks?—

Answer:	£. s. d.	£. s. d.	£. s. d.

	GROSS INCOME.	NET INCOME.
2. Amount of revenue arising annually from Parochial Glebe Lands	92,000 – –	81,972 – – after deducting the reserved rents, amounting to the gross sum of 5,428 l., and expenses of collection, at 5 l. per cent.
3. Amount of revenue arising annually from Ministers'-money and fees in 28 City Benefices	10,300 – –	9,270 – – after deducting 10 l. per cent. for expenses of collection.
N.B. In addition to the foregoing amounts of revenue, the present incumbents will be entitled to receive, during existing incumbencies, from and out of the Perpetuity Purchase Fund, an accession to their incomes of 5 l. per cent., estimated to amount to	406,372 12 6*	386,363 7 6
	£. 434,372 12 6	414,363 7 6

And, with reference to the provision which will remain for †Buildings and Parish Clerks, as referred to in the latter part of the foregoing quere, it is to be observed that these expenses will be defrayed from and out of the general fund of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners; the amount of which at present (taking into account recent demises) may be calculated at 35,000 l. per annum; but which, when the Church Temporalities Acts and the present Bill come into full operation and effect, may be stated as follows:

1. From the suppressed Sees	50,780 3 3
2. From tax on Clerical Incomes	20,000 – –
N.B. Under the existing provisions of the present Bill the Commissioners will be entitled to deduct the amount of tax which would have been payable if the benefice had not been sequestered or reduced in income.
3. From annual payment to be made by future Primates	4,500 – –
4. – Ditto – – ditto – – by future Bishops of Derry	6,160 – –
5. From the Tithes and Glebes of Sinecure Dignities and Prebends, &c.; or from tithes without cure, of other Dignities and Prebends, &c.	22,000 – –
N.B. Taking into account the extension of the provisions of the Act of last session by the present Bill.
6. From interest of monies to arise from the sale of Perpetuities, from and after the payment of 5 l. per cent. to existing incumbents, supposing that, under the additional inducements held out by this Bill for the next two years, the produce of 1,200,000 l. (estimated to arise from the sales thereof) be eventually realized; subject, however, to the re-payment of any monies advanced to the Commissioners ad interim	42,000 – –
£.	145,440 3 3

N.B. For the next 15 years the Commissioners are entitled to receive the annual sum of 7,500 l., being the amount of annual instalments repayable on account of loans made for building glebe houses.

* Were the present Bill in operation, the rent-charges (remitted 30 l. per cent.) which will enure to dignities and prebends, some of which are sinecures, will amount to 16,835 l. In the case of sinecure dignities and prebends, the revenues thereof are transferable to the general fund of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners; and in the case of all other dignities and prebends, the tithes and glebes, without cure, may be disappropriated therefrom, and united to the vicarages or perpetual cures existing within the appropriate or neighbouring parishes, if these be insufficiently endowed; but if the endowment for such vicars and curates be deemed sufficient, then, and in such cases, these disappropriated tithes may, under the present Bill, be also transferred to the general fund of the Commissioners; which provision, if carried into effect, will, it is conceived, suffice to supply any deficiency that may arise in such general fund, by the transfer of the revenues of benefices, suspended under the 116th section of the Church Temporalities Act, to the purposes of the Reserve Fund.

† The average annual charge required for the repairs of churches, the payment of parish clerks' salaries and other expenses heretofore defrayed by vestry cess, with the expenses of the board, is estimated by the Commissioners to amount to 69,412 l. 6 s. 4 d. (see No. 169 of Sessional Papers, 1835, printed by order of the House), exclusive of the augmentation of small livings and the building of churches and glebe houses, to be provided out of any surplus funds in the hands of the Commissioners.

N. ELPHIN:
14,093 11 6	3,463 6 –	10,630 5 6	40	15	3	25	- - The notices do not state the sums to be paid by the landlord.
Though 83 compositions have been herein registered, there are however but 75 parishes in the diocese, some of which having been twice commuted; and though the above specified sums are the amount of these 83 certificates, yet 13,360*l.* 15*s.* 6*d.*, 3,367*l.* 19*s.* 10*d.*, 9,992*l.* 15*s.* 8*d.*, is the true amount for which these 75 parishes stand commuted for, as appears by the records of this office. I have also to observe, that several sums, under the head "Ecclesiastical," are payable to the Incorporated Society for the Promotion of English Protestant Schools in Ireland, being the lay impropriators of several parishes in the diocese of Elphin, which will more fully appear by my returns of the 11th of January 1834 and the 21st of March 1835, none of which sums the beneficed clergy here receive, which makes me suppose that the whole of these sums more properly belong to the column "Lay." 20 April 1835. *E. As I consider the property appropriate, I have placed it under the head of "Ecclesiastical."	8,839 – –	54	3	1	- -	- - There is no record in the registry of the "amount." The declarations are general as to the payment of the composition (on the estate of landlord) within the particular townland and parish. A large number of notices were served by the landlords, to make themselves "responsible;" but the further proceedings, in most cases, have been suspended, under the idea of contemplated alterations in the law.

TO THE LORDS OF HIS MAJESTY'S TREASURY.

MY LORDS,

I RESPECTFULLY beg leave to state, that I have recently (within the last nine months) made use of a considerable quantity of foreign timber and boards in the building of the new Roman Catholic Chapel, No. 5, Merchants' Quay, in this city; and as by the Act 59 Geo. III. c. 134, and the Act 3 Geo. IV. c. 72, the duties on timber so used may be drawn back by the permission of your Lordships, I respectfully entreat that your Lordships will kindly exercise the indulgence of the law towards me in this case, by ordering the duties paid at the importation of the timber and deals used in the erection of the above-mentioned Roman Catholic Chapel to be refunded to me, in such manner as your Lordships may seem meet.

(Mr. Dobbin.)

Ordered, by The House of Commons, to be Printed,
18 April 1835.

COPY of the PROCEEDINGS of an Investigation held at Armagh, of the Transactions which took place in the Neighbourhood of Keady, between the Police and Country People, on collecting an arrear of Tithe due to the Reverend James Blacker, wherein One Man was killed and several wounded; with a Copy of the INQUEST, and all other Documents connected with that Transaction.

Sir, Dublin, 3 January 1835.

IN obedience to the commands of their Excellencies the Lords Justices, conveyed to me through your letter of the 15th of December last, I proceeded to Armagh for the purpose of investigating the particulars of the affray which took place near Keady on the first of that month, between the police and certain country people, during the collection of tithes due to the Reverend James Stewart Blacker.

The inquiry was commenced on the 29th ultimo, before the Earl of Gosford and myself, assisted by the following magistrates of the county, viz. The Earl of Charlemount, the Honourable Colonel Caulfield, Sir Thomas Molyneux, bart., Thomas Kelly Evans, esq., John Barnes, esq., the Rev. James Stewart Blacker, and John Gale Jones, esq.

It appears from the written and oral evidence adduced, that on the 12th of November 1834, the Reverend James S. Blacker, incumbent of the parish of Keady, applied by letter to the Right honourable E. J. Littleton for the assistance of a police force, to enable him to collect an arrear of tithes, claimed by him to be due by a part of that parish for the years 1832 and 1833.

In reply to this request, Mr. Littleton, by letter of the 14th November 1834, informed Mr. Blacker that it would be necessary to procure affidavits proving some act of forcible resistance, or such other facts as would shew that life might be endangered or the public peace disturbed, if extraordinary measures were not employed, and that the magistrates would thereupon act upon their own judgment and responsibility; and Mr. Littleton observed that one of the magistrates ought to accompany any extraordinary force that might be ordered out.

Acting upon this communication, Mr. Blacker procured affidavits to be made by James M^c^Elroy, Francis M^c^Kernan and William Long, and also himself made an affidavit. In these affidavits facts were deposed to, showing that violence had been used and threatened towards the persons who had attempted to collect or serve processes for the tithes; and upon these documents, the two magistrates before whom they were sworn, Henry L. Prentice, esq. and Francis Stringer, esq. signed a written order, dated November 28, 1834, by which, after referring to the information on oath, and to the intention of Mr. Blacker to send out his collectors on the following Monday, they directed George Stewart Hill, chief constable at Newtown Hamilton to have the attendance of as many of the police under his command as would be sufficient to protect them, adding that the police were not to be employed unless under the superintendence of a magistrate.

In pursuance of this requisition Chief Constable Hill, at an early hour of the morning of Monday the 1st of December, collected the whole force of his district, consisting of 29 men, viz. 17 from Newtown Hamilton, and the rest from three other stations. Mr. Hill received the requisition directly from Mr. Blacker, and requested of that gentleman a short postponement of the business, in order that the requisition should be transmitted to him through the usual medium of the inspector or sub-inspector, but received from Mr. Blacker a verbal reply, desiring him to meet him (Mr. Blacker) at eight in the morning of the 1st of December, at Mr. Irwine's mill. Upon the arrival of the force near the mill, at the junction of two roads, they found Mr. Blacker there. That gentleman is a magistrate of the county of Armagh, and was the only magistrate who accompanied or acted with the police upon this occasion. It would obviously have been desirable that some other magistrate should have executed this duty. Mr. Blacker, in explanation of this part of the case, states that he had applied to two magistrates, Mr. Stringer and Mr. Olpherts, to go out with the police, which they had both declined to do.

No appearance of violence or opposition was at first manifested, although it cannot cannot be doubted, from what subsequently occurred, that means had been taken to organize a force which might be employed for that purpose, if opportunity should offer. From the commencement to the close of the transaction, horns were sounded in different directions and other signals given, the effect of which was the gradual and continued accession of numbers of persons from the adjoining country, many of whom came armed with sticks, poles, spades, pitchforks and similar weapons.

The parish of Keady consists of several townlands, in some of which the landlords have undertaken the payment of the tithe composition; but in four, of which Crossnenagh and Carrickaduff are two, the occupying tenants continue liable. It was in these latter only that Mr. Blacker required the services of the police. Four of Mr. Blacker's bailiffs or drivers were in attendance, for the purpose of collecting the arrears, and if necessary, distraining. It does not appear that any of the alleged defaulters had been personally required to pay, or even that any demand had been made at their houses. It was proved, indeed, that printed handbills had been posted in the parish, stating that Mr. Blacker would attend at the school-house in Keady, on Friday the 28th of November, for the purpose of receiving the arrears of tithe due for 1833, and for the preceding years. These notices were dated 1st November 1834. It is right to mention that the police did not, during any part of the proceedings, act as bailiffs, or at all interfere for the purpose of distraining or collecting money. This duty was discharged solely by the bailiffs, the police force being at some distance, although within sight. The drivers began in the townland of Crossnenagh, escorted by ten men, who were detached for this service by Mr. Hill, and under the direction of a serjeant named Thornhill. Mr. Hill remained behind with the main body. The distance separating the two parties of police was small, but in consequence of a winding in the road and the intervention of some high rocks, they were occasionally out of view of each other. A bailiff remained with a cart which had been provided for the removal of such articles as should be seized. The object of Mr. Hill in keeping one party with himself, appears to have been the protection of this man.

The first house at which the bailiff applied was that of a man named Moore. He refused to pay, and a cow of his was taken. This person, it was sworn, left his premises, and went to the top of a neighbouring hill, whence he shouted. People were then observed collecting, particularly from the direction of the county of Monaghan. No attempt, however, was made to retake the cow, nor indeed was any demonstration of rescue made throughout the whole time. An impression seems to have prevailed amongst some of the parishioners, that it was no longer legal to demand tithes, a feeling which was probably caused, or at all events confirmed by the fact, that their neighbours in the adjacent townlands had not been called upon. Some, upon being required to pay, asked Mr. Hill if it was a lawful claim, and upon his assuring them that it was, expressed their readiness to acquiesce. Whatever was the cause of their disinclination, it is evident that they had in most instances predetermined not to pay, for several had placed their cattle and goods within their houses, and fastened the doors. In consequence of the refusal of the owners to admit the bailiffs, the latter forced some doors; in one or two cases, upon the bailiffs declaring their intention to do so, the doors were opened without further opposition.

Four or five distresses were taken, which were removed to the cart without any molestation from either the owners or the crowd collected in the fields. Mr. Blacker was not with the drivers during the making of the distresses, but remained on horseback near Mr. Hill's party, or on a small road branching off from that on which the bailiffs were employed; but in such a situation, that by riding round an angle he could speedily come up.

Although no actual violence had hitherto taken place, the people continued to assemble, and their appearance, numbers, shouts and general demeanor were strongly indicative of hostile intentions. Horns were constantly sounded amongst them; they huzzaed, and ran brandishing their weapons; some of them called out to the police when they began to move, "not to go until they got it." A little boy came down from the crowd to the ditch next the road where Hill's party were stationed, and reckoned their number. He said, "Is that all there is of you," and returned to the people, with whom he seemed to communicate, and a loud cheer was then uttered. Mr. Hill states that two shots were also heard, one appearing to be an answer to the other, by way of signal. Reinforcements were regularly arriving, and expressions were used showing an expectation of a muster, such as "What keeps them." From all these circumstances there was good ground to apprehend disturbance.

After the distresses had been made, Mr. Hill and his party moved towards Irwine's mill, the detachment which had been with the drivers not having then rejoined their companions. The people went along with the police (Mr. Hill's party,) and some entered into conversation with the men, who were, however, forbidden by the chief constable to speak. Expressions are sworn to have been used by some of the people, abusing Mr. Blacker, and showing violent hostility against persons engaged about tithes. Mr. Hill states, that in a few moments the mob were concealed from his view by a little hill; and that, upon looking round, he saw them emerge from behind this hill, running in an opposite direction from that in which they and his party had been proceeding. It then struck him that their accompanying the police had been merely a feint, and that they had availed themselves of the concealment afforded by the hill to wheel suddenly round, with a view of rushing down to the road, and throwing themselves between him and the detachment of 10, so as to cut off the latter, and then fall upon them. He therefore hastily faced his men about, and ordered them to run in double quick, so as to effect a junction with the others.

Meanwhile the detachment under Serjeant Thornhill, having performed the duty at the houses, were on their return, and observed the movement before mentioned, of the people running down in the direction of a line between them and the chief constable. Upon seeing this, Thornhill halted his party, and ordered them to prime and load, which it appears they had not previously done. This order was heard by the multitude, and had the effect of arresting their progress, or at least that of the foremost of them. They stopped upon a rock or rising ground, about 50 or 60 perches from the road. Sticks, poles, pitchforks and other weapons were seen amongst them; but no fire-arms, with the exception of one gun held by a man in the front, described as a ringleader. It is a very remarkable circumstance, that one of the drivers, who followed close after the police party, and who had at least as good an opportunity of observation as any of them, positively states that there were no fire-arms, although he corroborates the evidence of the constables as to the other weapons. The fact, however, that there was one gun has been deposed to by so many persons, that it must be considered as fully proved. The people brandished their bludgeons and huzzaed; and the man with the gun, as one of the witnesses states, appeared to be priming. As far as can be ascertained from the evidence, the number collected was about 100; but reinforcements were arriving, and although the front ranks had halted, those behind were coming up.

The constables having loaded, resumed their march, without any symptoms, on the part of the multitude, of a design to attack or molest them. Thornhill, upon seeing the man with the gun, said he would arrest him; and desired a file of men to follow him for that purpose. He and two others then left the road, crossed the ditch, and proceeded into the field towards the crowd. The rest of his party went after them. Upon Thornhill's arrival at the rock, he states that he called upon the man who had the gun to surrender. He went up to the man, seized hold of the gun, and attempted to wrest it from the countryman, who struggled to retain it. An instantaneous attack commenced upon the police. Showers of stones were thrown at them; repeated blows were given to them with sticks; their carbines were seized, and two were forcibly taken from them. Two policemen were knocked down. Then, and not till then, a shot was fired, and was followed by several others. It is impossible to discover by whom that first shot was fired, but no order to fire was given. The men used their carbines, each as he could, without any command or regularity, and almost in actual contact with the multitude. One countryman named James Hughes was killed; another was wounded. I could not ascertain whether any others had received injuries, although I tried all means to obtain information upon that point. I do not believe that more than one life was lost; and although it is probable that more than one person was wounded, yet the number cannot have been great, no person but the deceased Hughes having been found upon the ground, after the retreat of the country people.

The conflict was very short; it was over before Mr. Hill and his party could reach the place where it occurred, although it commenced in their view, and they were running. Upon Mr. Hill's arrival, he found four of the policemen on the ground, two of them badly wounded. The people were running away, but two of them them turned about and fired shots at the police, one of whom swore that he heard the ball pass close beside him. These shots were fired from two of the carbines which had been taken from the police. They were afterwards recovered. The policemen, who were examined, declined to answer, whether any shots were fired after the people began to retreat, or whether there had been any reloading of arms. It is therefore to be presumed that this was the case; no order, however, was given either to reload or to fire. The people dispersed in different directions: the greater number in the direction of Monaghan. Mr. Blacker was not at the scene of action at the commencement of the affray; but upon seeing it, rode up quickly, and called out to the police to cease firing.

It was found that a policeman named Long had received several wounds, one two inches and a half long on the back of the head, and one on the top; both apparently from a sharp instrument; a contused wound on another part of the head, and several others of a very dangerous nature; that another constable, Irwine, had received a wound which divided his nose transversely and penetrated down to the face, supposed to be caused by the prong of a pitchfork; that Eggenton, a constable, had a very severe wound in the head, from which a concussion of the brain was apprehended, and that two others had sustained serious injuries. From the nature and number of these wounds, and the very short time occupied in the transaction, it is clear that the people must have used their weapons with great violence. Two of the wounded men swore that they were knocked down and rendered senseless before any shot was fired, so completely senseless that they never heard any shot at all.

Such are the particulars (as to be collected from the evidence) of this unfortunate occurrence, which however, it is satisfactory to think, has not been attended with so much bloodshed as was at first apprehended. Upon that point the case is still involved in some degree of mystery, none of the country people who were on the spot having come forward as witnesses. Being desirous, if possible, of gaining some satisfactory intelligence upon it, I caused application to be made to the priest of the parish of Keady, who stated that he was unable, of his own knowledge, to furnish any, but that he had every reason to believe that there had been only one person killed and one wounded.

It will be seen from the preceding detail, that the police did not use their arms until they had been violently assailed, their carbines attempted to be taken from them, and their lives exposed to hazard. For the use of them, under the circumstances which at the moment existed, they cannot therefore be fairly censured, even though they acted without any command from their officer. And had this been the only view taken of the case, I should have no difficulty in expressing an opinion that they were justified by the emergency of the occasion. But I cannot say that I am altogether satisfied that such a necessity might not have been avoided.

In the first place, it is to be regretted that Mr. Blacker or some other magistrate was not on the spot at the moment when Thornhill left the road for the avowed purpose of arresting one of the country people. The order of a magistrate for that purpose would have been more regular, and his presence might have had the effect of producing a submission.

In the next place, the sending forward a detachment without being accompanied by an officer of greater rank than a serjeant, appears to have been injudicious, not only as likely to invite attack, but also as not providing sufficiently for the proper and prudent direction of the men, in the event of any difficulty. It is but due to Mr. Hill, however, to remark, that he might reasonably have thought that the disposition made by him was the best, with a view to the security, as well of the bailiffs as of the distresses, which latter it might fairly be supposed would be, rather than the bailiffs, the object of attack, and would therefore require the presence of the greater force. And it appears that Mr. Hill acted throughout with the utmost forbearance and coolness, and at the same time with great promptitude and energy. It must be recollected that there was no ground on his part to anticipate what occurred.

Lastly, there is reason to infer, that if Thornhill and his party had not left the road, and advanced towards the people, the police might have succeeded in carrying away the distresses without opposition. It is perfectly true that the mob had all along conducted themselves with so much violence, as to justify expectations of an attack; that they had furnished themselves with missiles and weapons to be so used, if opportunity should arise; that they were an unlawful assembly of persons; that they had committed a misdemeanor, and that the arrest of one of them by a constable was a justifiable if not a laudable act. But they were not, in point of fact, the aggressors; they had not invited or threatened an immediate conflict; they had halted upon hearing the order to load; they had, at the most, but one gun; they suffered the police to approach quite close to them, and it was not until the seizure of the gun that they resorted to actual violence. Under those circumstances it seems not improbable that even had their original design been to intercept and assail the detachment, they had abandoned it, intimidated by the order for loading, and the approach of the other party, and that Thornhill and his men could have kept them in check, and proceeded along the road, to join Mr. Hill, after which the whole force might have regained their barracks without interruption. Thornhill himself could not have been in apprehension of an immediate onset, or he would not have ventured to approach the people, attended by only two men

These remarks must be understood as applicable rather to the prudence than the legality of the proceeding, which I consider to have been in no respect contrary to law.

The coroner's jury, it appears, returned a verdict that Hughes was murdered by a policeman unknown. The evidence brought forward on the investigation would not, as it seems to me, justify such a finding. At all events, no proof has been given as to the individual who fired at Hughes, and I apprehend that there is no legal ground for imputing the criminality (if any) of one of the party to all who were engaged.

I have subjoined to this Report, for the better information of their Excellencies the Lords Justices, copies of the written documents produced, and a full detail of the parole evidence. I should have wished the latter to have applied more directly to some facts connected with the case; but the imperfection has arisen from the reluctance of the people of the country to come forward, notwithstanding the publicity of the inquiry, and the frequent intimation of the desire of those who presided, to receive any testimony which could throw light upon the transaction.

Edward Hughes, sworn.

I AM brother of the deceased; I live at Crossnenagh, near Carrickaduff, in the parish of Keady. My brother lived near me; he had a house of his own; we had a joint lease to three brothers, viz. deceased, Michael and myself. We paid our tithes the morning of the affray, and before it; the police were coming with Mr. Blacker; Mick paid for us all; James was present; Mick inquired of Mr. Blacker if it was lawful to pay, and that he would pay; Mr. Blacker said, he would not go out, if it was not lawful, the money was paid on that. James had to go to a funeral of a friend, near Carrickaduff; I went to my sisters', to tell them we had paid, and desired them to do the same; their names are Biddy and Nelly Hughes; I staid awhile at my sisters', and the affray was going on when I came out; my sisters' house was only five or six perches off; the police and people were then engaged. I saw something like poles or sticks with the people, two or three of them; I did not stay long. The funeral was just above my sisters' house; when I came out, I saw James just above me on the out edge of the rock, where the people were, he was not amongst the foremost; I could not see him whilst the affray was going on. There was a party with James; they stood out from the rest; neither he nor those about him were engaged in the fight. I heard no horns; I saw people on the hills; I stopped to look; I was only two or four minutes there; I think I saw stones thrown from both sides; shots were fired, before the stones were thrown; I heard several shots, I cannot say how many; I saw him shot; he said he was done, "murder, I am done." He walked three or four steps. I ran away; it was a policeman shot him; he was on his way to the funeral; the fray was between my sisters and the funeral. I saw people on the hills.

James Hughes, sworn.

I LIVE at Carrickaduff; I am no relation of the deceased. I was at my house on the 1st of December; the police came to my house and two countrymen, they rapped at the door; I was outside, my wife and children were inside; the door was not opened; they put their shoulders to the door, and threatened to break it. I then told them inside to open the door, which they did; they went in; there was a pig in the house; they drove it out, and took it a little way. They seemed injuring the pig, and I said I would settle the tithe. It was a joint tithe between four of us, 1 l. 0 s. 6 d. in all. We were not altogether at first; we hold by lease. We got back the pig, on condition of settling the tithe; the countrymen had receipts, but no names in them. We went towards Mr. Blacker to Mr. Irwine's mills; as we were going, a crowd of people were in a field off the road; there was a good many; they made no great noise; they were standing, when I first saw them; I saw no disturbance amongst them; I did not see where they came from; I was behind the police; there were eight or nine policemen; when the police saw the crowd, one of the police turned round and desired them to charge; they appeared to charge, and walked along the road a little, then stepped over a ditch into the field, and went to the crowd. The crowd stood all this time; there was not a whole field between; I heard a voice say, "stand your ground," but cannot say whether it came from the police or the crowd; the crowd stood whilst the police were moving; I stood; I saw the police come up close to the crowd; I saw some hustling about some kind of weapon; the struggling went on a little, a few minutes only before the firing; I heard three or four shots fired nearly together; the police and people were close together when the firing began; the country began to run away; the country ran immediately when the shots were fired; they ran towards Monaghan; there were shots fired whilst the crowd was running, and in all the directions they took; the shots came from the police; I saw the police going after them; they fired in the second field; the police fired some shots whilst the crowd was in the second field. The police went on to the broad road; I saw a man down; I saw two, a policeman and a countryman, both down; I could not see whether the policeman had any arms, or the countryman. I knew the deceased, but did not distinguish him at that time; I saw him afterwards dead on the ground. I saw no stone thrown, I was too far off; I do not think the whole fight lasted five minutes; I only saw one weapon, that is, the one they were fighting about; I think there were about 40 or 50 in the crowd; the weapon was like a stick. I paid tithe for 1832, viz. 1 l. 0 s. 6½ d.; I heard of a notice to pay tithes some little time before this. I heard no other shots than those fired from any other quarter than the police; I did not hear a horn that morning; there might be for me, as I live in the upper part of the townland. I saw people on a hill that Mr. Blacker was on at first; the police could have gone on to the mill, without going through the field; the road was the ready way, but the field would be shorter.

George Stewart Hill, sworn.

I AM chief constable. I was stationed at Newtown Hamilton the 1st December. I received the requisition signed by the two magistrates (produced). I had 17 men at Newtown Hamilton. The district consisted of 29 men; the whole force was then at my command; 31 is my full number. I wrote to Mr. Blacker on receipt of the requisition, to beg a postponement of the matter, as the requisition did not come through the inspector or sub-inspector; the requisition had been forwarded to me directly from Mr. Blacker; I received a verbal message in reply from Mr. Blacker, desiring me to meet him at the place appointed, viz. Mr. Irwine's mill, at the appointed time, at eight on the morning of 1st December. I left Keady at seven with 21 men; a short distance from Mr. Irwine's we were joined by eight more from Middleton, Tynan and Madden; the whole were 29; we went to where the roads meet near the mill; Mr. Blacker was there; we met no molestation; I saw nothing to lead me to expect disturbance; some distresses had been made before we came up, but in our view; I saw no attempt then to rescue; no doors broken; pigs and cows were taken; they did not appear to have been locked up; I had not then heard horns; they went on distraining after we came; the police did not distrain; in the cottage at the mill I first observed appearances appearances of resistance; they asked me whether they would be obliged to pay tithes for the garden; I said certainly; a man without a coat who appeared to be the owner, asked the question; he said it was very hard to pay when no other neighbouring towns did; one said he thought they were done away with; there is a general feeling there that tithes have been done away with; one man said d—n my soul if ever I pay unless I am made; I said they ought to submit to the law; there was a crowd collecting on the hill near, at this time; a miller was distrained, named Kelly; the police were standing on the road; I saw no distress made; when we came up first 10 men were told off, and sent rather in advance to the right; they were sent for the protection of the drivers; the drivers were M^c^Elroy, Francis M^c^Rorey, William Marlow and John Maxwell; there was a cart for the purpose of removing the distresses; the 19 men remained behind for some time, about three quarters of an hour, or an hour; Mr. Blacker advised us to go round to meet the 10 men on their return; the 10 men were not out of my sight; we heard horns in different parts, and two shots, one on the right, and the other on the left, like signal shots; they did not come from my men; I saw the smoke of one near a turf-stack at a house about 300 or 400 yards off; we could see the people about it; this was in answer to the shot from the right; I heard on the right repeated cheers; people shouted as reinforcements came; I heard the people say "what keeps them"; I heard oaths, and imprecations and threats; I saw the hills thicken, and people arriving, particularly on the right; we saw heads behind the ditch, but could not see the persons; we saw weapons with the people, poles, sticks and spades; some of the people were within 200 yards of us; they did not speak to me, but they said to the police as they were going to old Mr. Irwine's "don't go away till you get it;" the police had not then loaded their carbines; I had ordered them to unfix bayonets; the expressions were used more than once; I saw no stones at that time; they used menacing gestures, waving sticks; they moved about; a little boy came down and counted the men; he came from the crowd; he said, "is that all there is of you;" he went back to the crowd and joined them; there was then a cheer; we were then stationary; the ten men were on the left, and we were on the road between them and the crowd; one cow was brought, and a file of two guarding it, and given in charge to the bailiff who had been left with us with the cart; no opposition was then made; the two men did not go back, but staid with us; the people moved a little as if going backwards; I think on different hills there were from 300 to 500 persons; they moved simultaneously backward, as if converging or moving parallel to the road; they appeared to be in concert; they shouted as they moved; I brought to the right about when I saw this; the eight men had not then rejoined us; I moved towards Irwine's mill on the Keady road; some of the people talked with the men, but I desired them to keep aloof; I heard Mr. Blacker abused by the people immediately about us; the crowd moved parallel to us, till we came to the turn of the road; we turned up towards the mill; one man said it was well they brought out the police, as no process-server would be allowed to act there; Irwine's miller joined in this; we had not been attacked up to this time, whilst these expressions were going on; I thought it was meant as a decoy, as the crowd then left our view and retired behind a hill; I told Mr. Blacker to bring down the cart after us, and that I would go to protect the men; I turned back again and went to my former station to co-operate with those in advance; I had sent a file to reinforce them to the original number (10 or 11); as we went back we saw the crowd emerge from behind the hill running towards the detached party, as if to cut them off from us; they had weapons of different descriptions; they were not shouting; they hoped, I thought, to escape observation; I ordered the men to double quick; our men were in our sight, and in line; the crowd came within 12 or 14 yards of the road; there was a rock that concealed them from us for a time, but when I next saw them they appeared on the retreat, that is, dispersing in different directions, with the exception of about eight; I had been running; we crossed a ditch off the old road; when I came up after 30 or 40 seconds from the time I lost sight of them behind the rock, I saw sub-constable Ford running from the crowd, that is, the eight or ten who had not retreated; I saw several heads, and I saw from 12 to 20 stones thrown after him; he was running away; on his joining, two countrymen ran down a field in front of me; instantly two shots went off from the two who ran down; they had guns; they were running from us, and turned and fired towards us; these were not the first shots fired that day; I could not see what arms they were; the ditch from which they fired was from 70 to 100 yards off; the rest of the men then came up, and joined us and Mr. Blacker; I pursued the two men, and had advanced 20 yards when I saw a policeman named Long lying in a stubble furrow in the field; there was another about eight yards from Long endeavouring to come to me, but he was in the act of falling when I caught him; his name is Irwine; he was wounded; he told me to assist the others, as he might as well die there; I observed a wound on his nose; his head was cut; I thought he would not live till we got to Keady; I lifted Long, who was also desperately wounded; sub-constable Craig was also wounded above the eyebrow; Egginton was also badly wounded in the head; he staggered up to us; I saw sub-constable Carson, who complained that his finger was broken; almost all in the advance party complained of wounds; the crowd were then dispersing; I heard two shots in front, and two on my left before I came up; some of them must have come from our detached party; I think not more than six were fired before I came up; they were not fired till after I saw the crowd come from behind the hill; after we came up our men fired from nine to twelve shots; the crowds were then in different directions; they were running, retreating; the shots were fired after them; I said to the men on the right, "take down those fellows that fired at me," and they then fired; I did not say "fire;" I had given no order previously; I did not apprehend the people were coming back; I don't think any of those shots took effect; I saw two policemen's caps bloody, and two bloody pitchforks between where I was, and where I saw Long; when I say the crowd was retreating, I mean only the crowd that attacked us; the other crowds on the hill had not moved; I think they would have hazarded another attack; the men on the left said, "These are the men that chased Ford;" this was not before I gave the order to fire; I did not see any one fall.

Samuel Magee, Surgeon, sworn.

I WAS called upon to visit the wounded policemen at Keady, 1st December; the same day I saw six in all, Long was the first; he had a wound two and a half inches from back of head. [Here witness read from a memorandum, a copy of which is subjoined to the evidence.] Long is still ill; the wound was not closed; there were different kinds of wounds. [Here the witness detailed the particular nature of the wounds from a written memorandum made by him at the time, a copy of which will be found in a subsequent part of the Appendix.]

Patrick Hughes, sworn.

I AM son of the deceased; I am 16 or 17 years of age; I lived with my father at Crossnenagh, in Keady parish; my father owed tithes to Mr. Blacker; I remember the day the police came; I was at home, so was my father; I saw them at our house; there were drivers; I think the tithe was paid before they came; there was no seizure made; my father went to Mr. Blacker to pay the tithes; the police did not stop at our house, they went bye; I did not see them stop at any house; they stopped at the rock on the road; there were many on the road; there was not a great crowd; I think there were not 20; they were standing; I saw the police go into the field; I was standing at my aunt's turf-stack, looking on; the people stood on the rock; I was near enough to distinguish the faces in the crowd; I saw the police go up to the people; my father had not come back from paying his tithe; I heard a noise of people running; I saw no fighting or struggling; I saw some sticks with the people; there was no spade, but I saw pitchfork shafts; I did not see them waved about; I saw no engagement; my father was on the path; it goes over the rock; he was standing when I first saw him; he was at the end of the crowd, at the end near me; the first thing I saw was my father shot by a policeman; I would not know him; there were about a dozen policemen; my father was not in the crowd; I saw no stones thrown; I went to my aunt's; I came out after a short time, and went up to my father; there were only a few about him; there were some women; I saw the police going down the rock after the country, and firing at them; the people were running; my father was a little above the policeman who fired, rather below him; my father's side was to him; the policeman was about two yards off when he fired; I hear a horn every morning; I heard one that morning; there had been some disturbance before the shot was fired; I saw crowds on the hills; that is not usual; my father lived at a different side of the mill from my aunt; I saw people running; this made me go out; I went to my aunt's; the high road was the direct way; I went through the fields a near cut; I went part of the way through the road; the people were running down the hill towards the rock;

I could

I could not see the people running from my father's house; I joined the people when they were going to my aunt's house; I stopped, and they went on; I saw some of my neighbours; I knew them by their countenances; it was the same party that was on the rock; I saw two-handed clubs and sticks with them; I thought they were going to meet the police; there were not so many as 20 or 30; there were many children; there were some women; they were running towards the police; I saw the police at Irwine's mill, the crowd was running between them and the other police; if they continued running they would have gone between; I thought it likely there would be a fight.

Henry Thornhill, sub-constable, sworn.

I WAS one of the party; I was then constable, and had charge of the party, that is the 11; they were detached; we had three or four drivers; at one house they attempted to rescue a prisoner; I ordered to fix bayonets; our pieces were not loaded; threats were used at the first house; one man d—d his soul if he would let the police bring him; the people gathered round; I saw them gathering, that was the first appearance of gathering I saw; I had not then heard horns; we brought back the prisoner to the main body; we then went to the left on to the rock; distresses were taken, and sent by some of the men; the people at this time were gathering on the hills at a good distance; I then heard horns in three different places; some doors were broken, others threatened, four houses were distrained; it took an hour and a half; during this time the crowd increased all the time; the horns continued sounding, and there were shouts; hats were waving as signals; after distraining, we were returning to the main body; there was about a quarter of a mile between; the main body were in sight when we began to move back; a small hill then shut them out of view; I was beside the party; I saw the crowd running in a line between the two bodies of police; I think the whole body of the crowd amounted to about 100; they were running fast and shouting; I ordered the men to halt, and prime and load; the crowd was then coming on; they were about two fields off; there was another party walking after us, there were 15 or 20; I desired them to stand back; they would not; they were close upon us; the other party was within a few perches at this time; I marched on; the party behind followed; I came within a short distance of the running party; I saw one man with a gun, apparently a ringleader; it was a dark stock gun, like a fowling piece; I saw no other gun; I saw pitchforks and grapes, and large stones, and bludgeons; there were five or six pitchforks only; there were a great number of bludgeons; the leader appeared to be priming his gun; the sticks were brandished; I ordered a file of two men to follow me, as I intended to arrest that man; I came up, and cocked my piece; we then stepped out towards the man; I think we were within three perches or less of him; he levelled the gun low, and was raising it to his eye; I took my gun up to my eye, and said, "If you bring her to your eye, I will shoot you;" he then lowered the gun; I then sprang upon him, and arrested him, and took the gun; he resisted, and when I arrested him, the people gathered round and rescued him, and attempted to take my arms; they did not succeed; I never retook that man; I think I would know him; we three crossed first to make the arrest; the rest of the party followed when they saw me attacked; the whole party came up; the crowd had taken a stand in the field on a rock near the road side; it was a bye-road; part of them had come to a halt before the man appeared to prime, and before we left the road; we three first went up, whilst the front were standing, and made the arrest; the three were about two perches in front of the rest of the party; my cap was knocked off; I saw one of my men lying down about a minute and a half; I saw a volley of stones thrown; I think the stones threw the men down; the crowd was between 50 and 100; the stones were large; I saw a stone aimed at one man; when they attempted to take the arms, and had rescued the prisoner, a shot was fired; I did not give any order to fire; there could not have been any other shot before that, other shots were fired, eight or nine were fired; I heard no order to fire; I considered our party in danger; I believe the people would have followed if we had retreated; the gun from the crowd was not fired; I saw Egginton down, and Long; I think we could not have escaped, if Mr. Hill had not come up, as we had only four effective men; after the shots were fired, the mob stood their ground, and threw stones; they stood about a minute and a half; they then retreated, but not till Mr. Hill came up; after the people retreated, I will not say whether any shots were fired;

I heard shots fired as the people were retreating, which I think did not come from the police; after Mr. Hill came up, I heard four or five shots; I would not have left the road, if I had not seen the man with the gun; I think I would have arrested the man at all events, as being the head of such a crowd; I ordered the men to load in consequence of the appearance of the country; before I arrested the man, I called upon him to surrender; this was before he raised the gun.

William Long, sub-constable, sworn.

I WAS one of those under charge of Thornhill; as we were coming back, I saw a very large crowd, and many coming to them from different directions; I first saw them on a hill above the main body of police; I heard horns sounded; it continued at least two hours; the crowd moved towards us, with a horn blowing; I think the foremost of the party had the horn; there was a rock at this time between us and the main body of police; the crowd were moving with pitchforks, grapes and bludgeons of sticks; they were shouting; I saw one gun with a man in front; they stopped about three perches from us; we went towards our main party; as we went along, they were coming up; our serjeant said, "They have firelocks with them," and ordered us to prime and load, which we did; he said he would make that man a prisoner, and take the carbine from him, and ordered a file to go with him; I, and Irwine, and two others went with him; when we came within five or six yards of the people, the man presented the carbine low to the serjeant; the serjeant said "If you shoot at me, I'll blow the head off of you," and presented his carbine; the man then shifted his carbine, as if not going to shoot; the serjeant then went forward, and took the carbine; several people then began to lay on the serjeant with sticks; I saw him get blows of sticks; I saw his cap knocked off; I ran forward to keep off the crowd from him; a person seized hold of my carbine, and attempted to take it; about six or seven laid on me with sticks on the head; I was knocked senseless; no shot had been then fired, nor had any order to fire been given; I had not discharged my carbine; I recollect nothing till Mr. Hill took me up; I think I would know some of the people; the crowd were coming very fast on us; some of the crowd were between us and our main body; I could not see any stones thrown; when we were approaching the crowd, I saw that some of them had stones in their hands.

John Irwine, sworn.

I AM a sub-constable; I was of Hill's party, and was one of the 10 men detached with Thornhill; as we came back, I saw a crowd of men coming armed mith different kinds of weapons, pitchforks, clubs and sticks; I saw one musket or fowling-piece in front. They were blowing horns, shouting and cheering, and crying "Come on boys," running very furiously towards us. When Thornhill gave the order to prime and load, they stopped not far from us. Thornhill went towards them, to make the man with the gun a prisoner; they closed on him. I went in with Thornhill; he endeavoured to arrest the man; he was rescued. I endeavoured to push them off with my carbine. They opposed me; when I got them off Thornhill, they closed on me with weapons, pitchforks, poles and clubs. I was beaten severely, and knocked down and robbed of my arms. There had been no firing at that time; I was knocked senseless, and never heard any firing; as long as I had my senses, there was no firing. The mob said at different times before the fray, that they would pay no tithe. I do not know what I was struck with; I was wounded all over; the inside case of my watch was dinged. The crowd might be between 50 and 100. People were coming up all the time to reinforce them. I was the next knocked down after the serjeant. I had not fired. I think I should know some of the crowd.

Reverend James Stewart Blacker.

I AM incumbent of the parish of Keady; it was at my request the party went out; I am a magistrate; I knew that a magistrate ought to accompany them; we started about 7, and arrived about 8; we first stopped at Moore's, at Crossnenagh; he owed tithes for three years; I demanded his tithes from him; he did not offer to pay; I distrained a cow outside; he said, "we should not keep her long;" no attempt was made to rescue; he went up the hill, and shouted out loud; the cow was afterwards released; we next went to Hanratty; he paid; we then went went to Hughes, who paid. In Carrickaduff, we first met opposition at another Hughes; his doors were locked; he owed a year for 1833; I demanded, admission, which was refused; I went to another Hughes, whose house was also shut; on my return, I met the first Hughes, who said, "You will go home faster than you came, for by G—d we will make you;" the 10 police were then in sight on the hill; I arrested him in my capacity of magistrate and called the police, to whom I gave him in charge; whilst doing so, the people ran up to the top of the hill, and shouted; I heard them say, "What the h—ll keeps the Monaghan people;" Hughes expressed contrition, and I let him go; a boy came down, and counted the police; he went back to the crowd; I heard the horns sounding all day; not as usual, but in the direction of Monaghan; no attempt was made to rescue any distress; Irwine's miller, Kelly, was very abusive; he would not pay tithe; his cow was distrained; Mr. Irwine had noticed me to take the tithes of 1834; I agreed, stating that his property was in arrear, some for 1833, some for 1832, and a few for 1831; and offered him the arrears, with 15 per cent. reduction; he refused; he begged I would notice them to pay; I got bills printed, and sent them to his steward; I did not see any of them posted; I came up after the fray; I saw Long and Irwine down; the people were running away; one policeman then fired, but it was because he was falling; the ball passed close to me, although I was coming in an opposite direction; I think I heard 5 or 6 shots fired; I had seen the crowd collecting in all directions; I saw appearance of weapons, pitchforks; one had a turf spade; Mr. Stringer resides near me; I had applied to two magistrates to go out, but they declined; I thought it right to go myself; I applied to Mr. Stringer and Mr. Olpherts; I had attempted, the December before, to serve civil bill processes; the process server was nearly killed, and his house was attacked; there was a trial about it; I had not demanded the tithes; I had never done so; I did not deviate from my usual course; Mucknagh is the adjacent parish; I demanded no money out of the million; these four townlands were the only part of the parish not taken by the landlord; I did not apply for the million; M^cKenna had not paid his tithe of 1832; on the arrest of Hughes, I said to the men not to be rash; the parish was compounded in 1826.

Wednesday, December 31, 1834.

William Gollaker, sworn.

I AM a policeman; I was one of the party on the 1st December; I was one of the ten under Thornhill; I was with the drivers. I saw one door broken in, and a cow taken out, whilst we returned the people were collecting together in a very violent manner with forks and weapons, such as long poles. I saw one fire-lock with them; it was in the front of the body; at first they were moving quick, apparently to close in on us; we were going back to join the main body; we got orders to prime and load; when they heard that, they stopped. It was in a field, only part of the field off; we went on the road a little way; when the fire-lock was observed, the serjeant went over the ditch, and the rest followed; he said there was a fire-lock; we followed; Thomhill went up, and got hold of the fire-lock; the stones then began to be thrown; I saw people stoop down to get stones; there were numerous stones; I had heard cheering before we came up; I saw some of our men knocked down with stones; I saw Egginton knocked down; I saw them beating at Irwine and Long with poles; I did not see what became of the fire-lock; the serjeant did not get the fire-lock from the man; I saw stones thrown in all directions; I am sure the stones were thrown before a shot was fired, so was the beating with the poles; I cannot say how many shots were fired; I asked him whether any of the party reloaded and fired again, but he declined to answer; the people encouraged each other in Irish; I did not hear any order given to fire. [Witness declined to answer whether any were wounded except Hughes.] I have reason to believe others were wounded of the country people; when the firing began, the people continued for some time to stand their ground, and throw stones; I saw stones thrown after a shot was fired; I was struck with a stone; I cannot say whether it was before or after the firing, Egginton was knocked down; I am not certain whether any from our men were knocked down before the firing, but I saw them beaten before; the people ran in different directions towards the mountain. [Witness declined to answer whether there there was any firing after the people ran.] One shot was fired after they began to run; I am only certain of one; before the breaking of the door, a demand was made that it should be opened; it was the drivers who made the demand.

John Boland, sworn.

I AM a sub-constable; I was placed between the cart, and the place of the fight; I was not one of the ten; I was left to keep up communication, and protect Mr. Blacker; I had observed appearances of people collecting; I heard horns, and shots fired from the Monaghan side; I heard one or two; these shots could not have come from our men; I saw people running in different directions; I heard them waving their hats and shouting to our party not to go away until they would gather; they were on a hill, and we in a hollow under them; I had not loaded at the time; this shouting, &c. took place both before and after Thornhill was sent on; I dare say it lasted an hour; Mr. Hill ordered us to run double quick; the people were running from the Monaghan side towards our ten men; the country reached the ten men before we got forward; I heard shots, but could not see; I was standing; I saw Mr. Blacker running towards the place; I ran down to the place; I saw smoke, and I saw a countryman who had been running, turn round and fire towards the police; he was about 50 yards off them; I saw shots fired after that; I cannot say any more were fired by the country people; the people appeared numerous; they ran away scattered; I kept to the right of the ground to meet the rest of the party, and joined; four men were left with the cart; I saw the wounded policeman; I heard there were more of the country wounded; I did not see them; I did not fire or go into the field; the whole thing might occupy ten minutes; I saw things like pitchforks with the people; when the countryman fired, the police were all together; Mr. Blacker did not come forward, till all was over; three of our men lost their arms; did not wish to answer whether the police fired, after the people ran.

William M'Cann, sworn.

I AM a sub-constable; I was out on the 1st December; I was sent with Thornhill; we saw a great many on hills, huzzaing and waving hats; we heard horns and shouts, both before and after Thornhill was sent; I saw one door broken; as we returned, some of the people came after us; they did not carry weapons or make a noise; the other party left the hill, and came running and shouting towards us; they had staves, pitchforks and one gun; the gun was in front; we were waiting; when about 20 or 30 yards off we had orders to prime and load; they then halted; the serjeant ordered them to mark the man with the gun, and ordered a file to go with him over to the man to arrest him; they went, and the rest followed; we did not move till the serjeant was attacked; the man seemed to present his gun to the serjeant; he (the serjeant) seemed to be about to take the gun; the people then began with sticks and stones; this was immediately; there were a great many stones thrown; I saw some of our men beaten with sticks; I saw the serjeant struck, and his cap falling off; I saw Irwine and Long knocked down; there was no firing up to this time, I am sure of that; I did not see what became of the gun; immediately after the police were knocked down, shots were fired; I think there were not 10 shots fired; I heard no order to fire; there was no time; two men attacked me with stones; I was struck; one shot had then been fired; the men did not fire till they thought themselves in great danger; will swear that there was danger, if the police did not fire; there was a little interval between the first and second shot, and the people did not appear to retreat during that time, but stood their ground; we were going up when the serjeant was attacked; the people ran away; I saw one man kneel down and fire, and heard the ball go by me; he turned about and faced me; I was in the same field; he was more than 60 yards off. (Boland here asked, whether the man he saw was kneeling? and he said not.) I saw no other man fire; I was standing by myself when the shot was fired; our men continued down, till Mr. Hill lifted them up. Declines to answer whether there was any reloading; there was a necessity for reloading; there was no order for that; I think the people would have attacked the police; we had no distress at the time.

James M'Elroy, sworn.

I WAS driver to Mr. Blacker; I went out before the police; there were four or five with me; I posted notices about these tithes; we first called at Moore's, at Crossnenagh, Crossnenagh, and took the cow; three doors were broken, belonging to two different persons; I did not hear any demand made, except at one door; when the police left us, I stood within three perches of the fray; the first man we went to went out and shouted; after that the people began to gather; he ran towards Monaghan; I heard horns; I was coming down the road; I saw country people running down, facing the police, sideways; I saw poles and other sticks, but nothing else; I saw no fire arms; the serjeant ran forward into the field, and desired them to stand back, or he would shoot them; some of the police ran forward after the serjeant, some with their bayonets, some with the sides of them, and some with the butts; I saw them touch the people to drive them back; the police and country people began to wrestle about a gun; two of the police guns were taken; the gun the wrestle was about was a police gun; I did not then see the serjeant; when the police were pushing with their guns the people caught hold of them; I think the serjeant was the first man that touched any body; there were about 35 or 40 there, but others were coming up; the people were throwing stones; I saw some of the police staggering; in about two minutes after they were first engaged, I heard shots, six or seven; the people continued four or five minutes on the ground after the firing began; they then went towards Monaghan; all the firing did not take up more than three minutes; Mr. Blacker came up, and the main body of police came and pursued the people; the countrymen took two guns; I saw two countrymen fire whilst retreating; they turned about, and shot at the police; I had seen two of the countrymen take arms from the police; this was near the commencement; Long and a countryman wrestled some time; the countryman got the gun; there was no time for the country people to load the guns; no shots were fired after the two fired by the two countrymen; I saw some countrymen fall; I saw Hughes fall at the end of the turf stack; this was about the middle of the firing; I cannot say what man killed Hughes; I saw a boy, who seemed hurt, near Hughes, with a blue coat; he fell; I saw more bloody; I believe all got away but Hughes; I saw no man in the crowd with a gun, nor did I see any gun or musket presented towards Thornhill; I saw nothing like a gun with the people; I was afraid when I saw the crowd; I got a blow of a stone that day from the crowd; I saw no arrest by the serjeant; two went quick after the serjeant; the crowd was from Monaghan. I should have known some of them if they belonged to my country; I did not expect any affray when the police went into the field; I never knew any thing before so bad as this collection; I had been twice before chased; the people were then collected by horns; I would have been under apprehension from the mob, considering the nature of my business.

Bernard Raverty, sworn.

I WAS employed by Mr. Blacker; I was not present at the affray; I saw the mob and heard horns; they were huzzaing and taking off their hats; I saw things like poles; I saw no fire arms.

William Carson, sworn.

I AM a sub-constable; I was with Thornhill; I saw the crowd with one fire-lock, pitchforks, stones and a long pole. The fire-lock was in front, the man was in the centre; he could be seen from the road; I first saw them on a hill at a distance; they came running down that hill, cheering and screaming and blowing horns; we were ordered to load; the people stopped and cheered; the man with the gun brought it up to a level, and presented it to us; we were on the road; the serjeant said if he drew a trigger he would shoot him; the serjeant raised his piece, and then the man brought down his; the serjeant ordered a few men to follow him; the serjeant then went out and I with him; the serjeant went forward and gripped the firelock, and I also gripped it; I had it in my left hand; two countrymen came forward and attempted to take my arms; I then let go; one man attempted to throw me; I kept my gun; our men extricated me. There was no firing then; I turned round to get my carbine free, and I received a stroke with a stone in the back of the neck; it cut my jacket behind; I was stunned, but did not fall; I got up and saw two of our men knocked down, one with a stone; no shot had been fired up to this. Immediately after a shot was fired; I was afterwards attacked with stones; I got a blow which shattered my finger; I was pursued down a field by the people, by more than 10; they drove me towards the Monaghan side; the people began to retreat; I heard the people cry Garryowen at first; the serjeant bid the man surrender in the King's name; this was before he came up to the people; it was 10 or 15 perches off. I saw one of our men lying without his firelock; this was before the main body of the people retreated; the people stood after the first shot was fired; stones were thrown both before and after the firing began; the people appeared disposed to attack us; I think crowds continued to come up all the time; I think there were 100 or more.

William Ford, sub-constable, sworn.

I WENT into the field with Thornhill; I saw a firelock in the crowd, and pitchforks, sticks, &c.; they were very riotous; as we went towards the party, the man with the firelock cocked it and brought it to present to the serjeant; the serjeant said if he fired he would shoot him; the man lowered the piece; the serjeant desired the man to surrender his gun in the King's name, and went forward to take the piece; after this stones were thrown; I was hit with a stone; I was attacked with a pitchfork; there were no shots up to this time; I was beat out to the left; they attempted to take my gun; this was before the firing; I was hit in four places with stones; there was no order to fire; I saw the people retreating; I cannot say whether there were any shots then; I think from the appearance of the people they would have attacked us; my jacket was torn with a pitchfork; they were coming up all the time; there were 100 at the least; if we had gone on the people would have been behind us.

M'Elroy, re-examined.

IN Smith's house and in the barn, I saw potatoes and blankets and quilts, and milk; I saw only in the house lumber such as a table; there were chairs and stools; I thought they were not value; I do not know who opened the barn; I think Marlow broke it open; Marlow went into the house and said there was no value; he is not well.

No other witness having come forward, the examination here closed.

THE information of James M'Elroy, of Keady, in said county, who being duly sworn on the Holy Evangelists, deposeth and saith, That he has repeatedly gone out for the purpose of receiving the tithes due the Reverend J. S. Blacker, in the district of Camagh, and also to assist in serving civil bills for the recovery of same; that during the last year, in particular, he was attacked and forced to fly for his life, and had not a party of the police appeared on the road, he does not know what might have happened. This occurred in the month of December last. Informant firmly believes that it would be impossible to collect the tithes of that district without the aid and support of either military or police.

THE information of William Long and John Irwin, sub-constables, who being duly sworn on the Holy Evangelists, depose and say, That in the month of December last, when on duty, putting up Government Proclamations in the district called Camagh, they observed a large mob of some hundreds, mostly armed with large bludgeons, in pursuit of Francis M'Kernan, civil bill officer; that on their coming up to them, they parleyed with them for a few minutes, which gave said M'Kernan and his assistants time to escape; informants further say, that had they not appeared at the time, said M'Kernan would have been in imminent danger of his life, as they verily believe. THE voluntary affidavit of Reverend James Stewart Blacker, rector of the parish of Keady, saith, That he has repeatedly attempted during the last year, both by fair means and also by civil bill process, to recover the tithes due to him in that portion of the said parish, designated "Camagh," composing four townlands (the property of William Irwin, esq.) for the year 1833, and partly for 1832; that the civil bill officers have been beaten off, and threatened with loss of life, if they even attempted to serve any process there. Deponent further saith, that he offered to give the landlord 15 per cent. for the collection of said tithes; and lastly saith, from his own personal knowledge of the people, that it would be impossible to collect said tithes without the assistance of police or military, as murder would inevitably take place, if such were attempted.

COPY of SURGEON'S REPORT of the Injuries sustained by the Police.

Long.

A TRANSVERSE wound about two and a half inches long on the back of the head below the great arch of the occiputal bone. This appeared caused by a moderately sharp weapon, as the edge of a spade, and given with great violence, the instrument having passed down the surface two inches above the wound, cutting off the hair, and bruising the scalp before it entered the flesh.

A wound about an inch and a half in length, and about an inch in front of the vertex, or top of the head. This appeared as if caused by a sword, or some similer sharp weapon.

A wound about two inches and a half in length, and two inches in front of the ast-mentioned wound. This wound seemed as if produced by a club, or some similar blunt weapon. The edges being generally bruised and swoln.

A wound about three inches in front of the last, of considerable extent, greatly ragged and lacerated, and part of the scalp literally torn out of the centre. This wound appeared as if caused by a point or points of a rough-pointed stone.

About half an inch on the right of the last-mentioned wound, is a wound of about an inch in length, which appears caused by the sharp edge of a stone or a spade. Close to the hairy scalp on the forehead, above the left eyebrow, there is another wound of small extent, but apparently caused by a round stone, and with considerable violence.

On the left side of the head, there are three other wounds, apparently produced by stones or round clubs.

The first five wounds mentioned above, penetrate to the skull; and the whole head, on passing the hand over it, when the patient was first visited, conveyed the sensation as if beaten to a pulp, having so many contusions over, and the scalp being so much swoln.

Irwin.

About an inch above the tip, the nose is divided transversely by a wound penetrating down through it to the face. This wound appears to be caused by one of the prongs of a pitchfork being thrust through from the left to the right side, and tearing the lower from the upper part of the nose.

A punctured wound in the right eyebrow. This appears caused by the second prong of the same fork, which wounded the nose. On the left side of the head there are two other wounds, which appear as if caused by stones.

Carson.

A compound fracture of the second bone of the little finger of the left hand.

Craig.

Agenton.

A wound on the back of the head, appearing as if produced by a sharp edged weapon. Besides the wounds already mentioned, many of the policemen, particularly Long and Irwin, had many severe contusions on different parts of the body. Long and Agenton laboured under symptons of concussion of the brain, so severe as in the latter to require the abstraction of upwards of 40 ounces of blood from the arm, jugular vein and temples, with other appropriate treatment, to subdue the tendency to inflammation of the brain. Agenton is still in such a state as to make removal to any distance, or agitation of any kind, highly dangerous.

Patrick Hughes, of Crossnanenagh, in the parish of Keady, barony of Tureny, in said county, sworn upon the Holy Evangelists, saith, He is son of the said James Hughes the deceased; saith, that on Monday last the 1st day of December instant, about the hour of 10 o'clock in the morning, he was standing near his father, the deceased, in the townland of Carrickaduff in said county, the said James Hughes, the deceased, was standing on a rock, there were about seven or eight policemen about five or six perches distance from deceased, they had each a gun. Informant saw one of the policemen present his gun, which he fired off, and the said James Hughes staggered for some time; he shouted and put his hand on his side and said he was done. Informant went into his aunt's house, Bridget Smith's, and shortly after came out and saw the policemen running down the field and firing after the country people. Informant went to his father, he was then lying dead; he had the mark of a bullet shot on his left arm which entered his left side, it passed through the deceased's body and went out on his right side. Informant did not see his father, the deceased, commit any assault or attempt to give any offence to the policemen; he does not know any of the policemen by name; he did not observe any persons with his father when he was shot; the policeman who shot his father was at some distance below him; the policemen fired several shots at the country people.

Walter M'Loughlin, of Tullynagrove, in the parish of Micknow, in the barony of Cranmorne, and county of Monaghan, farmer, sworn; saith, On Monday last the first instant, about the hour of ten o'clock in the morning, informant was walking on the public road in the townland of Carrickaduff, in said county of Armagh, he saw a number of policemen, between 10 and 15 as he thinks, he saw a man in the front of the policemen, and heard him ordering them to charge. They went over the motion of charging; he saw the policemen advance on the road for a short distance; he saw the policemen go off the road to where there was a number of countrymen; he saw the first policemen who went to the countrymen, present their guns at the countrymen, and pointed the muzzles of the guns up to the countrymen's breasts; the countrymen put up their hands to the guns and took hold of them; the countrymen and policemen struggled for some time, and shortly after the policemen commenced firing their guns towards the countrymen; the countrymen were throwing stones at the policemen, and the policemen firing at the countrymen; he was about 10 or 12 perches distance from them; he saw two of the countrymen, having a pole or gun in their hands; he did not observe the deceased James Hughes among the crowd.

Informant acknowledges to be bound to our Lord the King, in the sum of 50 l., conditioned he will prosecute the foregoing at next assizes of Armagh.

Sworn before me, Michael Magee, Coroner. Walter M'Loughlin.

William Kerr, of Carrickaduff, in said county, farmer, sworn upon the Holy Evangelists; saith, That upon Monday last, the 1st instant, about the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon, he was going up the road to meet the policemen, to get a receipt from them for payment of his tithe; the policemen were coming forward on the road, and the countrymen had stopped on the rock, and informant heard a man, unknown to informant, desire the policemen to prime and make ready; the policemen then advanced on the road, about four or five perches towards where the countrymen were standing; there were about six or seven in number of the policemen. The policemen advanced off the road into the field, and went to where the countrymen were standing, and presented their guns at the countrymen. Informant thinks the countrymen were endeavouring to take hold of the guns, and informant saw the policemen strike the countrymen on the head with the guns; the countrymen then began throwing stones at the policemen, and the policemen then began firing at the countrymen; he does not know any of the countrymen who were assembled; there were not 20 countrymen assembled on the rock at the time; after the policemen had went away, he saw the deceased carried away, he was then dead; he has not the least doubt in his mind but that it was some one of the policemen who shot the said James Hughes; there was not any fighting amongst the policemen and the countrymen until after the policemen had so pointed their guns at the countrymen, and so striking them on their heads with their guns. The policemen had a pig seized as a distress for tithe due the Rev. James Blacker, the pig he thinks so seized was the property of John or James Hughes, of Carrickaduff, and there was not any attempt made to rescue the pig; the police left the pig on the road, and went to where the countrymen were standing. He saw two of the countrymen, each having a stick or pitchfork in their hands, he is certain it was not a gun they had.

Informant acknowledges to be bound to our Lord the King 50 l., conditioned he will prosecute the foregoing at next Armagh assizes.

Sworn before me, Michael Magee, Coroner. William Kerr.

Samuel Magee, of Keady, in said county, surgeon, sworn; saith, He has examined the body of the said James Hughes, he found on his left arm a gun shot wound, it passed through his arm; and also one other wound of a gun shot, the bullet entered over the sixth rib, below his breast, passed through his body, and came out at the point of the lower false rib of his right side, both wounds evidently caused by the same bullet; the last wound which passed through his body was the cause of his death.

Informant acknowledges to be bound to our Lord the King in the sum of 100 l., conditioned he will prosecute the foregoing at next Armagh assizes.

Sworn before me, Michael Magee, Coroner. Samuel Magee.

Edward

Edward Hughes, of Crossnanagh aforesaid, farmer, sworn; saith, On Monday last the 1st instant, about ten o'clock in the forenoon, he was within two or three yards of his brother, the said James Hughes, the deceasd, in the townland of Carrickaduff, deceased was standing above informant, when informant saw a policeman, whose back was towards the deceased, turning round; the policeman stood within about two or three yards distance from the deceased; he, the policeman, had a gun in his hands, which he presented at deceased, and fired at deceased, and immediately after he so fired off said gun, the deceased put his hand on his left breast, and said, "Murder; I am done;" he stepped up about three or four yards, and there was another policeman came forward, and presented his gun at him, this informant, when one or two persons came forward and seized said gun; the policeman kept a hold of the gun, the muzzle of said gun was pointed fair for informant's breast; informant put up his hand to the muzzle of the gun, knocked the barrel of the gun to one side, which gun then went off, and was discharged. Informant is of opinion he would have been then shot if he had not so turned the barrel of the gun from his breast; informant does not know the policeman who shot his brother, or the policeman who attempted to shoot him; he saw serjeant Rogers among the fighting party some short time before his brother was killed; deceased was going to the funeral of Owen Moan, of Lurganboy, at the time the said James Hughes was shot, there were about three or four persons in company with deceased; he does not know of deceased giving any offence to the policemen previous to his being shot.

Informant acknowledges himself to be bound to our Lord the King in the sum of 50*l.* conditioned he will prosecute the foregoing at next assizes of Armagh.

From the Rev. Mr. Blacker to Sir William Gosset.

Rectory, Keady, Co. Armagh,
November 12, 1834.

Sir,

I AM under the necessity of applying to the Government for assistance, in the collection of the tithes due by a small portion of this parish for 1833, and part of 1832. I have in vain tried fair means, and also tried to have processes served, but the persons who tried to serve them have been repeatedly beaten off, and forced to escape for their lives. It is the last time I shall apply for any assistance, as the entire parish is now under the late Act, and the landlords have undertaken the payment of the tithes. The distance troops would have to march from Armagh, would at the greatest point not exceed nine miles, and one day collect it all. Believe me, I would not trouble you with this application, had not every other means failed.

I have, &c.

From Mr. Littleton to Rev. Mr. Blacker.

Dublin Castle, 14 November 1834.

SIR,

I HAVE received your letter of the 12th instant, in which you request assistance to enable you to collect an arrear of tithes due to you by a part of the parish of Keady. In reply, I beg to inform you, that you must submit affidavits, proving some act of forcible resistance, or such other facts as will show that life may be endangered, or that the public peace must certainly be disturbed, if extraordinary means are not employed.

The magistrates will, on the production to them of such affidavits, act on their own judgment and responsibility; and one of them, I should observe, ought to accompany any extraordinary force that may be ordered out.

I am, &c.

From Sir Frederick Stoven to Sir William Gosset.

Sir, Dublin, 3 December 1834.

I HAVE the honour to transmit, for the information of the Lord Lieutenant, various documents from Sub-inspector Henry and Chief Constables Hill and Duff, relative to the assembling of a police force at Keady, by order of the magistrates, for protection, during the collection of arrears of tithe due the Rev. J. Blacker. Mr. Blacker himself accompanied the force in his capacity of magistrate.

The police were 29 in number, but appear to have been injudiciously divided, and a mob of about 60 of the peasantry rushed on a division of 10, who were in front with the bailiff, and severely injured and disarmed three of them.

The police fired some shots, and one man has been killed. Upon a due consideration of the several statements relative to this unfortunate affair, I cannot but conclude that the direction and management of the police under Chief Constable Hill was most erroneous and defective.

I must further remark, that although Mr. Blacker was shown the letter directing that no police force should be employed in the collection of tithes, except by the special order of his Excellency (dated 29th March ultimo) he considered the letter of the Chief Secretary, of the 14th November, to supersede that instruction, and acted accordingly.

I have, &c.

(Enclosures.)

From Sub-Inspector Henry to Sir F. Stoven.

Sir, Armagh, 30 November 1834.

HAVING just this moment received the enclosed note from Chief Constable Hill, I lose no time in transmitting it for your consideration and directions, as by it you will perceive that the Rev. James Blacker intends to commence driving for tithes to-morrow, in his parish of Keady.

You will perceive, by a memorandum of Mr. Blacker also enclosed, that he has of himself been directing the assemblage of the police for the same purpose. Probably by a reference to Sir W. Gosset's letter of the 17th of April last, conveying his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant's orders respecting the employment of the constabulary on tithe duty, you may think proper to suspend their attendance on this occasion, until some communication may be made to you on the subject.

Chief Constable Hill does not mention the name of the magistrate who is to accompany him; but it would appear by Mr. Blacker's memorandum from the "Keady Bench," that he is to be the person, and in his own case.

(signed) Wm Henry.

From the same to the same.

Sir, Armagh, 1st December 1834.

I ENCLOSE a Report which Chief Constable Hill has just handed to me, but whom I have directed to return to Keady, and remain there in charge of the men of his district at that station. I have also communicated with the Earl of Gosford on the subject, and a meeting of magistrates is contemplated respecting this affair, and when arranged, will acquaint you of the time of their assembling.

I return enclosed Sir W. Gosset's letter, which Mr. Duff sent me last night, and which Chief Constable Hill handed to the Rev. Mr. Blacker previous to his accompanying him on tithe duty this morning, and Mr. Hill states to me that Mr. Blacker's reply, after reading it, was, "that he would be responsible."

Chief Constable Hill had 29 men with him on this occasion, and did not state to Mr. Blacker that that force was inadequate to the duty, nor does he now say he so considered it.

I have, &c.

P. S.—Mr. Dobbin, one of the deputy lieutenants, thinks it better that no steps should be taken respecting the recovery of the carbines, until it can be done legally, by the direction of the lieutenant of the county and the magistrates.

I beg to add, that the arrear of tithe of 1833 was 25 l. due to the Rev. Mr. Blacker, in the parish of Keady.

From Chief Constable Hill to Sir F. Stoven.

Sir, Armagh, Dec. 1, 1834.

ON Saturday last I received a requisition from Messrs. Stringer and Prentice, the presiding magistrates at Keady Petty Sessions, to proceed with the strength of my district from Keady this day, to protect the Rev. James Blacker in the distraining for tithes due to him in the parish of Keady.

While discharging this duty with Mr. Blacker as magistrate, ten men then in advance were attacked by the mob (who had been collecting with horns, and the cheers from different hills) and five of the sub-constables were very seriously hurt with stones and other weapons.

The men in self-defence fired about five shots, and I have heard that two men were killed from the effects.

While the mob were retreating, two of them turned behind a ditch, and fired at sub-constable Ford and myself, as I conceive, for no others were then in view.

All the other sub-constables who were in advance, were more or less injured from the effects of the attack made by the mob.

During the conflict, three of the men's carbines were wrested from them while in a state of insensibility, and have not been since recovered.

Sir, Armagh, 2 Dec. 1834.

WITH reference to my letter of yesterday's date, enclosing Chief Constable Hill's report of the affair near Keady, I am now to acquaint you that the Earl of Gosford attended here this day with a few magistrates, to investigate the matter, but after a short deliberation, and nothing particular being elicited, deferred any further inquiry till after the inquest, which is to be held in Keady to-morrow, on the body of one of the country people alleged to have been killed by the police, and at which I shall attend.

I enclose a copy of Mr. Littleton's letter, upon which the magistrates issued the requisition to Chief Constable Hill, and am to observe that I only this day obtained it at the investigation, having never before heard of or seen it, neither had Lord Gosford any knowledge of such a document.

I am, &c.

From the Earl of Gosford to Sir William Gosset.

Sir, Gosford, 1st Dec. 1834.

I HAVE just received the enclosed from the sub-inspector in Armagh. I have also seen the Rev. James Jones, a magistrate of this county, and he had had a conversation with Chief Constable Hill, who informed him that some of the people who attacked the police had firelocks, and that a bullet from one of them passed close to his head. I mean to go into Armagh early to-morrow to make further inquiry into the matter. I have stated all the information I am at present in possession of.

I have, &c.

From Sub-Inspector Henry to Earl of Gosford.

My Lord, Armagh, 1 Dec. 1834.

I AM to acquaint your Lordship that this morning about seven o'clock, Chief Constable Hill proceeded with 29 of the constabulary, by a requisition from Messrs. Prentice and Stringer, the magistrates presiding at the Keady Petit Sessions, and accompanied by one magistrate (the Reverend James Blacker) to assist him as tithe owner in the parish of Keady, to distrain for an arrear of tithes amounting to 25*l.* due to that gentleman for the year 1833; and upon this force commencing their duty, they were attacked by the country people in great number, at about three miles and a half from Keady, and near to Mr. Irwin's mill, when a conflict ensued; five of the police are badly wouuded, and it is supposed two of the country people killed, and most probably some wounded. The police fired only five shots on the occasion.

From the Earl of Gosford, to Sir W. Gosset.

Sir, Gosford, 2 Dec. 1834.

I WENT into Armagh this day for the purpose of procuring information as to the particulars of what took place near Keady yesterday, and I beg to inform you that I have little to add to what I have already communicated.

Under all the circumstances of the case, I considered it best not to proceed with the iuvestigation, in order to wait until the coroner's inquest has been held, which will take place to-morrow. I find only one man was killed; there is another very badly wounded; one of the constables is not expected to live, and some others severely wounded.

The people who appeared before us to-day, conceive that the mob came from a distance, as they could not identify any of them. In short, it is one of the many melancholy proofs we have had, of the evils arising from the tithe system. If I hear any thing further, I shall not fail to acquaint you.

I have, &c.

From Sir William Gosset to the Earl of Gosford.

My Lord, Dublin, 3 Dec. 1834.

I AM directed by the Lord Lieutenant to return his Excellency's thanks for your Lordship's communications regarding the unfortunate affair at Keady.

In consequence of not having received the report of the coroner's inquest, his Excellency deems it premature to offer any opinion or give any directions regarding it. But it does appear that there was a want of discretion somewhere.

I have, &c.

From Sir William Gosset to Chief Constable Hill.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 4 December 1834.

I SUBMITTED to the Lords Justices your report of the attack made by the country people on your party, when protecting the Reverend James Blacker in distraining for tithes in the parish of Keady, on which occasion two of the peasantry where shot by the police, whom you state fired in self defence.

Their Excellencies conceive that there has been a want of discretion in this instance, in employing so small a force for the preservation of the public peace, when a violation of it was expected; and their Excellencies desire that it may be understood as an indispensable rule on the part of the police, never to attempt such a service with an inadequate force. I am &c.

From Sir W. Gosset to Messrs. Stringer and Prentice, Magistrates.

Gentlemen, Dublin Castle, 4 December 1834.

Chief Constable Hill having reported to the Government, that in consequence of a requisition from you, he attended with his party to afford protection to the Rev. Mr. Blacker when distraining for his tithes in the parish of Keady, and that while while in the performance of that duty, he was attacked by large numbers of the peasantry, and the police ultimately obliged to fire in their own defence, whereby two of the country people were shot.

The Lords Justices desire me to observe, that there appears to them to have been on this occasion a want of discretion which is much to be regretted, in employing so small a force for the preservation of the public peace, when a violation of it was expected; and their Excellencies command me to impress, in the strongest manner, as an indispensable duty on the part of magistrates and police, not to attempt such a service with an inadequate force.

Sir, Gosford, 6 December 1834.

Enclosed I send you the letter I received from the Coroner who held the inquest on the body of the man who was killed in the tithe affray near Keady. The evidence taken by the Coroner will go to you by this night's post. The three carbines taken from the police have been sent to Mr. Dobbin, J. P. in Armagh. This was done by the advice and exertion of the Rev. Mr. Coleman, P. P.

From Mr. Michael Magee, Coroner, to the Earl of Gosford.

My Lord, Armagh, December 4, 1834.

On the morning of yesterday I went to the house of the late James Hughes, deceased, in the townland of Crossnenagh, a distance of three miles from Keady, where I was obliged to hold the inquest, as many of the jurors and witnesses would not come to Keady. From the evidence of the different witnesses examined before the jury, it appeared that the policemen committed the first assault on the country people, by striking them with their guns, when the countrymen began throwing stones at the policemen, and the police commenced firing on the country people, when the deceased James Hughes was shot through the body, and immediately after died. The jury found a verdict of murder against a policeman whose name is at present unknown, aided and assisted by many others also unknown.

From Sir W. Gosset, to the Earl of Gosford.

My dear Lord, Dublin, 10 December 1834.

The Lords Justices have directed me to state to your Lordship that they contemplate sending a legal gentleman to assist in investigating the Keady affray, if you should deem such a step advisable. I am, &c.

From the Earl of Gosford to Sir William Gosset.

My dear Sir, Gosford, 11 December 1834.

Should the Lords Justices determine on having an investigation into the Keady affair, I think their Lordships would be quite right in sending down a legal gentleman to assist. Homicide having been committed, it would, I conceive, be desirable to have such assistance, in order to guard the parties against injury in the event of a trial taking place. The day after the Keady business, I went into Armagh for the purpose of inquiring into the matter; this was previous to the coroner's inquest on the body of the man that was killed. I examined two or three witnesses, but found it so delicate a matter, that I considered it advisable to proceed no further with the investigation, and I accordingly adjourned the meeting. I am, &c.

From Sir Frederick Stoven, Inspector-General of Ulster, to Sir W. Gosset.

Sir, Dungannon, 13 December 1834.

I HAVE the honour to enclose, for the information of the Lords Justices, the Report of Chief Constable Hill, stating that vast numbers of the peasantry assembled on the 10th instant, near Keady, in expectation of a renewal of the collection of tithes. Many were armed, and shots were fired, some of which were with ball. This display of force may be fairly attributed to the victory, for it was nothing less, which the peasantry achieved over the police on the 1st instant; and I here venture to suggest, that no collection of tithe should be attempted by the magistrates, except under previous arrangement with the Inspector-General, when care will be taken, and measures adopted, to produce a force which shall preclude a chance of resistance.

I have, &c.

(Enclosure.)

From Chief Constable Hill to Sir F. Stoven.

Sir, Keady Petty Sessions, Dec. 12, 1834.

I HAVE received information from Arthur Irwine, esq., senior, of Violet Hill, that on the 10th instant, upwards of 1,000 men assembled in the townland of Carrickaduff, on the different hills, numbers of them armed with guns and pistols, others with pikes, and different kinds of weapons, who shouted "No rents, no tithes;" and continued blowing horns and firing shots, till about 1 o'clock, P.M., when about 30 of them formed line, and fired by files from right to left.

Several balls were fired, and one whizzed quite close to Mr. Irwine, who says at least 150 shots were fired.

The mob began to separate at 2 o'clock P.M., as they then gave up hopes of seeing the police and military, who were expected out there on tithe duty again.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 16 December 1834.

I AM commanded by the Lords Justices to forward to you the enclosed Papers from the Inspector-General of the Province of Ulster, &c. connected with the affray which lately took place at Keady, between the police and the country people, during the collection of tithes due to the Rev. J. Blacker.

And as the Lords Justices deem it proper that the transaction in question should be fully investigated, their Excellencies desire that you will be pleased to proceed to Armagh for that purpose, and transmit your Report of the result for their consideration.

I have, &c.

From the Earl of Gosford to Sir W. Gosset.

My dear Sir William, Gosford, 16 Dec. 1834.

I REGRET I did not receive the enclosed in time to forward it to you by last night's post. I should suppose that the investigation must be postponed; in which case, perhaps I had best find out from Mr. Henry the earliest day he conceives the wounded policeman may be able to attend the investigation. Under existing circumstances, I can make no arrangements until I hear from you what the Lords Justices determine on.

Believe me, &c.

(Enclosure.)

From Sub-Inspector Henry to Earl of Gosford.

My Lord, Armagh, 15 December 1834.

I HAVE received your Lordship's note, and as the presence of all the police will of course be necessary at the contemplated investigation, those who are now wounded would be material witnesses, they being the persons attacked, and more immediately engaged with the country people; and from their state of health at present, think it likely they would not be be able to attend before Monday next; probably not so soon, as one of them is scarcely considered out of danger. The appearance of these men will be necessary, to show the injury committed upon them. I shall, therefore, feel obliged by your Lordship letting me know what day you may fix upon for the investigation.

(signed) William Henry.

From the Earl of Gosford to Sir W. Gosset.

My dear Sir, Gosford, 17 December 1834.

I ENCLOSE another letter, which I have received from Mr. Henry, respecting the state of the wounded policemen. Under such circumstances, I should suppose that the investigation must be postponed. I shall know the determination, I suppose, by to-morrow's post; and in the interim I will make all the preparations in my power.

I am, &c.

(Enclosure.)

From Sub-Inspector Henry to the Earl of Gosford.

My Lord, Armagh, 16 December 1834.

SINCE receiving your Lordship's note this day, I have seen the doctor who is in attendance on the policemen who were wounded, and who has informed me that it would be very improper to attempt to put any questions, or do anything to agitate the policeman I alluded to in my note of yesterday, as he is only just beginning to recover from an inflammation of the brain, caused by an injury on his head.

I am, &c.
(signed) W. Henry.

From Sir W. Gosset to the Earl of Gosford.

My dear Lord, Dublin, 17 December 1834.

As it is uncertain when the policemen will be able to attend the investigation, and as next week will be Christmas week, Mr. Greene proposes next Monday week for the day of meeting.

Pray let me know if that will suit your Lordship.

Yours, &c.

TO their Excellencies the Lords Justices of Ireland, the Memorial of the Rev. James S. Blacker, Rector of the Parish of Keady, in the County of Armagh, and one of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the Counties of Armagh and Down.

Most humbly showeth,—

THAT Memorialist was obliged in the month of December last to distrain a portion of his parish for arrears of tithe due for the years 1832 and 1833; that while in execution of that duty, a conflict ensued between the police employed on that duty and the country people, in which a life was lost; (the circumstances which led to that, have been fully inquired into by your Lordship's directions, before Mr. Serjeant Greene); that on an inquest being held on the body of the deceased man, before Mr. Michael Magee, the coroner of the county, he (the said coroner) did make use of expressions, as to Memorialist's interference with sending down a jury to try the case, which were not only highly injurious to the character of Memorialist, but also tended in the highest degree to exasperate the country people against Memorialist and the police.

Memorialist humbly prays, that an investigation may be instituted into the conduct of Mr. Magee, that the truth or falsehood of the allegation may be known; as if true, Memorialist would consider himself unworthy of his profession and commission; and if false, that justice might be done him.

Memorialist could accompany this by several affidavits, but prefers waiting for the investigation, and then submitting them.

And Memorialist, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

(signed) James S. Blacker.

From Sir William Gosset to Rev. Mr. Blacker.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 7 January 1835.

I AM commanded by the Lord Lieutenant to acknowledge the receipt of your memorial, praying that an investigation may be ordered into the conduct of Mr. Magee, the coroner for the county of Armagh. In reply, I am directed to acquaint you, that the Attorney General, to whom the subject was referred, is of opinion that the Government ought not to interfere in the matter in question.

I have, &c.

EXTRACT of a LETTER from Sir Henry Hardinge to Mr. Secretary Goulburn, dated Dublin Castle, 21 January 1835.

SINCE the unfortunate affair at Rathcormac, the question of affording military aid in enforcing the law for the collection of tithe, has become one of increased importance.

The case I have now to bring before you will afford the means of showing the system adopted by the late Government, and will enable the present Government to decide how far that system shall be persevered in or modified.

I am aware of Sir William Gosset's letter to you of the 17th December 1834, and of your reply of the 20th. However, you will, by the papers I now send in, have a very detailed and complete case before you, and I have thought it right to renew the subject.

I have thirteen applications in the office, the decision upon which has been postponed for the present, because the troops and the police are too much engaged in preserving the public peace during the elections, to be spared for any other duty. In a few days these applications must be answered.

The case now brought before you is that of the Rev. Mr. Blacker, incumbent of the parish of Keady, county of Armagh, who applied to Mr. Littleton for an armed force, which was granted, and in the execution of this service a peasant was killed by a shot from one of the police.

I received the Attorney General's opinion yesterday, regarding the steps which it might be proper for the Irish Government to originate, in consequence of the coroner's inquest, and I have this day informed the Lord Lieutenant of my intention to write to you, his Excellency concurring in the substance of this communication.

I send you Mr. Blacker's application of 12th November, for a military force, and Mr. Littleton's answer of 14th November, granting the force, and clearly laying down the principle that the party applying for military aid "must submit affidavits proving some act of forcible resistance, or such other facts as will show that life may be endangered, or that the public peace must certainly be disturbed if extraordinary measures are not employed. The magistrates will, on the production to them of such affidavits, act on their own judgment and responsibility; and one of them, I should observe, ought to accompany any extraordinary force that may be ordered out."

The affidavits were obtained, and as you will perceive by Mr. Serjeant Greene's Report (who was sent down to investigate the affair), two magistrates signed a written order, dated Nov. 28th, directing the chief constable to have a sufficient force to protect the bailiffs in distraining for the tithe, and that the police were not to be employed, unless under the superintendence of a magistrate. On the 1st December a force of 29 men was collected; Mr. Blacker was the only magistrate present, whose explanation since made, was, that he applied to two magistrates to go out with the police, and that they declined.

You will not fail to remark the extreme impropriety of any magistrate, and more particularly a clergyman, being the only authority who was present to superintend the employment of an armed force in distraining for tithe due to himself.

The police did not act as bailiffs; they merely attended to protect the persons employed by Mr. B., and that gentleman remained on horseback with the chief constable, but at the moment of the affray was at some distance.

Mr. Serjeant Greene's Report, and the evidence annexed to it, give the whole of the material facts of what passed. I merely notice in this letter, points, which may be of general application to any case where a military force is required for a similar purpose.

The

The Lord Lieutenant concurs in Mr. Greene's observations; and when it is ascertained that the case is not likely to be brought before a legal tribunal, the Lord Lieutenant will probably state his sentiments to Mr. Blacker, expressing his regret that that gentleman should have acted as a magistrate in his own case; and as this improper practice occurred in the Rathcormac case, where Archdeacon Ryder and Mr. Collis were present, although accompanied by another magistrate who acted, it will be advisable, in replying to any future applications from clergymen, to caution the person who has a pecuniary interest in levying the tithe, on no account to be present. This I propose to state in my official letter.

You will perceive, by the Attorney General's opinion of yesterday's date, that he does not intend to make any further inquiries with a view to the institution of a prosecution; and his opinion is very decidedly given that the homicide was legally justifiable as an act of necessary self-defence.

I also forward a letter written by Sir William Gosset, 29th March 1834, which lays down two points for the direction of the police when employed for the protection of persons employed in the collection of tithe; 1st. That the force shall be an adequate one, to avoid all risk of being overpowered; and 2dly, That such aid is not to be afforded without the Lord Lieutenant's instructions.

If an actual breach of the peace occurs, any magistrate is, of course, bound promptly to suppress it by the military or police.

This circular letter was written in consequence of the frequency of the employment of troops on the sole responsibility of any magistrate who chose to order out a few policemen to protect the drivers distraining for tithes.

I also enclose a memorandum referring to the Petty Sessions Act, which provides that no constable shall be employed under the authority of a magistrate, in the recovery of tithes, or in the levy of rents by distress, &c. except in cases where forcible resistance shall have been actually made, and be proved by information taken on oath.

The Lord Lieutenant is sincerely convinced that the clergy of Ireland have exercised their rights with great moderation and disinterestedness; and that the large majority of the clergy feel a deep responsibility as christians in enforcing a right which is so liable to lead to tumult and bloodshed, and that this very large class have preferred great distress and poverty rather than risk a collision with their parishioners, which might have fatal consequences.

On the other hand it is obvious that the protection required by the clergymen ought not to be withheld, and that very dangerous consequences would ensue if the Government were to surrender the right of enforcing the law because a systematic combination exists to resist the collection of tithes.

You will observe in the memorandum of thirteen applications which I send you, that the resistance is as great to pay the composition of tithe, as the arrears of tithe, the latter being Mr. Blacker's case.

I do not mix up with this question another very important consideration, viz the liability of the clergy on the 1st November last, to pay the instalments due to the Crown under the Million Act. After the Commons passed a Bill through the House, offering a deduction of 40 per cent. for the abolition of tithe, and after the advances made to the clergy under the Million Act, all attempts to collect tithe must of course be rendered more difficult, and there can be no doubt that every collision with the people of the country in enforcing the law, interposes an additional obstacle to the prospect of a future favourable settlement of the question of tithe.

Under all these circumstances, I have thought it advisable to send these papers for your perusal, as they will enable you to judge whether any more cautious mode of proceeding can be adopted without any surrender of the rights of tithe property, which, if relaxed, might probably have the effect of increasing the disorganization of society in this country, by encouraging a resistance to rent, as the next step to a successful resistance to tithe.

I also send a copy of the letter I propose to write in answer to the postponed applications.

Yours, &c.
(signed) H. Hardinge.

(Circular.)

Sir, Dublin Castle, 1835.

In reply to your letter of requesting a military force to assist in the collection of arrears of due to you, I have to inform you, that you must submit affidavits to two or more magistrates, distinctly proving some specific act of forcible resistance, or such other facts as will show that there is a serious risk of life being endangered, or that the public peace will certainly be disturbed, if extraordinary means are not resorted to for the protection of the men employed by you in collecting the tithes legally due.

The magistrates, on the production of such affidavits, will exercise their discretion, according to the circumstances of the case, in granting or refusing the aid required.

In the former case at least one of these magistrates ought to accompany the civil or military force, and remain with it during the time it is so employed.

It is the earnest wish of the Lord Lieutenant, that if possible both magistrates should personally attend, because it has happened occasionally that the force has been divided, and that the presence of a magistrate with each division of the force would have been very desirable.

The Lord Lieutenant earnestly hopes, that no magistrate, having any interest in the tithe about to be levied, will be appealed to, to decide upon the grant of military aid, or will take a part in enforcing the levy, or personally appearing on the occasion of it.

The Lord Lieutenant further desires, that this letter to you may be produced before the magistrates to whom you may apply for assistance, and that a reference should by them be made to the Circular from this office of the 29th March 1834, of which the following is an extract:

" His Excellency desires me to impress upon you the necessity of avoiding in all cases the risk of performing such duty as this with an inadequate force, and also with a view to prevent the unnecessary harrassing of troops and police, that such aid is not to be afforded without his Excellency's instructions.

If an actual breach of the peace takes place in the collection of tithes, and a magistrate upon the spot calls upon either the military or police force to suppress it, and enforce the law, they must of course promptly obey the directions they may receive."

You will be pleased to inform me of the result of your application to the magistrates.

I have, &c.

From Sir William Gosset to the Rev. Mr. Blacker.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 14 February 1835.

A report of the evidence adduced on the recent inquiry into the transactions which occurred near Keady during the collection of your tithes in that parish, having been submitted to the Lord Lieutenant, his Excellency cannot avoid intimating to you, that he disapproves of your having acted as a magistrate in your own case, by accompanying the police force granted in that instance for the preservation of the public peace.

It is the anxious wish and desire of the Government, that no magistrate having any interest in the tithes about to be levied, should be appealed to, to decide upon the grant of aid, or take a part in enforcing its payment, or personally appear on the occasion of its levy.

I have, &c.

COPY of the CORRESPONDENCE between the Reverend Thomas Locke, Rector of Newcastle, in the County of Limerick, and the Chief or Under Secretary for Ireland, from the Month of February 1834 to the present time, relative to the COLLECTION of TITHES payable to Mr. Locke; and also of any CORRESPONDENCE on that subject during the same period between the Chief or Under Secretary for Ireland and the Commander of the Forces, or any Magistrate or Officers of Police in the Limerick District.

Dublin Castle. WM GOSSET.

SIR, Newcastle, 22d March 1834.

HAVING solicited Government, so far back as August and September 1832, for aid in the collection of my tithes, and the authorities having accordingly been directed to afford every assistance, I thereupon applied to the magistrates resident in the neighbourhood, every one of whom successively declined to attend, although this town is a military and police station, and the nearest part of the parish not one mile distant from the town. Notwithstanding offers of large abatement, and my patience and forbearance ever since the above-mentioned period, the parishioners still obstinately refuse to pay, and I cannot procure persons to endanger their lives in serving legal orders and distraining the lands, without the protection of the civil and military powers.

I humbly pray that effective aid may be granted to me in this emergency, to enable me to collect my tithes, the greater part of which is due under notes and decrees.

Some untoward circumstances rendered my application too late under the Relief Bill, which I should be thankful to accept.

The Right Hon. E. J. Littleton, London. (signed) Thomas Locke, Incumbent of Mahoonagh, Diocese of Limerick.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 29th March 1834.

IN forwarding to you the accompanying letter from the Rev. Mr. Locke, I am to signify the Lord Lieutenant's desire that you will communicate with Mr. Locke, and afford a sufficient force to preserve the peace when he may proceed in the collection of his tithes.

Please to return the enclosures.

I have, &c.

J. P. Vokes, Esq., Limerick. (signed) William Gosset.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 31st March 1834.

Mr. Littleton has forwarded to me your letter of the 22d instant, which I lost no time in laying before the Lord Lieutenant. His Excellency, I am to observe, is quite ready to grant a sufficient force for vindicating the law, in the case of protecting your process servers; but his Excellency cannot order magistrates to attend. He, however, recommends you to apply by letter to each magistrate of your district, and if they decline performing that duty, you are requested to send me, for his Excellency's consideration, a copy of your applications, and of the replies you may have received.

I have, &c.

Rev. T. Locke. (signed) William Gosset.

Sir, Limerick, 16th April 1834.

In obedience to his Excellency's command, conveyed to me by your letter of the 29th ultimo, I went yesterday, pursuant to an arrangement I had made with the Rev. Mr. Locke, to Newcastle, for the pupose of preserving the peace and protecting his bailiffs whilst they would be distraining for his tithes in that neighbourhood.

When I left Limerick, I supposed that there were 60 or 70 soldiers there; but on my arrival, I found that 30 men of the party had been withdrawn on that morning, and that all I could get would be a party of 20, which I do not consider sufficient for that duty, as it would be very injurious to go into that wild and very populous district without a force sufficient to overawe any reasonable chance of opposition, and sufficient, if opposed, to enable us to prevent the people gaining a victory by rescuing the cattle; therefore I have postponed that business until next week, when I hope you will be good enough to have at least 70 men posted at Newcastle for a few weeks.

This parish of Mahoonagh contains about 30 square miles, and the people have evinced a very strong disposition not to pay unless compelled by the extreme rigour of the laws, although Mr. Locke has ever been very kind and lenient to them. He regrets now that he did not take advantage of the Million Act; and you see, from the extent of the parish, it will take a long time to enforce the payment.

If you have no objection, I mean to call on Mr. Smith, the sub-inspector, (who has been lately made a magistrate, and who lives near it,) to assist in this business; for without a second magistrate, we cannot divide our party of soldiers; and by dividing them, although not half a mile asunder, we can do twice as much, and be equally safe, as we could join at once if we saw any necessity.

The least weakness at this time might encourage them hereafter to oppose the land-tax, when that Bill passes. As Mr. Locke would now gladly avail himself of the late Act, permit me to suggest, if the million is not all applied, perhaps a clause might be introduced into the Bill now coming in, giving power to extend the period for applications; if this could be done, it might prevent an immensity of irritation and cross work. Mr. Locke told me, in Newcastle, yesterday, that he intended to write to you by this night's post on the subject.

I have, &c.

Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. (signed) T. P. Vokes.

Sir, Newcastle, 16th April 1834.

Mr. Vokes has been here, but would not venture to accompany my bailiffs until further arrangements had taken place, considering the disposable force in the neighbourhood insufficient for the proposed purposes.

The number of tithe-payers in the parish exceeds 450, and I am confidently assured that every individual of that number, including several tenants of my own, is entirely resolved not to pay until compulsion comes to his own door. They have been noticed in every possible mode; by advertisements in the public prints, with offers of large abatements; by printed and written letters, renewed almost every month. Furthermore, the tithes of that parish, embracing two Roman-catholic parishes, have been published from their altars by the priests every year, even at the very period of the anti-tithe meetings; and the priests have urged the people, by every argument of prudence and principle and gratitude, to pay. To this I may truly add, that no severity has been practised, the poorer tithe-payers not having been been applied to at all. Discovering all these efforts to be vain, I instituted proceedings in the Court of Exchequer, in the Sessional Court of the district, in the Ecclesiastical Court, all to no purpose. In December last, I had two executions for small sums, which executions were levied by the sheriffs, under the protection of a large party of soldiers; and, expensive and severe as this measure was, it did not induce one individual in the parish to pay, although all had been formally made aware that similar proceedings would be instituted in every case. It was even loudly rumoured, that had there not been a fair in a neighbouring town, which drew away a considerable portion of the population of the district, and had not the executions been unexpected, the sheriff would not have been permitted to remove the cattle, even if he had a regiment at his back.

Several untoward circumstances delayed my application under the Relief Act, but I applied immediately after the expiration of the prescribed limit. I understand that a large portion of the million remains unappropriated; and if now relief could be extended to me by the insertion of a clause in the forthcoming Bill, or by any other means which Government in their wisdom might ordain, I would thankfully accept of it, although I should by so doing suffer considerable loss, by foregoing law costs in addition to the deducted per-centage. I have no doubt of being able to recover the full amount due to me, but not without bloodshed, and I know not what consequent public disturbances.

I am induced to make this explicit statement, from the persuasion that the Lord Lieutenant, with his usual kindness and affability to the established clergy, will credit the disinterestedness of my motives, and take the case into his gracious consideration.

Sir,

Dublin Castle, 19th April 1834.

Mr. Vokes, chief magistrate of police, having represented to Government that arrangements have been made by him for the recovery, during the ensuing week, of an arrear of tithes due to the Rev. Mr. Locke of Newcastle, and that the military party there, consisting of 20 men only, would be wholly inadequate to preserve the peace and overawe any reasonable chance of opposition, I am in consequence directed by the Lord Lieutenant to request you will be pleased to give the necessary orders to the general officer of the district for increasing the detachment at Newcastle to 70 rank and file, which force Mr. Vokes is of opinion will be requisite upon the occasion.

I have, &c.

Sir,

Dublin Castle, 21st April 1834.

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 16th instant, stating with reference to mine of the 29th ultimo, that you have postponed the adoption of any protective measures with respect to the collection of the tithes due to the Rev. Mr. Locke, in the vicinity of Newcastle, in consequence of the military force at that quarter having been lately reduced, and requesting that an augmentation of at least 70 men may be ordered to proceed thither.

I beg in reply to acquaint you that the troops at Newcastle will be increased to a number sufficient for enforcing an obedience to the law, and Sub-inspector Smith will give his aid, as you suggest, in carrying into effect the service in question.

Mr. Locke has himself lamented to the Government his not having applied for these tithes under the Relief Act, but it is now too late, and his request to receive aid under that statute is of course inadmissible.

I am, &c.

I am directed to observe, that your request to receive relief under the Million Act, is now inadmissible. But the troops at Newcastle will be increased to a number sufficient for enforcing an obedience to the law on the present occasion, of which Mr. Vokes has been duly apprised.

Sir, Newcastle, 29th April 1834.

In pursuance to his Excellency's command of the 29th ultimo, directing me to afford protection to the collectors of the Rev. Mr. Locke's tithes, I proceeded yesterday from this town, accompanied by Mr. Smith, the magistrate, together with about 60 rank and file of the 85th regiment, and a few policemen, to the parish of Mahoonagh; we were accompanied by the Rev. John Locke, son to the incumbent, and about 30 bailiffs. When we arrived at a village about six miles off, called Fehonagh, where there is a road leading to the right, Mr. Smith went on the direct road with half our force, and I went to the right with the other half, having arranged not to go beyond two places which we pointed out, so that we could not be out of view or hearing of each other; and if either saw any danger approaching he was to fire two shots at short intervals, and we agreed to unite again on our return at the same village.

When I proceeded to the right about half a mile, the bailiff made a seizure of two cows, which were immediately rescued by about a dozen men armed with stones. I then took my party into the field, and made prisoners of six men, who were identified as being concerned in the rescue, and I enabled the bailiffs to carry away the cattle. We then went to another place, near where they seized 10 pigs, and to another place close by, where the bailiff brought away two carts; for all over the parish, except in two or three cases, the cattle were driven in and shut up in the houses on our approach. We then commenced our return home; and as we approached the village where we should pass, we saw great numbers of persons coming from all points, and concentrating there; and we were told that we were to be attacked at this place. All this time my party did not load; and having seen Mr. Smith and his party standing on the road, about 200 yards south of the village, I approached to about the same distance, and halted the men and the distress. To pass that point, and to carry the distress was imperative on me; and for the purpose of doing so without injury to the people, I, who had not any arms whatever, accompanied by one policeman, rode up to them, to the very turn of the road, and begged of them not to attempt a rescue; that I could not permit it; and that they might be injured. At this moment they threw showers of stones at me, from the road and houses, and over the houses, some of which struck me. I then went back to my party and directed them to prime and load. At this instant I heard shots in my rear; and then I desired my party to move on, and to take great care of all the distress. The stones still continued to fly in all directions, as the police and military fired several shots at the assailants, who were principally at this instant throwing over the houses and from behind the walls. I saw one man come to the north end of the range of houses which stand on the east of the road, and fire a shot towards us on the road. I believe he was shot by a sergeant of the 85th regiment, who says he shot him; and as I passed I saw a man lying apparently dead near the spot. We brought the prisoners, cows, pigs, carts and men all safe, receiving only some pelts of stones, which are not dangerous.

The officers and soldiers defended us and themselves well, and as soon as we passed the point I desired them to cease firing, which was instantly attended to; every thing they did that came under my observation met with my full approbation.

I sent over to Rathkeale last night for the party quartered there, and 22 rank and file have now arrived from it. We go out this day with about 90 of the 85th, and 12 policemen; and to-morrow I mean to go again, pursuant to my original arrangement with Mr. Locke. On Thursday, being the first of a month, I mean to be in Limerick, as I must be at my office on that day. I wrote last evening to Colonel Mansel, the major of brigade, at Limerick, to inform the Major-general, and to give him an opportunity to send over dragoons, or any other force he might think necessary. I understood that a strong company was sent here on Saturday last, but I find there was only about 40 there. For my opinion of the opposition I expected in that parish, permit me to refer to my letter of the 16th instant, as well as to one written on the same day by the Rev. Mr. Locke.

I beg

I beg to enclose with this, Mr. Smith's report of the proceedings as they came under his view.

There was a foolish notice found in the streets here this day, promising to kill the Rev. Mr. Locke and myself. I think several must have been killed or wounded.

Sir, Newcastle, 29th April 1834.

I BEG leave to inform you, that on yesterday at noon, Mr. Vokes and I, with two officers, four serjeants, and 60 rank and file of the 85th regiment, and six policemen, proceeded from this post to the parish of Mahoonagh, to protect the bailiffs of the Rev. Mr. Locke when distraining for tithes. On our arrival at the village of Feohanagh, we divided our force, one party inclining to the right, and the other in a direct line. Upon my coming to the point agreed upon, the bailiffs made some seizures of cattle, when they were immediately attacked with a shower of stones by a mob which had collected, upon which I ordered the party into the fields to protect them; the officer then ordered his men to prime and load, which had the effect of intimidating them, and we eventually brought away the distress without any further disturbance. Previous to the separation of the party, we agreed to unite on our return at Feohanagh: accordingly, when I came within about 300 yards of it, I halted my party, finding that Mr. Vokes had not arrived, and that a large mob had assembled there to oppose our progress. I remained at this spot for about three quarters of an hour, and during the time, the country people rushed at us several times to rescue the cattle that stood in front of us on the road. The officer then ordered his party into two divisions, and we placed the cattle in the centre. Finding they were determined on mischief, I requested Chief Constable Grant to accompany me, and we rode up to within speaking distance, and I read the Riot Act, and explained to them the consequence if they attacked us; some of them told me that they did not care for the Riot Act, or for me or my force, and let the consequence be as it might, they would not allow the cattle to be taken. When Mr. Vokes and his party came up he rode up to them with a single policeman, to remonstrate with them, and he was instantly assaulted with a shower of stones. I then ordered the policemen from my party to advance to his support, and they were in like manner attacked, upon which they discharged their pistols at the assailants, in defence of their lives: the moment the military came up to the spot they were in like manner attacked, and they commenced firing also. Mr. Vokes then ordered some of them in the rear of the houses to dislodge the persons that were pelting us from behind; and in a few minutes the passage was cleared, and the firing ceased by Mr. Vokes's order. I think that some of them must have been killed. As far as I could see, nothing could be better than the conduct of the 85th, and the men of the police, and I do not think they exceeded what was necessary to preserve their lives and the distress that they had in charge.

Sir, Newcastle, 29th April 1834, 7 P. M.

I HAVE the honour to state for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, that in my life I never saw such a change wrought in the demeanour of the population of a district, as was in that of the parish of Mahoonagh since yesterday. The people were then furious and frantic, and said no law would do but such as they made; this day all were quiet and peaceable, as they ought to be. We went out on a line of country parallel to that which we traversed yesterday, to the east of it, to the most southern extremity of the parish; most of the people locked up their cattle on our approach, but I endeavoured to have distress taken in every case, such as carts, and even a stone trough, for the purpose of showing the folly of opposing the laws, and that they did not give a victory even by locking up the cattle.

We go out to-morrow again, and in the evening I intend to go to Limerick. Mr. Smith intends to attend at a tithe court at Askeaton on Thursday, as we apprehend some disorder would take place there.

Three men, named Brown, Sullivan, and Griffin, were shot dead yesterday, and another wounded in the cheek, and a woman received a ball in the hand; when we ascertained it this day, we sent to inform a coroner. Brown was the most prominent leader of the assailants, and was with stones in his hands daring the authorities the entire morning. The other two, I am informed, were shot when in the act of throwing stones from behind the houses. It is singular that the woman who was hit is Brown's wife, and she was most furious during the morning. The shops in this town had their windows closed all this day, in compliment to the departed heroes.

30th, 9 A. M.

Mr. Locke has written to me to say, that he thinks we had better not go out this day, nor until the disposition to pay, which now exists, ceases; some people ran in with their money yesterday, and many are expected this day.

The windows still continue closed.

Sir,

Newcastle, May 1834.

I BEG to solicit your attention to the state of things here, as concerns the collection of the tithe arrear due to me. Mr. Vokes pleads a press of business elsewhere, and Mr. Smith is manifestly disinclined to act.

In the mean time organization is busy, and arms are being collected for the next occasion: this is a matter of popular boast, and I state it assuredly.

There has been a warrant out for many days against persons who assaulted my bailiffs in the most murderous manner openly in the street; several of those have not been arrested as yet, although two of them reside in the town and at a short distance from the police barrack; in my humble opinion, such tardiness will be construed by the disaffected into fear; but such is the state of the popular mind, that the magistrates consider delay prudent.

Seven distraints have been effected with the loss of several lives and at considerable expense to the Government, yet the example has served no practical purpose.

The union of Newcastle and Monigen, of which I am rector, and which borders on Mahoonagh, is now following the example of that parish, and these parishes comprehend such a vast extent of ground, about 13 Irish miles by 11, one-third being mountain, containing over 600 solvent landholders, still unpaid; and tidings are communicated so rapidly, to facilitate the gathering of people and driving away and shutting up of cattle, that I am inclined to think the mode most practicable, least perilous, and, in the end, least expensive to Government, would be the encampment of a considerable force sufficient to overawe opposition, which might be occasionally changed to central and commanding stations, until the tithe availably due is collected,—I say availably due, inasmuch as the greater part of the tithe is due by notes and agreement, not processed decrees requiring renewal and by valuation: the tithe due by valuation must become the subject of a suit in Exchequer, by filing a bill, as the most comprehensive and speediest means of recovering same.

Allow me to suggest that Newcastle should not be left, even for one day, without a company as barrack guard. I deeply regret that the circumstance of my having been a few days late in application under the Relief Act, has compelled me to recover my property by means which may cause insurrection in this neighbourhood, and the loss of many lives. I have no alternative but a gaol.

The Solicitor-general, pending his investigation of the affray at Feohanagh, had an opportunity of witnessing a daring attack of the country people in the very centre of Newcastle, on two companies of the 85th foot and a strong party of the 7th dragoons and of the constabularly, under direction of five magistrates, two of whom narrowly escaped severe injuries, as well as also the officer of dragoons and chief of police, and many of the soldiers and police. Major Jackson, the field-officer in command, received a severe blow from a large stone.

The statements made in this letter are not exaggerated, and I humbly pray that my case may be taken into consideration immediately and effectively.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 9th May 1834.

Referring to your letter of the — instant, I am directed to acquaint you that Major Miller, who is a magistrate, has been ordered to proceed to Newcastle, and to attend with a sufficient force for the protection of your tithe collectors, and for the preservation of the peace.

I am, &c.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 9th May 1834.

The Lord Lieutenant having deemed expedient that Major Miller should proceed immediately to Newcastle, to take charge, as Inspector-general and a magistrate, of the military and police force to be employed in protecting the tithe collectors of the Rev. Thomas Locke; also, that the Major shall promptly put himself in communication with the Major-general commanding at Limerick, in order that such arrangements may be made as shall be necessary for having a sufficient force for the execution of the service.

His Excellency, therefore, requests that you will issue such instructions to the Major-general at Limerick, as you may deem advisable, in the view of co-operating with Major Miller in this instance.

I have, &c.

The Major-general Commanding, (signed) William Gosset.

Sir, Newcastle, 15th May 1834.

Having arrived here yesterday, in pursuance of his Excellency's orders received on the 12th instant, I made arrangements for going out with the disposable police and military forces of this town, for the protection of the collectors of the Rev. Thomas Locke, on this morning.

We were accordingly engaged for between five and six hours, as we had a considerable distance to march before reaching the parish of Castle Mahon; we experienced no sort of opposition. The stock was housed in only one instance, and various persons paid their dues without being distrained: where distress was made, the farmers at once settled.

I had received such information of intended resistance as led me to forward a requisition for some reinforcements, which I expect to arrive here in the course of this day, and which will carry the effective strength of the military detachment here, to a subaltern party of 25 dragoons, a company of the 85th, and a company of rifles.

The people manifested no sulkiness or ill humour to-day. I am told that we shall find a very different spirit displayed among the mountaineers, among whom I purpose going on the day after to-morrow; as the rifles, who are to march in to-day, will require a day's rest, we shall be at work to-morrow nearer home.

The force out to-day consisted of seven policemen, about 60 infantry, and 14 dragoons.

From the letter which I herewith enclose, and which reached me last night, it will be seen that alarming stories of the state of this neighbourhood are afloat; it certainly would be premature to pronounce them totally groundless, more especially as the most lawless part of the district has not yet been visited; but, as far as I could judge from the day's proceedings, I am inclined to think that there has been considerable exaggeration in the rumours which have been circulated.

Sir, Newcastle, 18th May 1834.

I beg to state for his Excellency's information, that since my preceding Report of the 15th instant, I have been twice out with the collectors of the Rev. Thomas Locke. We were engaged for upwards of nine hours yesterday, and for almost as long a period on the preceding day; there was no attempt at resistance. In several instances the houses were locked up, but the owners, in such cases, were in attendance outside, and professed their readiness to pay the tithes when in possession of the necessary means.

The country seems in this neighbourhood to be perfectly quiet.

Sir, Newcastle, 20th May 1834.

In continuation of previous Reports, I beg to state for the information of the Lord Lieutenant, that I accompanied the drivers of the Rev. Thomas Locke, with detachments of troops and police, both yesterday and this day, for the purpose of enforcing the payment of tithes. The march yesterday occupied above nine hours, yet we only received an inconsiderable sum of money. The people are miserably poor, and at this season they are more destitute of means than at almost any other part of the year. We experienced no opposition whatever; on the contrary, the demeanour of the peasantry was respectful in the extreme; and I am of opinion that they are not acting upon any agreement to withhold tithes, or at least that any combination of the kind is by no means universal amongst Mr. Locke's parishioners.

I have, &c.

Sir, Newcastle, 2d June 1834.

Permit me to ask you whether it is allowable, in pursuit of distress under a decree or composition, to lift a door of a dwelling-house or out-office off the hinges, provided no damage is done to the door.

I regret to state that the spirit of opposition, though not apparent in open defiance, still exists, and is likely to continue, to the collection of my tithe; there still remains an arrear due of solvent landholders, to an amount of over 2,600 l.; and although the troops march about 15 miles each day, and are frequently out at night in order to be at the place of distraint at sun-rise, the average of daily value collected in distress or money does not exceed 8 l. The attendance of dragoons at night (now ordered by authority) alarms the country by the tramp of the horses, and renders our night campaigns comparatively useless. In short, except the system of encampment, and watching the houses for the purpose of starving out the cattle, or of billeting the troops on the farmers, or such other system as government authorities, in their wisdom, may consider advisable, should be adopted, much valuable time will be lost, troops vexatiously harassed, and considerable expense incurred.

Matters continuing as they are, and where is the likelihood of change for the better?

Government never can collect their own tithe under the proposed system, without immense expense and protracted excitement. Quere, Whether it would not be advisable to select this case as a pioneer of a new system, which from its sworn decision might show the hopelessness of opposition in future.

I have, &c.

Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. (signed) Thomas Locke, Rector of Newcastle.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 7th June 1834.

In reply to your letter of the 2d instant, I am directed to state, that it is not allowable, in pursuit of a distress under a decree or composition, to lift a door of a dwelling-house or out-office off the hinges, although no damage is effected.

With respect to the arrear of tithe due to you, it would appear that the mode you propose to secure its collection amounts to taking military possession of the country, an expedient which his Excellency is not disposed to adopt; and much as he regrets the harassing duty imposed upon the troops and the police, it is the only aid he can afford towards effecting the object you have in view.

I am, &c.

Rev. Thomas Locke, Newcastle. (signed) William Gosset.

Sir, Newcastle, 6th June 1834.

Permit me to make a few remarks for his Excellency's gracious consideration, relative to the collection of my tithe, for which a protecting force is in attendance, and which force, I trust may be ordered to attend until a number of subpœnas are served. We have not in any one instance been unsuccessful in securing some distraints, although few sometimes; however, a prosperous result is rather to be expected from the untiring and co-operative effort of all parties on our side, than from the incidental circumstance of driving in a certain number of distraints on so many consecutive days. This is a grazing country, and farmers at this time are in possession of means of turning their grazing capital to account: besides, their cattle are so harassed, from continual housing and driving across the country, that the organization must soon be broken. We are now only looking to solvent marks for large sums (decrees), to poorer marks for small sums (one gale composition), and leaving quite enough behind for six weeks employment in harvest. A Bill in Exchequer is now in course of being filed; and after serving of the subpœnas, which I have found to be most successful, I would suggest the prudence of making an occasional sally, say three days, consecutive or apart, in so many weeks, in order to puzzle the defaulters and defeat the injurious effects of false rumours. The past month's campaign has brought me in upwards of 400 l.; and I feel assured that the subpœnas, and an occasional sally in summer, will have the effect of bringing in much more. At this month's quarter sessions, I shall be compelled to take out or renew decrees to the amount of over 200, and these, with scarce an exception, against solvent marks: there may not be five exceptions, and I must resort, I suppose, to the assistance of the sheriff, should it be deemed advisable to withdraw the protecting force, which has been intimated to me as an event not unlikely to occur. My parishes, containing an immense population, and covering a vast extent of country, champaign and mountainous, in former times were the theatre on which the spirit of rebellious discontent first manifested itself. These times are not forgotten; that spirit is but slumbering; and should false rumours go abroad among the people, of fear or undue conciliation on the part of Government, occasioned by sudden withdrawal of the protecting force, the consequences may be attended with imminent risk to other species of property.

Mr. Wilcocks, the attending magistrate, is indeed most experienced and intelligent, and I am much indebted to his kindness and exertion; but many most important places remain unvisited, and business cannot be effectively done, as that gentleman, since his arrival, has been labouring under an attack of gout in both feet, and cannot now leave his gig.

I am greatly distressed indeed, in consequence of non-payment of my tithe; but I trust his Excellency will graciously give me credit for disinterestedness in my statements. Sure am I that his Grace will find my word true.

I have, &c.

Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. (signed) Thomas Locke, Rector of Newcastle, &c. &c.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 11th June 1834.

With reference to my letter of the 7th instant, in reply to your inquiry whether it is allowable to take the door of a dwelling-house or out-office off its hinges, in pursuing a distress for tithes under a decree or composition, I request, inasmuch as it is understood you have obtained a legal affirmative opinion on that point, that you will have the goodness to furnish me with a copy of that opinion, if it be the case that you have received it.

I am, &c.

The Rev. Thomas Locke, Newcastle. (signed) William Gosset.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 12th June 1834.

In forwarding to you the accompanying letter from the Rev. Thomas Locke, respecting the proceedings taken with regard to his tithes, I request you will report, for the Lord Lieutenant's information, your opinion upon the observations contained in Mr. Locke's letter, which you will please to return with your report.

I am, &c.

John Wilcocks, Esq., &c. &c. (signed) William Gosset.

Sir, Newcastle, 13th June 1834.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of yesterday's date, inclosing one from the Rev. Thomas Locke, respecting the proceedings taken with regard to the collection of his tithes, and desiring my opinion thereon. In obedience to which, I have the honour to acquaint you that, in my opinion, the combination against the payment has, to a certain extent, been broken down, many of the farmers having come in within the last six days and settled their tithes. I am also of opinion that the rigorous distraining and driving should for the present be suspended. At this season of the year money is very scarce with the farmers, and the county rates, which must be paid in previous to the approaching assizes, are about being collected, which averages, I have been informed, from 1 s. 9 d. to 2 s. an acre. The tithe composition for which Mr. Locke is driving (independent of the decrees, which are for large amounts, some of them being for arrears of five years accruing) amounts to 1 s. 5 d. per acre, one gale, or one-half of which he is only now seeking for; however, both charges being levied at this particular season, press heavy upon the farmer, and therefore I recommend the suspension, to which Mr. Locke is willing to agree.

Mr. Locke has filed a Bill in the Exchequer against 80 of the most opulent farmers in the parish, 25 of whom have settled since they have been aware of the proceedings he has taken, and he expects the most beneficial results from the service of the subpœnas upon the remainder, for which purpose he is anxious the military may be allowed to remain; the duty will not occupy more than three days after the receipt of the subpœnas from Dublin.

I think it would be advisable to acquiesce in Mr. Locke's suggestion of granting an occasional protection of the military to his bailiffs during the summer, lest an idea might spread and gain credit amongst the peasantry, that the Government had withdrawn its aid and countenance from his proceedings, which arrangement can be carried into effect without any inconvenience, as I understand a company of infantry are permanently stationed here, which I should deem quite sufficient for the service, as I have not observed the slightest disposition evinced by the people to oppose the bailiffs by force.

I return the enclosures of your letter.

I have, &c.

Lieut-Col. Sir W. Gosset, K. C. H. (signed) John Wilcocks.

Sir, 13th June 1834.

IN pursuance to your desire, I send an extract from the opinion of Mr. Deane Freeman, barrister:—"That you being authorized by a legal process, such as a decree, are justified in breaking open the doors of an outhouse or barn, provided it is not within the curtilage of the house, or connected with it; but if you fail in finding the goods therein, the consequences will be at your peril."

Mr. Freeman did not give an affirmative opinion concerning breaking open for distress under composition.

Permit me to remark, that as the combination seems now to be breaking up, and payment of county charges weighs heavy on the tithe payers, it would be advisable not to press on the people for some time, but occasionally, until harvest arrives, to permit the attendance of a protecting force with my bailiffs, in order to promote and encourage payment of arrear by instalments, for the tithe payers are not and will not be convinced. Compulsion alone in these cases secures payment.

I have, &c.

Sir William Gosset, &c. &c. (signed) Thomas Locke, Rector of Newcastle.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 18th June 1834.

I HAVE received the Lord Lieutenant's commands to forward for your perusal two letters dated 6th and 13th instant from the Rev. Thomas Locke, Rector of Newcastle, together with a communication from Mr. Wilcocks, chief magistrate of police, respecting the proceedings taken for the collection of Mr. Locke's tithes; and I am directed by his Excellency to state that, under the circumstances represented, sented, it appears to be desirable that military protection should be occasionally afforded to that gentleman's bailiffs during the summer, and which it appears can be readily given by the detachment stationed in Newcastle.

In requesting you will be pleased to return the accompanying papers,

I have &c.

To Major-General Commanding. (signed) William Gosset.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 19th June 1834.

I AM directed to acquaint you that the law adviser concurs in the opinion of counsel, as conveyed in your letter of the 13th instant, with respect to the breaking open the doors of an outhouse or barn, when authorised by legal process such as a decree; but as to distress for tithe composition, he does not think that the doors even of an outhouse can be broken, although, for the purpose of executing decrees, it is otherwise.

In regard to your suggestion of being granted the occasional protection to your bailiffs of the military stationed at Newcastle during the summer, I beg to observe that instructions will be given to that effect without delay.

I have, &c.

The Rev. Thomas Locke, (signed) William Gosset.

Sir, Newcastle, 28th June 1834.

HAVING received a legal affirmative opinion respecting the point of its being allowable to break open the doors of an outhouse not connected with or under curtilage of a dwelling-house, in pursuit of a distress under a decree; and having furnished you, at your request, (stated in your letter of June 11th) with a copy of the same opinion, may I solicit to know the result of your consideration of the matter.

I have, &c.

Sir William Gosset, (signed) Thomas Locke,
&c. &c. Rector of Newcastle, &c.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 1st July 1834.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 28th ultimo, in which you request a decision on your former communication, inclosing a copy of the opinion of counsel with respect to the breaking open the doors of an outhouse or barn, when authorised by legal process. I beg to refer you to the letter which, in reply, I addressed to you upon the subject on the 19th of June.

I have now to add, that the aid of the police or military may be afforded to prevent bloodshed or a breach of the peace; but they cannot be allowed to act as bailiffs, or in the execution of the process, the risk of which must be solely with yourself. You, and your officers alone, must be responsible for the legality of the proceeding, the interference of the police or military being merely in the exercise of a public duty.

I am, &c.

The Rev. Thomas Locke, (signed) William Gosset.
Newcastle.

Sir, Newcastle, 25th August 1834.

I HAVE this day written to Mr. Smith, the chief magistrate and constable resident at Rathkeale, to request his attendance with troops on the 30th instant, for the purpose of affording protection to my bailiffs in the execution of civil bill decrees due on account of tithe. The party of dragoons have been withdrawn from this station, as during the summer, when money was scarce, I did not wish to distress the people; and I have to state, that since compulsory measures ceased, I have not received one shilling tithe. However, the effect of the spring campaign has been, that the tithe due under the old system of valuation has been (with exception of a trifling default) settled by note or agreement.

The report gone abroad that troops are not henceforth to be granted may cause much much mischief, if the people be not undeceived without delay. It is difficult to pronounce whether the people will succumb or oppose.

The great expense and difficulties which they experienced by their opposition in spring may induce them at once to strike and pay off the arrear, when a determined spirit is manifested to collect it.

In this neighbourhood the harvest is very prosperous; and I do not intend to distrain the poorer holders, but to lean on those who are solvent and able to pay.

I should take the liberty of recommending the attendance of Major Miller in this business; at least to commence proceedings. His system is mild, yet determined; and short as was his residence here on tithe duty last spring, his conduct has certainly gained for him a degree of moral influence among the misguided people, which might be beneficial in doing away with difficulties and dangers, and perhaps by a judicious conduct in the commencement, might have the effect of doing away with opposition also here and elsewhere. If opposition is crushed here, it certainly will have the effect of doing away with it through a great part of the south of Ireland.

I have, &c.

Sir William Gosset, &c. &c.

(signed) Thomas Locke, Rector of Newcastle.

Sir, Cork, 1st September 1834.

His Excellency will probably bear in recollection the course of proceedings in the parishes in the neighbourhood of Newcastle, in the county of Limerick, of which the Rev. Mr. Locke is incumbent, consequent upon the opposition which was met with at Feohanagh, where compulsory measures had been taken to levy tithes due to the clergyman. I personally superintended the subsequent operations until called away by other engagements. Mr. Wilcocks succeeded me in the discharge of similar duties; but his presence being required in his own district, I proposed that Mr. Smith should be entrusted with the future conduct of any proceedings where the interference of the troops and police might be called for; and you signified to me in your letter of the 13th of June, the Lord Lieutenant's pleasure, that the suggested arrangement should be carried into effect. Mr. Smith did accordingly attend repeatedly at Mr. Locke's requisition, and the operations proceeded without any renewal of disturbance. The season of the year, however, was unfavourable for the collection of the clergyman's dues, as the farmers are more destitute of funds during the summer months than at any other period. Mr. Locke, therefore, suspended further proceedings, with the intention of renewing them after the commencement of harvest. He wrote to Mr. Smith last week, announcing his intention of resuming the execution of civil bill decrees on the 30th August; and this magistrate, in accordance with his previous instruction, was disposed to attend to protect the ministerial officers of the law; but as will appear by his accompanying report to me, which is herewith enclosed, on communicating with Lieut.-colonel Mansel, the staff-officer at Limerick, respecting the co-operation of the troops, the latter deemed it desirable that a reference should be previously made to Government, in case any circumstance should now militate against the granting of the service of the military upon such occasions. I cannot but feel that there is every probability of forcible resistance in the execution of the decrees which Mr. Locke intends to enforce, unless Mr. Smith be permitted to protect the bailiffs with troops and police.

I have, &c.

Sir William Gosset, K.C.H.

(signed) Wm. Miller.

Sir, Rathkeale, 30th August 1834.

I have had an interview with Colonel Mansel respecting the aid required by the Rev. Mr. Locke in the collection of tithes, and he was of opinion that it would be prudent to write to Colonel Sir William Gosset upon the subject for his directions. I have therefore written to Mr. Locke to this effect; and I request that you will be so good as to write to Sir William, to know is it the wish of the Government that the military and civil force should resume that duty.

I am, &c.

Major Miller, Inspector-general of Police.

(signed) Wm. Smith.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 2d September 1834.

Having submitted to the Lord Lieutenant your letter of 25th ultimo, with regard to the enforcement of your tithes, his Excellency desires me to inform you that he cannot order a force to attend on their collection, upon the representation you have made, which his Excellency must observe, appears to have more for its object the display of force than the maintenance of public peace. I am further to remark, that his Excellency is only warranted in interfering upon the production of an affidavit, founded upon reasonable grounds, of the expectation of a breach of the peace, to the prevention of which, alone, the services of the police and military must be limited.

I have, &c.

Rev. Thomas Locke, Newcastle. (signed) William Gosset.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 2d September 1834.

In reference to your letter of the 1st instant, with regard to the enforcement of the Rev. Mr. Locke's tithes, I beg to acquaint you, that a communication on that subject has also been received from the Rev. Mr. Locke, who was informed that the Lord Lieutenant could not order a force to attend in the collection of his tithes upon the representation made by him, which, his Excellency observed, appeared to have more for its object the display of force than the maintenance of the public peace; and that his Excellency was only warranted in interfering upon the production of an affidavit, founded upon reasonable grounds, of the expectation of a breach of the peace, to the prevention of which, alone, the services of the police and military must be limited.

I have, &c.

Major Miller, Cork. (signed) William Gosset.

Sir, Newcastle, 2d September 1834.

Having addressed a letter a week hence to you, stating my intention of requesting the attendance of Mr. Smith, police magistrate, with a protecting force to protect my bailiffs in the collection of tithe due to me; and having accordingly sent my requisition, after having awaited any reply which you might be pleased to make, Mr. Smith strongly advised me not to insist on the requisition, until a communication should be received from Government on the subject; and informed me, that such, he believed, was the wish of the general in command of this district, and of the colonel in command of the 91st, a detachment of which corps is now stationed in this town.

Permit me, therefore, to solicit a confirmatory order for the protection hitherto graciously granted and promised, and to lay before his Excellency a statement of the peculiar (I believe unprecedented) circumstances in which I am placed.

During the latter part of last spring, at the suggestion of Major Miller, and according to the expressed approval of Government, I suspended the enforcement of my tithes until harvest, in consideration of that period being more plentiful, and therefore more convenient to the farmers; and I accepted promissory notes for debt and cost from a great number of tithe-holders. Had I then continued, I should have received nearly the full amount in cash and value long before this date; but during the suspension not one shilling was paid.

I am under law costs to a ruinous amount; and independently of arrears of composition, and arrears under the valuation system, I have lying by me executions not levied, several subpœnas not served, 97 decrees not levied, and 213 notes, passed chiefly during the campaign of last spring by solvent holders, solvent with not more than half a dozen exceptions; all comprising a sum total of 2,700 l. The notes are all now due, and processes are being filed for them next quarter sessions, in October. What a premium would it be to disaffection to concede such a claim to a great number of prosperous farmers scattered over a vast extent of country! In truth, I have no other alternative but utter ruin in pecuniary matters.

Previously to entering on the compulsory system, I made many offers of liberal abatement and indulgence, all in vain. I beg to leave to suggest, that the enforcement of tithe arrears in this focus of tithe disaffection, and at the present during a prosperous season, and less likely to harass troops than winter campaigning, may anticipate many evils, and break down an accumulating opposition.

As for my own interests, I would most gladly embrace any reasonable alternative, rather than be compelled to adopt a compulsory system. Soliciting a speedy reply,

I have, &c.

Sir William Gosset,
&c. &c.

Rector of Newcastle.

Sir, Newcastle, 15th September 1834.

I ENCLOSE an affidavit, as instructed, and solicit from his Excellency protection for my bailiffs in the collection of tithe arrears due to me; and beg to state my humble opinion, that the enforcement of tithe at the present time, when the season is prosperous, and the weather favourable to movement of troops, will have the effect of checking an accumulating resistance in this neighbourhood, and probably elsewhere.

There are now stationed in this town 89 men of the 91st, under command of a field-officer, and nine police. The usual force on this station was augmented last spring to the above numbers, for the purpose of affording my bailiffs protection in the collection of tithe; the cavalry force only having been withdrawn, when the enforcement of the tithe was suspended during the summer, at the suggestion of Major Miller, and with the approval of Government.

THE Reverend Thomas Locke, rector of the union of Newcastle and Monagea, and incumbent of the parish of Mahoonagh, both situated in the barony of Upper Connelloe, county Limerick, being duly sworn on the Holy Evangelist, deposes, that from the combined and unabated resistance to the collection of tithe in this district, and especially to the collection of tithe due deponent, in protection of whose bailiffs the military and police were attacked last spring, and one of deponent's bailiffs dangerously wounded, also three of the assaulting party killed; deponent believes, and is assured, that his bailiffs, all of whom decline to act without protection, would be murdered in course of collecting his tithe, if not protected by a civil and military force.

Thomas Locke.

Sworn before us at Newcastle, September 15, 1834.

Alfred Furlong, J. P.
Thomas Locke, jun., J. P.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 17th September 1834.

I HAVE submitted to the Lord Lieutenant your letter of the 15th instant.

I am directed by his Excellency to acquaint you, that he cannot consent to place any military or police force at your disposal, except on some distinct understanding as to the period of time that it shall be employed. I am further to apprize you, that any military or police force to be mustered on the occasion must only be employed for the preservation of the peace, and in no other manner.

During the summer the military and police were employed in the protection of your servants for a period of about 70 days, at the conclusion of which time you informed me, that unless they were encamped on the ground, you feared any further efforts to collect tithe would be in vain.

His Excellency, although he feels it impossible to comply with that suggestion, is however desirous that your servants should have every requisite protection in the renewed attempt which you now propose to make; but feels it necessary to prescribe a period for the attendance of the military and police.

As soon as I shall hear from you again, the necessary orders shall be given.

I am, &c.

Rev. Thomas Locke,
Newcastle.

Sir, Newcastle, 20th September 1834.

In reply to your letter of the 17th instant, I beg to state that the troops, though stationed here for a period of 70 days, for the purpose of protecting my bailiffs in the collection of tithe, were actually occupied only 23 days; the delay being occasioned by changes in civil and military arrangements. That this campaign of 23 days induced payment of something less than 500*l.* Conjecturing from this comparative success hitherto, and the present more favourable season, a considerable part of the arrear would probably be collected in course of two or three months; but delay increases difficulties by giving occasion for false rumours, by multiplying the confident expectations of the defaulters, and by affording time for further combination, besides the season becoming more unfavourable; and I beg to suggest, that stipulating a time for the campaign would, for obvious reasons, have the effect of strengthening the popular obstinacy and resolve. Certainly all factitious opposition to the arrear would cease, if false rumours did not persuade the people to doubt the determination of Government to continue protection to the clergy.

His Excellency may graciously grant me protection for whatever period of time he may think suitable for the present. It would be impossible for me to stipulate a period, including an uncertain result.

In all my arrangements, I have had an especial regard for sparing the troops, and contributed to their comfort as far as I could, and except on one occasion, when the troops were ordered to return, in consequence of heavy rain, each day of the campaign was productive in lessening the arrear.

I have sent a duplicate of this communication to Sir William Gosset, and have the honour to remain, &c.

Irish-office, London.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 26th September 1834.

I have received and laid before the Lord Lieutenant your letter of the 20th inst., with respect to granting your bailiffs the protection of the military when collecting your tithes.

His Excellency thinks it impossible to accede to a requisition of this nature, for the aid of a military force for an indefinite period of time, and upon grounds not distinctly put forward; you are, therefore, requested to state by affidavit the nature of the legal process which you wish to enforce, the demand upon which it is founded, the grounds of your apprehension of forcible resistance, and the probable duration of the required service.

Upon an affidavit specifying these particulars, and detailing such resistance as may have been offered, being produced to the magistrates at petty sessions, they will be authorized to make an order directing the police to attend, and upon that order being communicated to the Government, a sufficient military force will be instructed to be present to preserve the peace.

I am to add that, in all cases of this nature, the presence of a magistrate must be procured.

I am, &c.

Rev. Thomas Locke, Newcastle.

Sir, Newcastle, 3d October 1834.

I beg leave to enclose an affidavit to the purport required in your letter of September 26th; also a statement, signed by the magistrates at sessions, declaratory of their opinion. I beg leave also to refer you to Major Miller, who having for a considerable period been employed in protection of my bailiffs last summer, is well aware of the circumstances of my tithe arrear, and will, I feel assured, testify to the expediency and necessity of granting me the solicited protection without further delay. Praying for an immediate reply, affording me the requisite protection, which may facilitate the business, and probably anticipate much protracted and tedious duty,

Newcastle, 3d October 1834.

To the Chairman and Magistrates at Newcastle Petty Sessions.

Gentlemen,

Allow me to solicit from you for the satisfaction of the Government, a reply to the following quere, whether you believe that the lives of my bailiffs would be endangered in the collection of tithe arrear due to me in the union of Newcastle and Monagea, and in the parish of Mahoonagh, if not protected by a civil and military force.

Thomas Locke,
Rector of the Union of Newcastle and Monagea, and of the Parish of Mahoonagh.

Newcastle Petty Sessions, 3d October 1834.

We have no doubt that the lives of Mr. Locke's bailiffs would be sacrificed, if they proceeded in the collection of the tithes of the parish of Mahoonagh, and of the union of Newcastle and Monagea, without the protection of a civil and military force.

(signed) James Sullivan.
Alfred Furlong.

The Rev. Thomas Locke being duly sworn on the Holy Evangelists, deposes—

That he is possessed of the tithes of the union of Newcastle and Monagea, also of the tithes of the parish of Mahoonagh, adjoining said union ;

That a considerable arrear of those tithes, chiefly in the parish of Mahoonagh, is due, by promissory notes, by decrees issued at quarter sessions, by one execution, by composition tithe ; also by tithe due under valuation, for a considerable portion of which tithe due under last-mentioned denomination, a suit has been instituted in the Court of Exchequer, and subpœnas accordingly issued and served ;

That he believes that his bailiffs, who from fear of assassination refuse to act without protection, would be murdered by the peasantry in course of administering the several duties required in the collection of the tithe arrear due in modes as above stated ;

That he is confirmed in that belief by the combined resistance to the collection of tithe due to deponent, especially in the parish of Mahoonagh, where the military and police, in protection of his bailiffs, were attacked last spring, and one of deponent's bailiffs dangerously wounded, also three of the assaulting peasantry killed ;

That the probable time to be occupied in collection of the tithe arrear due to deponent may be 40 days of actual employment ;

That he thinks the period of collection would not prove so protracted, if popular obstinacy and confident expectation had not been increased by delay in granting the protection solicited, which protection deponent considered to be guaranteed last summer, when, at the suggestion of Major Miller, and with the expressed approval of the Government, operations were suspended until the more convenient season of harvest ;

That he believes that further delay will only increase the difficulties of collection, and add to the personal peril of all concerned in it.

Alfred Furlong.
James Sullivan.

Petty Sessions, Newcastle, 3d October 1834.
(signed) Thomas Locke.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 6th October 1834.

I BEG leave to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 3d instant, containing the affidavit which you had made before the magistrates at the Newcastle petty sessions, together with a certificate of those magistrates, expressing their opinion of the propriety of granting you the protection of a civil and military force.

It must be unnecessary for me to inform you that it is the anxious wish and determination of the Government by all proper means to vindicate the authority of the laws, and to prevent any obstruction by violence to the assertion of legal rights. With this view, every possible aid has been, on all occasions, afforded to the officers of justice, where reasonable ground has been laid for supposing that they would be exposed to personal outrage in the execution of their duty, nor has it been refused even to the agents of individuals, although not clothed with any official character, if employed in the performance of services preliminary to the legal investigation of any civil right. This, however, has been done on the principle with reference to which alone such interference ought to take place, namely, the obligation incumbent on the Executive to maintain the public peace, and to frustrate attempts to resist, by open force, the due and regular prosecution of those remedies which the law has provided for the security of property.

But fully admitting this right of interference, the Government is entitled, in cases of application for the police or military, to be distinctly apprized of the exact duty in the performance of which the persons required to be protected are to be employed.

You state your demands to consist of promissory notes, executions, decrees, and debts due by valuation; and you ask for the presence of a police and military force for 40 days, to protect your men in the collection of these demands.

This is not satisfactory. His Excellency directs me to require that you will state specifically, by affidavit, what are the executions and other law processes you wish to have served, and the grounds of your apprehension of forcible resistance. This statement being submitted to the magistrates at petty sessions, and being satisfactory to them, they will be bound not to furnish a certificate of their opinion (which the Government does not require), but to order at once a police force to prevent such resistance, and the Government will cheerfully and readily, on their suggestion, lend the aid of the military for the same purpose.

I have, &c.

Rev. Thomas Locke, (signed) E. J. Littleton.
Newcastle.

Sir, Newcastle, 8th October 1834.

IN reply to your communication of the 6th, I beg to state that the magistrates assembled at petty sessions positively refused to give an order for the attendance of a police force, and on my producing the letter from Dublin Castle for their consideration, they adduced as a reason for refusal, a clause in the petty sessions Act, which they affirmed strictly forbade them to order the constabulary to interfere in the collection of tithes. May I solicit to know how I am to act in such case, the magistrates of the district having been severally applied to last spring to attend the protecting force and having declined to act. The attendance of a magistrate has now been procured; six weeks have elapsed since my first application, and obstacles have been continually put forward; the result of which delay can only be to increase peril and trouble, and to diminish the probability of recovery of the arrear, protection in collecting which was distinctly guaranteed to me by Government last summer, when at the suggestion of their officer, Major Miller, and with their own expressed approval, proceedings were suspended until early harvest. Now that the quarter sessions have approached, I do not believe that the arrear could be collected in 40 days, as stated in my last; but I am assured that it would have been collected in a more limited period, and with less risk and trouble, if Government had granted me assistance at the time guaranteed.

May I pray that his Excellency will graciously take my case into consideration, and that I may obtain a confirmatory order for protection, hitherto promised.

I have, &c.

Right Hon. E. J. Littleton. (signed) Thomas Locke,
Rector of Newcastle.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 10th October 1834.

If the magistrates attending your petty sessions are satisfied that the public peace is likely to be disturbed by any legal proceedings for the recovery of tithes, it is their bounden duty to employ the police for its preservation. There is a difference between the employment of the police in the recovery of tithes, which is prohibited, and the employment of that force in the prevention of outrages, and the preservation of the public peace; the Government must therefore presume that, if the magistrates have refused the protection you seek, it is on account of a supposed insufficiency of your claim to protection by an extraordinary force, and not from any misapprehension of the state of the law, which admits of no doubt, and is invariably understood.

I shall send a copy of your letter and of this answer to the magistrates at their petty sessions.

I have, &c.

Rev. Thomas Locke, Newcastle, (signed) E. J. Littleton.

Gentlemen, Dublin Castle, 10th October 1834.

I am directed by the Lord Lieutenant to lay before you a copy of a letter from Mr. Locke, dated 8th instant, and of my answer to it.

His Excellency feels fully persuaded that if Mr. Locke's statement, that you have refused him the protection of the police, be true, your refusal must have been grounded on other reasons than those which he has assigned for it; the law being perfectly clear, that although the police cannot be employed in the collection of tithes, yet it is the right and bounden duty of the magistrates to call in their aid for the preservation of the public peace, where they shall see reasonable ground to anticipate its disturbance, no matter from what cause.

I take it for granted that Mr. Locke has submitted to you his correspondence with me respecting his claim to the protection of a police force while engaged in the execution of legal process for the recovery of his dues, and especially my letter of the 6th instant.

I am desired by the Lord Lieutenant to request you will inform me whether Mr. Locke has satisfied you that there is danger to be apprehended to the public peace, in case he proceeds without the protection he prays for, and if so, that you will afford his Excellency an explanation of the grounds on which your refusal of that protection rests.

I have, &c.

Magistrates at Petty Sessions, Newcastle. (signed) E. J. Littleton.

Sir, Rathkeale, 10th October 1834.

I have the honour to inform you that on this day I received from the magistrates of Newcastle district a requisition for a police party (a copy of which I herewith send) to be in attendance on the 22d instant, for the purpose of protecting the bailiffs to be employed in the collection of the Rev. Mr. Locke's tithes, stating that a magistrate would be in attendance to superintend the performance of that duty; I therefore think it necessary to apprize you of the circumstance, as they refer to your letter of the 6th instant, and require military aid also.

In the event of receiving a requisition for my personal attendance with the police for the same duty upon any other day, I beg the honour of your commands upon the subject.

I have, &c.

The Right Hon. E. J. Littleton. (signed) William Smith.

County of Limerick, to wit.

By the Magistrates assembled at Newcastle Petty Sessions, on Friday the 10th October 1834.

WHEREAS the affidavit of the Rev. Thomas Locke has been this day submitted to us (pursuant to Mr. Littleton's letter to that gentleman, dated 6th October instant), stating his apprehension that the lives of the bailiffs to be employed in the collection of his tithes would be endangered unless protected by a civil and military force.

And having duly considered the matter of said affidavit (in connection with said letter), and being satisfied of the truth thereof,

We hereby require you to provide a sufficient police force to accompany and protect Mr. Locke's bailiffs in the collection of his tithes, to assemble at Newcastle, and proceed from thence under the direction of a magistrate, who will be in attendance on Wednesday the 22d of October instant.

Given under our hands, this 10th day of October 1834.

(signed) J. E. Langford,
James Sullivan,
A. Furlong.

William Smith, Esq.,
Sub-inspector of Police, Rathkeale.

Newcastle Petty Sessions, 10th October 1834.

WITH reference to Mr. Littleton's letter to the Rev. Thomas Locke, dated 6th October instant, and Mr. Locke's affidavit of the 10th instant, we beg to suggest to His Majesty's Government, the absolute*ly* necessity that a military force shall accompany the civil power employed in the protection of Mr. Locke's bailiffs.

(signed) J. E. Langford,
James Sullivan,
A. Furlong.

Sir, Newcastle, 10th October 1834.

I BEG to enclose you lists of the tithe arrears due to me, and in collection of which protection is solicited. I also transmit my affidavit laid before the magistrates at petty sessions, and their order to the police to attend; as also their suggestion to Government, that a military force should accompany the police in protection of my bailiffs on 22d October instant. Duplicates of the two last-mentioned documents have been duly dispatched to William Smith, sub-inspector of police, Rathkeale.

I beg to call your attention to the observations on the back of each tithe arrears list; and I humbly hope that further obstacles may not be put forward, which can only tend to diminish the hope of recovery of my tithes, as my family suffer at present great privation and distress in consequence of my being deprived of my property.

There are now stationed in this town six police and 91 infantry of the 18th Royal Irish. I think that 20 dragoons, 25 infantry, and eight police, in addition to this force, will be quite sufficient to effect the business without subjecting troops to unreasonably severe duty, and for these ample accommodation is in the town.

I have, &c.

OBSERVATIONS.

My bailiffs require protection in collection of the above stated arrear, except from those individuals to whose name an asterisk is prefixed.

Subpœnas are about to be issued against all those who owe tithes under valuation.

Decrees will be issued at the quarter sessions of October 13, against all who owe tithe arrear by notes or agreements. The term subpœna, means that a subpœna has been issued. The terms subpœna served, means that a subpœna has been served. The term warrant, means that a warrant for contempt has been issued by Exchequer Court.

Newcastle,
10 October 1834.

(signed) Thomas Locke.

OBSERVATIONS.

My bailiffs require protection of military and police in collection of the above arrears, except from those individuals to whose names an asterisk is prefixed.

Newcastle, 10 October 1834.

The Rev. Thomas Locke being duly sworn on the Holy Evangelists, deposes, that he is possessed of the tithes of the union of Newcastle and Monagea, and of the parish of Mahoonagh adjoining; that a considerable arrear of these tithes, chiefly in the parish of Mahoonagh, is due by promissory notes, by decrees issued at quarter sessions, by one execution, by two warrants of the Court of Exchequer, by composition tithe, also by tithe due under valuation, for a considerable portion of which tithe due under last-mentioned denomination, a suit has been instituted in the Court of Exchequer, and subpœnas accordingly issued and served;

That he believes that his bailiffs, who from fear of assassination refuse to act without protection, would be murdered by the peasantry in course of administering the several duties required in collection of the tithe arrear due in modes as specified in the annexed lists;

That he is confirmed in that belief by the continued resistance to the collection of tithe due to deponent, especially in the parish of Mahoonagh, where the military and police, in protection of his bailiffs, were attacked last spring, and one of deponent's bailiffs dangerously wounded, also three of the assaulting party killed;

That the probable time to be occupied in collection of the said tithe arrear due to deponent may be 40 days of actual employment, that is, that the troops shall be on duty each day of 40 days, alternate or otherwise;

That he thinks the period of collection would not prove so protracted, if popular obstinacy and confident expectation had not been increased by delay in granting the protection solicited, which protection deponent considered to be guaranteed last summer, when, at the suggestion of Major Miller and with the expressed approval of the Government, operations were suspended until the more convenient season of harvest;

That he believes that the delay above alluded to has increased the law costs of tithe-payers, as well as the difficulties of collection, and has added to the personal peril of all concerned in collection of tithe, not only in deponent's parish, but also throughout the country;

That he is assured that further delay will only increase difficulties.

Newcastle Petty Sessions,

County of Limerick, to Wit.

By the Magistrates assembled at Newcastle Petty Sessions, on Friday the 10th of October 1834.

WHEREAS the affidavit of the Rev. Thomas Locke has been this day submitted to us (pursuant to Mr. Littleton's letter to that gentleman, dated 6th Oct. inst.), stating his apprehension that the lives of his bailiffs to be employed in the collection of his tithes would be endangered unless protected by a civil and military force; and having duly considered the matter of said affidavit in connexion with said letter, and being satisfied of the truth thereof, we hereby require you to provide a sufficient police force to accompany and protect Mr. Locke's bailiffs in the collection of his tithes, to assemble at Newcastle, and proceed from thence under the direction of a magistrate, who will be in attendance on Wednesday the 22d of October instant.

Given under our hands, this 10th day of October 1834.

William Smith, Esq., J. P.
Sub-inspector of Police, Rathkeale.

Newcastle Petty Sessions, 10th October 1834.

WITH reference to Mr. Littleton's letter to the Rev. Thomas Locke, dated 6th October instant, and Mr. Locke's affidavit of the 10th instant, we beg to suggest to His Majesty's Government the absolute necessity that a military force shall accompany the civil power employed in the protection of Mr. Locke's bailiffs.

A. Furlong.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 14th October 1834.

I HAVE it in command from the Lord Lieutenant to transmit herewith a requisition which has been received from the magistrates of the petty sessions at Newcastle, together with the affidavit therein referred to, regarding the expediency of aiding the civil power in the collection of tithes due to the Rev. Thomas Locke from the union of Newcastle and other places adjoining. His Excellency desires me to request that provision may be made for the attendance of any adequate military force to co-operate with the police in the protection of the public peace, so long as the magistrate who may attend them may require it.

I have, &c.

The Right Hon. the Lieut.-General Commanding. E. J. Littleton.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 14th October 1834.

I HAVE received and laid before the Lord Lieutenant your letter of the 10th instant, and its accompanying requisition from the magistrates of Newcastle district, for a party of police to be in attendance on the 22d of this month, for the purpose of protecting the bailiffs employed by the Rev. Mr. Locke in the collection of his tithes. His Excellency directs me to acquaint you that the police must attend the magistrate appointed to accompany them on this service so long as the magistrate himself shall require it; and further, that provision will be made for the attendance of a party of military on the occasion.

I am, Sir, &c.

Sub-inspector Smith, Rathkeale. (signed) E. J. Littleton.

Sir, Newcastle, 17th October 1834.

HAVING complied accurately with all the orders of Government relative to the tithe arrear due to me; having forwarded on the 10th of this month a specification of tithe arrear due to me, and of the law processes and orders, in collection of which arrear and execution of which processes and orders protection has been so frequently solicited; having also forwarded my affidavit, laid before the magistrates at petty sessions, and their consequent order to the police to attend on the 22d instant, together with the suggestion of the magistrates that a military force should accompany the police, inasmuch as the police force alone would not be sufficiently strong to protect my bailiffs in course of their duty, and duplicates of the last-mentioned documents having been duly forwarded to William Smith, sub-inspector of police, Rathkeale, I trust therefore that the requisite protection may be afforded, as specified in my affidavit, and commencing on the 22d instant.

I have suffered great pecuniary distress in consequence of the delay which has been given to me by the Government, who must be well aware of the necessity of a protecting force in a parish lately distinguished by one of the bloodiest affrays in opposition to tithe which have occurred in Ireland.

I had been guaranteed protection in early harvest, when at the suggestion of Major Miller, and with the expressed approval of Government, I suspended operations last summer.

Notwithstanding which guarantee, I have been retarded for a period of two months by a dilatory correspondence, the result of which delay can only tend to increase the perils of opposition, the harassing of troops, the difficulties of payment on part of the farmers, and the probability of my being deprived, in common with other similarly situated tithe-proprietors, of my property. Publication of the correspondence alluded to will fully show the extreme hardship which I have suffered, and the unac countable manner in which I have been treated.

I have, &c.

(signed) Thomas Locke,
Rector of Newcastle.

Right Hon. E. J. Littleton.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 18th October 1834.

I AM directed by the Lord Lieutenant to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, containing a most unwarrantable complaint against the Government for imputed delays to which you have been exposed in receiving the requisite protection for the recovery of your tithes, whereas you must be well aware that those delays have been solely the result of your own mismanagement.

You abandoned your proceedings in the summer, at which time the Government had given you an unlimited support of military and police, for a period of about 70 days, and then you represented to the Government that unless the military were encamped in small detachments over the lands, to starve the cattle out of the houses, it would be utterly useless for you to proceed further, and that you must abandon the prosecution of your claims.

You have since again called for a military and police force against the same parties, but the terms of your demand were so general and indefinite, that it became necessary to require that you should depose more especially to the purpose for which the attendance of this force was required. The moment that proper affidavits were submitted to the magistrates, the requisite orders were given.

Having received from you an intimation, dated the 10th instant, that the magistrates at petty sessions had given an order to the police to attend, and had suggested that a military force should accompany the police in protection of your bailiffs on the 22d instant, I immediately gave the requisite instructions for the attendance of both forces, by letters addressed on the 14th instant to the Commander of the forces and to the Sub-inspector of your county, to the latter of whom I recommended that a party of military would attend for the purpose of supporting him.

The publication of the entire correspondence which has passed on the subject of the recovery of your tithes since the spring, could not be objected to by the Government.

I have, &c.

Rev. Thomas Locke,
Newcastle.

Royal Hospital, 21st October 1834.

The Lieutenant-General commanding presents his compliments, and in returning the enclosures of Mr. Littleton's letter of the 14th instant, relative to affording military aid to the Rev. Mr. Locke in the collection of his tithes, has the honour to transmit for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, a report received from Lieutenant-Colonel Mansel, major of brigade, on the subject, which is requested to be returned.

Sir, Limerick, 18th October 1834.

In reply to your letter of the 15th instant, directing that measures should be taken for affording military aid to the Rev. Mr. Locke in the collection of his tithes, I have the honour to acquaint you for the information of the Lieutenant-General commanding, that after receiving the orders of Major-General Sir James Douglass, on the subject, who is absent on a tour of inspection, I wrote to Major Pratt, commanding a detachment of the 18th regiment at Newcastle, directing him to put himself in communication with Mr. Smith, the police magistrate, and to comply with his requisition for troops. I also intimated to Major Pratt that the detachment at Rathkeale was under his orders and available for the same service; that he could call on part of it to take charge of his barrack at Newcastle, should it be deemed necessary by himself and the magistrates to employ the whole force at that place, to co-operate with the police in the protection of the public peace.

A sergeant and 12 dragoons have been ordered to proceed from hence to Newcastle, and Major Pratt has been directed to employ a part of them in every instance with the infantry.

It may be permitted to me to remark, that I have heard from good authority that this second attempt of Mr. Locke will not be attended with success, and that he now sees the 40 days stated in his affidavit will not be sufficient to accomplish the collection in question.

I have, &c.

Military Secretary, (signed) R. C. Mansel,
Royal Hospital, Dublin. Lieut.-Colonel, M.B.

Sir, Dublin Castle, 11th December 1834.

I am commanded by their Excellencies the Lords Justices to request that you will furnish a full and detailed report of proceedings day by day from the commencement, in the collection of the Rev. Mr. Locke's tithes, the report to be continued till the affair is concluded.

I have, &c.

Major Miller, Limerick. (signed) William Gosset.

Sir, Cork, 26th December 1834.

You signified to me in your letter of the 11th instant, the desire of the Lords Justices that a detailed report of proceedings, day by day, during the collection of the Rev. Mr. Locke's tithes, should be furnished to Government.

I now beg to transmit for their Excellencies information as accurate an account of the number of troops and police employed, and the payments obtained, during the progress of the operations, which commenced on 22d October and ended on the 11th instant, as the sub-inspector could furnish. I also forward a return of the days during which similar proceedings were prosecuted during the summer, with a statement of the amount then collected. The latter document is not prepared in the detailed form in which the later operations have been reported; nor could Mr. Smith obtain such information as would have been necessary to enable him to present the report of the summer campaign in a more explanatory manner.

I have, &c.

Lieut.-Colonel Sir Wm. Gosset, K.C.H. (signed) W. Miller.

105

Sir, Rathkeale, 23d December 1834.

I SEND herewith a detailed report of the proceedings, day by day, in the collection of the Rev. Mr. Locke's tithes, and beg to assure you that I have used my best endeavours to do it as correct as possible. In the summer campaign I could not ascertain the exact sums collected daily, or the number of troops actually employed upon this service.

You will perceive by the return of the second campaign, that it is quite satisfactory.

There remains still due about 500 l., and I understand that it is intended to resume the collection after the 1st of January.

I have, &c.

Major Miller, (signed) William Smith.
Inspector-General of Police, &c. &c.

Greater part of the above sum consists of composition rent, which fell due November 1st, 1834; about 500 l. arrears still remaining due.

In very few instances was the tithe paid, until distraint was effected or seemed unavoidable.

The cash received in the intermediate days was paid (in almost every instance) in order to release stock from pound.

Sales were very few; and except in one case, where the defaulter imagined that the law was in his favour, neither cattle nor other goods changed owners.

The goods distrained (with some half dozen exceptions) were black cattle, horses, pigs, sheep; the defaulter giving up their cattle when the corn-stand was threatened.

A discretion was given to forego the claim in case of distress and inability to pay, or to afford time for payment. In every case where time was granted, the defaulter redeemed his pledge with thanks, being aware that evasion was useless.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION (SCOTLAND).

RETURN to an Order of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 7th September 1835;—for

COPIES of the REMONSTRANCE of the GENERAL ASSEMBLY of the CHURCH of Scotland against the COMMISSION for inquiring into the Means of RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION in Scotland.

THE LETTER addressed by the CENTRAL BOARD of DISSENTERS in Edinburgh on this subject to the SECRETARY OF STATE for the HOME DEPARTMENT.

THE LETTER addressed by the SECRETARY OF STATE for the HOME DEPARTMENT to the Earl of Minto, the Head of the Commission.

REMONSTRANCE of the GENERAL ASSEMBLY of the CHURCH of Scotland against the Commission for inquiring into the Means of Religious Instruction in Scotland.

AT Edinburgh, Thursday the 13th day of August 1835 years: Which day the Commission of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland having had under their consideration the constitution of the Commission lately appointed by the Crown "for inquiring into the opportunities of Religious Worship, and means of Religious Instruction, and the Pastoral Superintendence afforded to the People of Scotland," consider it incumbent on them to state respectfully, but firmly, to His Majesty's Government, that as at present constituted, that Commission is not such as to entitle it to the confidence of the friends of the Church of Scotland; for, while among the Commissioners named there are individuals who have publicly professed their opposition to the principle of any connexion between Church and State, the Commission, with very few exceptions, does not contain the names of individuals known to the Church of Scotland as possessing that knowledge and experience, or as taking that interest in the spiritual affairs of the People of Scotland, which are necessary to afford any security that the professed objects of the Commission can be fairly and fully carried into effect.—From the above Resolution, Sir James Gibson Craig, William Bell, esquire, and John Whitefoord Mackenzie, esquire, dissented, for reasons to be given.

Extracted from the Records of the Commission of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, by

Cler. Eccles. Scotland.

Unto the Right Hon. Lord JOHN RUSSELL, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State;

The MEMORIAL by the Scottish Central Board for vindicating the Rights of Dissenters.

Humbly Sheweth,

THAT the Memorialists feel themselves obliged reluctantly to apply to your Lordship in reference to the Commission lately appointed, in compliance with the Resolution of the House of Commons, to inquire into the opportunities of religious instruction and pastoral superintendence afforded to the People of Scotland.

Your Memorialists, as it is well known to your Lordship, opposed the applications for a grant of public money, which have led to the appointment of this Commission, both on the ground that such grants to one sect of Christians were impolitic in themselves, and unjust towards others not belonging to the communion of the favoured party, who yet contributed to the general taxation; and also, because in their opinion such a grant was wholly unnecessary, for if there existed in any districts a deficiency of church accommodation and religious instruction, the voluntary exertions of Christians were fully able to supply it.

 These

These grounds, however, were not considered by your Lordship and the Government sufficient to induce you to refuse to entertain the subject, and the Commission was proposed as a preliminary inquiry. In this measure the Dissenters of Scotland and other opposers of the grant acquiesced, without however departing from any of the objections they had stated, in the confidence that the Commission would be constituted on liberal principles, and if not composed wholly of impartial men, that their opinions and interests would be fairly represented in it by the appointment of equal numbers of Churchmen and Dissenters.

When the names of the Commissioners were announced in the Gazette, the Memorialists were somewhat disappointed to find, that out of the highly respectable eleven gentlemen who compose the Commission, only one was a Dissenter. The gentleman referred to (Mr. Dick) is besides one of the junior members, who it is understood will visit the different districts of the country, and in his absence Dissenters are wholly unrepresented in the section of the Board who will be stationary in Edinburgh, and whose duty it will be to classify the evidence furnished by the travelling members, and to frame the Report thereon. This disparity in the numbers of Churchmen and Dissenters is the more objectionable, when it is kept in view, that the Commission is intended to report on the means of religious instruction furnished by Dissenters as well as by Churchmen, and that there are in Scotland about 800 congregations of Dissenters, while there are not more than 1,100 of Established Churches and Chapels of Ease. Hence a fairly constituted Commission ought to have consisted of eight Dissenters to eleven Churchmen.

Your Memorialists, although thus dissatisfied with the Commission, did not intend to have addressed any remonstrance on the subject to your Lordship, having reason to believe, that although there was only one Dissenter, there were two or three other members of the Commission unfavourable to the grant; and that even those of them who were most decidedly in favour of it, were men of honourable characters and of high integrity, who would consider it their duty to make a fair and impartial investigation.

The Memorialists have, however, learned that the Committee of the General Assembly on Church extension have memorialized your Lordship, or other members of Government, and that the Commission of the General Assembly now sitting have it in view to do so likewise; and that the object of these Memorials is to obtain some alteration in the composition of the Commission, by the removal of some of the Commissioners already appointed, on the ground of their holding Voluntary principles, or by the addition of some others who have already taken a decided part in favour of the Grant. In consequence of this step on the part of the Church, your Memorialists consider it their duty to bring the views and feelings of Dissenters, in reference to the Commission, before your Lordship, in the confidence that if any alteration whatever is made upon it, it will be to the effect of adding gentlemen of dissenting principles both to the stationary and to the travelling sections of the Commission, but particularly to the former, in which, as already said, there is not a single Dissenter.

As suitable members of this section, the Memorialists take the liberty of suggesting James Douglas, esq. of Cavers, and William Ellis, esq. Solicitor before the Supreme Courts; such an addition would tend very much to remove the objections of the dissenting part of the community, and to secure a full and accurate Report being ultimately made.

Edinburgh, 12th August 1835.

LETTER from Lord John Russell to the Earl of Minto, G. C. B., &c. &c. &c.

My Lord, Whitehall, August 31, 1835.

I AM sorry to find, that in the excitement which prevails in Scotland on the subject of a Parliamentary Grant to the Established Church of that country, some fears and misunderstandings have arisen with respect to the Royal Commission at the head of which your Lordship has been placed.

I need

I need only advert shortly to the complaints which have been made, both by members of the Church and by Dissenters, of the composition of the Commission. The Resolution which has been sent me on this subject from the Commission of General Assembly, seems to take for granted that the cause of the Dissenters was to have no advocate of zeal and ability on the Commission, and that impartiality in the majority of the Commissioners is a serious fault. The Dissenters, on the other hand, seem to assume that men zealously attached to the Church of Scotland will decide without sufficiently hearing the objections to the Grant, and they seek the admission of a greater number of partisans to redress the balance. But admitting, as I do, that the number of members of the Commission attached to the Church preponderates greatly over those who have any bias towards the Seceders, I cannot think I have been wrong in endeavouring to give to the whole Commission as a body a character of calmness and impartiality.

More serious misapprehensions have taken place respecting the terms of the Commission. It has been supposed, most erroneously, that the Commissioners were to inquire into the kind of pastoral superintendence given by the Clergy, instead of its amount. The words are used both with respect to the Clergy of the Established Church and of other denominations, and it is evidently not intended with regard to either the one or the other to interfere with discipline or internal arrangements.

Another misapprehension is, that the Commission may interfere with private property. Your Lordship will of course carefully guard against any supposition of this sort, and not allow it to be for a moment supposed that we mean to disturb those Acts of the Scottish Parliament, which transferred the tithes from the Church to the Lay Proprietors of Scotland; but you will endeavour to ascertain what is the property which may yet, by existing laws, be made available for the purposes of the Church.

In the heated state of men's minds upon this subject, your Lordship will I am sure be particularly cautious in your manner of conducting local inquiries; I should advise that, keeping the terms of the Commission in view, you direct your first attention to "cases where it is alleged that there is any want of the opportunities of public religious worship, and the means of religious instruction and pastoral superintendence." In such cases I should recommend that two Commissioners, or one Commissioner and one Assistant Commissioner, should be sent to make full inquiry into the circumstances of the district, and that you should select the persons in such a manner, that in every case one of them should be a person of unquestionable attachment to the Church. They may report either together or separately to the general body, and any three or more of you may transmit these Reports to the Home Office from time to time, to be laid before His Majesty.

I need not say, as I have already explained, that it is not desired or expected that the relative numbers of Churchmen and Seceders in all Scotland should be ascertained; but where it is alleged that new Churches and new Ministers are required, it will be necessary to obtain an account of those who attend Dissenting Chapels, in order that the void not filled up by any religious sect or worship may be measured and defined.

I trust that in the course of six months from this time, the greater part of your task will be completed.

WILLIAM R.

OUR Will and Pleasure is, that Letters Patent be forthwith made and passed under the Seal appointed by the Treaty of Union to be kept and made use of in place of the Great Seal of Scotland, in the words or to the effect following, viz.: WILLIAM the FOURTH, by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland King, Defender of the Faith, &c. To Our right trusty and right well-beloved Cousin and Councillor Gilbert Earl of Minto, Knight Grand Cross of the most honourable Order of the Bath, and to Our trusty and well-beloved Mount Stuart Elphinstone, Esq., John James Hope Johnstone, Esq., Robert Bell, Esq., Procurator of the Church of Scotland, James M. Nairne, Esq., of Dunsinnan, Thomas Henry Lister, Esq., and John Shaw Stewart, John James Reid, Andrew Coventry Dick, Henry Baxter and Edward Horseman, Esquires, Advocates, Greeting: WHEREAS an humble address has been presented unto Us by the Knights, Citizens and Burgesses and Commissioners of Shires and Burghs in Parliament assembled, praying that We would be graciously pleased to appoint a Commission to inquire into the opportunities of Religious Worship, and means of Religious Instruction, and the Pastoral Superintendence afforded to the people of Scotland, and how far these are of avail for the religious and moral improvement of the poor and of the working classes; and with this view, to obtain information respecting their stated attendance in places of public worship, and their actual connexion with any religious denomination; to inquire what funds are now or may hereafter be available for the purposes of the Established Church of Scotland, and to report from time to time, in order that such remedies may be applied to any existing evils as Parliament may think fit.

Know ye, that We, reposing great trust in your fidelity, discretion and ability, have authorized and appointed, and by these presents do authorize and appoint you, the said Gilbert Earl of Minto, Mount Stuart Elphinstone, John James Hope Johnstone, Robert Bell, James M. Nairne, Thomas Henry Lister, John Shaw Stewart, John James Reid, Andrew Coventry Dick, Henry Baxter and Edward Horseman, or any one or more of you, to inquire into the opportunities of public religious worship, and means of religious instruction, and the pastoral superintendence afforded to the people of Scotland, and how far these are of avail for the religious and moral improvement of the poor, and of the working classes.

And We do hereby require you more particularly to inquire into the present situation of the poor and of the working classes throughout the different parishes in Scotland in that respect; and in all cases where it is alleged that there is any want of the opportunities of public religious worship, and the means of religious instruction and pastoral superintendence, one or more of you shall visit every parish where any such deficiency is said to exist, and you shall endeavour to ascertain on the spot by the best evidence which you can procure there or elsewhere, the number of places of public worship belonging to the Established Church, and the means of accommodation which they afford, and how such places of worship are situate with respect to the boundaries and the population of the parish, and if they are insufficient or inadequate, from what causes that has arisen. Likewise to report in all such cases the number of persons who attend or are in connexion with those places of public religious worship belonging to the Established Church, as also the number of places of public worship belonging to any other religious denomination, and the number of persons attending or belonging thereto; and generally to ascertain the numbers of the poor and working classes who attend or are connected with the Established Church, or other places of public worship in connexion with it, and the numbers of those who attend places of public worship belonging to other religious denominations, and the opportunities and the extent of accommodation for religious worship which is afforded to them.

To inquire into and state generally the religious instruction and pastoral superintendence afforded by the Clergy of the Established Church, and of other religious denominations to the people, more especially to the poor and the working classes, and how far and from what causes any of the poor and working classes are deprived of the means of attending places of public worship, and receiving religious instruction and pastoral superintendence.

To inquire what funds are now or may hereafter be available for the purposes of the Established Church of Scotland, the gross amount of teinds valued and unvalued, whether belonging to the Crown, as having formerly been part of the Royal revenue, or as Bishop's teinds, or from any other title, and the value thereof, and the application of the same, as also the teinds belonging to other persons, and in what manner they are held or disposed of; the endowments of the Established Church, whether arising from stipends, glebes, teinds parsonage or vicarage, teinds of fish or other sources; the sums of money received from seat rents, collections made at the doors of the churches, chapels or other places of public worship belonging to the Established Church, and the manner in which the same are applied.

And for the better discovery of the truth in the premises, We do by these presents give and grant to you, or any one or more of you, full power and authority to call before you or any one or more of you, such persons as you shall judge necessary, by whom you may be the better informed of the truth in the premises, and to inquire of the premises and every part thereof by all other lawful ways and means whatsoever.

And We do hereby give and grant unto you, or any one or more of you, full power and authority, when the same shall appear to be requisite, to administer an oath or oaths to any person or persons whatsoever to be examined before you or any one or more of you touching or concerning the premises.

And We do also give and grant unto you, or any one or more of you, full power and authority to cause all and singular the Keepers of Records and other persons having in their custody any records, orders, books, papers or other documents relating to the matters to be inquired into under this Commission, to bring and produce the same upon oath before you, or any one or more of you: And Our further will and pleasure is, that you or any three or more of you, upon due examination of the premises, do and shall report to Us, under your hands and seals respectively, what you shall find touching or concerning the premises upon such inquiry as aforesaid: And We further will and command, and by these presents ordain, that this Our Commission shall continue in full force and virtue, and that you Our Commissioners, or any one or more of you, shall and may from time to time proceed in the execution thereof, and of every matter and thing therein contained, although the same be not continued from time to time by adjournment: And We do hereby direct and appoint that you, or any three or more of you may have liberty to report to Us your several proceedings from time to time, as the same shall be respectively completed and perfected: And We do hereby authorize and empower you, in case you shall think it expedient and necessary, to appoint such such number of persons, not exceeding nine, on whose judgment you can rely, to assist you in making such local inquiries as you are herein directed to make: And We do hereby command all and singular Our Justices of the Peace, Sheriffs, Magistrates, Ministers, Messengers-at-Arms, Constables, Officers and all other Our loving subjects whatsoever, as well within liberties as without, that they be assistant to you and each of you in the execution of these presents: And We also hereby nominate and appoint Our trusty and well-beloved George Logan, Esq., to be Clerk or Secretary to you Our said Commissioners, and authorize you or the senior member present at any of your meetings, to administer to him the oath de fideli administratione in common form: And We hereby direct and command that the said Letters Patent do pass the Seal aforesaid, per saltum, without passing any other seal or register: For doing whereof these presents shall be to the Director of Our Chancellary, for writing the same, and to the Lord Keeper of the said Seal, for causing the same to be appended thereto, a sufficient warrant. Given at Our Court at Saint James's, the Twentieth day of July 1835, in the Sixth year of Our Reign.

RETURN respecting, in terms of the Injunction by the Secretary of State, and in so far as relates to the Individual reporting,—

OFFICES.

Dean of the Chapel Royal, conjoined with Dean of the Thistle, and one of His Majesty's Chaplains for Scotland.

Date of Appointment.

Dean of the Chapel Royal and Dean of the Thistle, 16th day of June 1830; the appointment being for life. Chaplain, 8th day of January 1831; appointment during His Majesty's pleasure.

Salary.

As Dean of the Chapel Royal none, and no emolument; the other three Deans have Salaries. As Dean of the Thistle, Fifty Pounds annually of salary, and Fifty Pounds paid by each Knight upon his installation. As Chaplain, a salary of Fifty Pounds annually.

Fund and Authority.

By authority of the Lords of the Treasury, the Salary to the Dean of the Thistle was paid from the Civil Establishment of Scotland; it is now, I think, annually voted by Parliament, as is the case also, I believe, with the Salary of the Chaplains.

Duties.

The Deans of the Chapel Royal and His Majesty's Chaplains for Scotland officiate at the election of Peers, and would do the duty of the Chapel Royal, should this be required upon occasion of The King at any time visiting Scotland. The appointments, however, are chiefly to be regarded as the few and extremely moderate marks of favour bestowed upon individuals supposed to have taken an active part in the discharge of their theological and public functions, or who have contributed to the promotion of theological or general literature and science. The offices which I hold, as above stated, were conferred on me partly on account of my various literary productions, and partly in consequence of the part which I took as one of the Royal Commissioners for visiting the Universities of Scotland. In addition to attendance on many occasions and in different parts of the country, without remuneration, or without even the expense necessarily incurred being defrayed by the public, I drew up the Reports relating to the two Universities of Aberdeen, and the long Report as to the University of Edinburgh; and I also furnished to the other Commissioners the first draft of the general Report, which, after considerable alterations made by them, they finally approved.

(B.)

Sir, Kirkpatrick, Durham, 29th August 1835.

I was for a great many years one of the Chaplains to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales for Scotland, for which I got no pay. When the King was in Scotland in the year 1822, I had the honour to preach before him in the High Church of Edinburgh, by his own appointment; and the first vacancy after that he appointed me one of his Chaplains for Scotland. After his death the appointment was renewed by His present Majesty. The salary is 50*l.* a year, which has been regularly paid to me by the Receiver-General for Scotland.

The number of Chaplains in ordinary I believe is seven; and the principal duty as far as I know, is for two of them to attend every meeting of the Scottish Peerage for electing their representatives in Parliament, and to open and close every such meeting with prayer.

I never performed that duty; for on account of my great age, being upwards of 80, and my distance from Edinburgh, some of the Chaplains in the vicinity always attended.

I have, &c.

David Lamont.

(C.)

Sir, Edinburgh, 18th August 1835.

I HAD the honour of yours, and have to state that there were three Chaplains attached to the Royal Household of Scotland before the Union. These are continued, and have 50*l.* each per annum, formerly paid at the Exchequer, but lately by the Royal Bank. The Crown has been pleased, for many years, to add to their income by giving them the remaining emoluments of the Chapel Royal. These are under their own management, as authorized by the Royal gift.

They arise chiefly from the feu-duty of Martlehill, a farm on the estate of Sir D. Kinloch, of Gilmerton, and from part of the land of Hailes, in East Lothian; from Grassums on the renewal of Tacks of Teinds, chiefly from the Duke of Buccleuch for the Teinds of Yarrow; from the Earl of Galloway, and from some others, who pay very trifling sums. The average amount for some years has been about 100*l.* to each of the three who are Deans and Chaplains, Dr. Grant, Dr. Bryce and Dr. Macgill.

The other Chaplaincies were of late erection, and given as an expression of respect to the Church of Scotland. They are six in number, and are held at present by Dr. Mackenzie, Dr. M'Farlan, Dr. Lamont, Dr. Mearns, Dr. Chalmers and Dr. Lee, with a salary of 50*l.* each, paid by the Royal Bank. Dr. George Cook is Dean of the Thistle; but what his emoluments are, or how paid, I do not know. Dr. Singer is Chaplain to the Queen, without a salary.

The three original Chaplains, who are Deans, were called upon to attend the meetings of the Scotch Peers for electing their representatives, and to constitute and dissolve said meetings with prayer. The other Chaplains also do that duty. They are liable to be still farther called upon, at the pleasure of The King, to preach before His Majesty, if in Scotland. If I rightly recollect, when The King surrendered his hereditary revenues in Scotland, the emoluments of the Deaneries and Chaplaincies, for which there was some duty, were reserved as appendages of the Crown.

I have, &c.

Andrew Grant.

Notes.

1. As some of the engagements run from Whitsunday to Whitsunday, and vary from year to year, it was impossible to make a faithful Return in these cases, according to the date fixed, viz. 31st December each year.

2. The average of law expenses for these years was greatly increased by the expense of making up the Return, which was ordered by the House of Commons, on the motion of Mr. Gillon, in the Spring of 1833.

3. The Fish tithes, and part of the Corn tithes, are private property, having been purchased by the Kirk Session with money raised by voluntary contribution, for the endowment of this church. Vide Printed Return, March 1833.

North Leith, 16 June 1835. Reported by James Buchanan, Minister.

NORTH LEITH.

RETURN of Sums received Annually by the Minister of North Leith, as Stipend, Feu Duty, Rent of Houses, Tithe on Fish, or other Emoluments.

SUMMARY OF ENGLAND AND WALES - - - - pp. 266, 267.

N.B.—

This Work is necessarily imperfect in many places, in consequence of the partial destruction of the Manuscript Accounts during the Fire which happened at the Houses of Parliament in 1834.

The defect of the Return to the Order of The House is thus marked *, and in such cases the Return of a previous year is there substituted for the sake of approximation in the County Total.

Many places which were assessed to the Property Tax in 1815, and which now contain no Poor, are omitted in this Work; but the original Total of the Property Tax Column, as printed in 1816, is, notwithstanding, inserted at the end of each County. The amount of the places thus omitted, may be stated at about 107,000 l.

NEITHER at Michaelmas Sessions 1834, or Epiphany, Easter and Midsummer Sessions 1835 for this borough, were any bastard children affiliated; but at Epiphany Sessions last, two applications for orders of maintenance upon reputed fathers were made, both of which failed, by reason of want of that corroborative proof which the Act requires; and the parishes, at whose instance the applications were made, were charged with expenses, amounting to upwards of 6*l.* in each case.

At Midsummer Session last a similar application was made, but unsuccessfully, by reason of its not being made at the session next after the chargeability, which could not have been done, as the residence of the reputed father was unknown till just before the Midsummer Session.

The above list of persons removed from this county to the different places mentioned therein, is so far correct as I am able to make it out from the returns made to me, as treasurer, from the overseers of the different parishes.

The overseers consider, if they can satisfy the magistrate and get his order for the payment of the money, that is all that is necessary; but to make out a more correct account, I shall, in future, require more particulars, and for which, in this instance, I have been obliged to send for to the parishes in the immediate neighbourhood.

By the new Act, the number relieved in this way is considerably reduced; formerly, when the mileage was 1½ d. per mile, many vagrants contrived to make a trade of it, and were constantly on the tramp to one place or other.

The Treasurer of the county of Lancaster is unable to comply with the terms of the Return demanded, so far as such Return calls for the number of persons removed. The only document which is presented to him is an Order of the Court of Quarter Sessions, under the fifth section of the Act, for the gross amount of the expenses incurred, without distinguishing the number of persons removed. A copy of such Order is subjoined:

"At the General Quarter Session of the Peace, held by adjournment at Salford, in and for the County Palatine of Lancaster, the 7th day of July, in the fifth year of King William the Fourth's reign.

"This Court doth order the Treasurer of the county stock forthwith to pay to the overseers of the poor of the township of Castleton the sum of 2*l.* 4*s.* 6*d.*, the expenses incurred in conveying poor persons born in Ireland to their place of settlement, together with 2*s.*, the charge of this order; for doing which, this shall be the Treasurer's warrant.

PAPERS relating to the Parish of Stoke Poges.

TO the Honourable Commissioners for the Administration of the Poor Laws of England and Wales, &c. &c.

WE, the undersigned, resident Nobility, Clergy, Gentry, Farmers and other rateable Inhabitants of the Parish of Stoke Poges, in the Hundred of Stoke in the County of Bucks, &c., understanding that it is in contemplation of your Honourable Board to form an Union of the Parishes in the Hundreds of Burnham and Stoke, under the discretionary power given to your Board by the 26th section of the Act, &c., and that the said Parish of Stoke Poges is comprised in the said contemplated Union, and that it is the intention of your Honourable Board to make this Parish the Central Board of the said Union, and moreover to erect within it a general or common Workhouse for the reception of the able-bodied but unemployed Paupers of the several surrounding Parishes of the said Union.

We, the undersigned, being deeply impressed with the conviction that both those measures will prove in the highest degree detrimental to the interests, internal comfort, and well-being of our Parish, most earnestly solicit the favourable attention of your Honourable Board to the peculiar state and circumstances of our Parish, and to the evil consequences which must result to it from being incorporated into the said Union, and moreover from being made a focus for the confluence of strangers from all the surrounding districts.

We, therefore, respectfully represent that the actual and habitual state of our Parish is one which, by the blessing of God, is free from most of the evils which the projected union of Parishes and the general Workhouse system are intended to correct, in consequence of the many resident gentry in the parish, and other persons of substance, who have it in their power, and make it their constant care to relieve the wants of the poor and the burden of the parish rates by private charity, and by providing employment so far as lies in their power for the labourers, and that there does not exist in the Parish that system of intimidation which is one of the chief evils proposed to be corrected by the Union.

That the undersigned entertain the most decided objection to their poor being removed in the event of distress or sickness out of their own parish, and from under the eye of those who have always sympathized with them, and contributed to their well-being in times of prosperity and health, and to their families being broken up and separated in the event of failure and misfortune obliging them to seek for parish relief and to accept the Workhouse. That we further feel great nneasiness from a prospect of the ill effect on our able-bodied poor, who may be sent away to a general district Workhouse of the Union, forming connections with and introducing into this Parish the habits of the worthless of other districts with whom they must necessarily associate in a general Workhouse, and of the morals of their parishioners being deteriorated thereby. We entertain an equally strong objection to the erection of a general Workhouse within our Parish for the reception of the able-bodied and unemployed paupers from other parishes, as tending not merely to our own permanent discomfort and annoyance, but to the serious injury of the moral character of our home poor, by the circumstance of their being thereby necessarily brought into still nearer and more extensive connection with stranger paupers, an effect which the circumstance of proximity to a general Workhouse must, from various causes, necessarily produce.

We further beg leave to represent that we possess a well-conducted Workhouse, which possesses many conveniences for the accommodation of our own aged Poor, and that with some additions and alterations, which we are most willing and desirous to make, we shall be enabled to carry into due effect a principle of classification, and many other of the objects sought to be obtained by a Parochial Union, and that we are ready to meet any suggestion which your Honourable Board may think it necessary to make respecting the improvement of our Workhouse, the classification of its inmates, the treatment of the sick, and the instruction tion of the children, and to carry them into full effect. We, therefore, earnestly hope that your Honourable Board will take into your serious consideration the peculiar circumstances of our Parish, and the general feeling of us the Ratepayers therein respecting the aforesaid matters; and the justice of your Honourable Board will not sacrifice the interests of an orderly and flourishing Parish to any supposed advantage which might accrue from its local situation to other adjoining parishes so as to compel an union with them, nor check, and perhaps extinguish, the spirit of internal improvement and social union which now happily exists within it, and which while it is in operation is a course the most conducive to the well-being of a community.

We, therefore, most respectfully pray your Honourable Board that our Parish of Stoke Poges may be exempted from all union with, or incorporation into, any Parish or Union of Parishes, and further that no general Workhouse for the reception of foreign paupers may be erected in our said Parish, and that we may be permitted to manage our own Poor and our own Workhouse, under the direction of your Honourable Board, according to the provisions of the Act.

We beg leave to add, that we shall think it right to transmit a copy of this our representation to His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department.

—(2.)—

Poor Law Commission Office, Somerset House,
17th March 1835.

Sir,

The attention of the Poor Law Commissioners for England and Wales having been directed to a Petition presented to the House of Commons from the Inhabitants of Stoke Poges, they think it their duty to lay before you the following statement:

The first plan for bringing the Poor Law Amendment Act into operation in the south of Buckinghamshire, which the Commissioners had under their consideration, was the formation of a Union, comprehending 29 Parishes in the Hundreds of Stoke and Burnham.

This proposal was objected to by many of the Parishioners of Stoke Poges; by some, because it involved the necessity of building a new workhouse on Stoke Common; by others, because they deemed the interference of the Commissioners to be altogether needless and uncalled for.

These objections were represented to the Commissioners both personally and in writing, and on the receipt of a Memorial from the Parish the Commissioners thought it their duty to reconsider the arrangement.

Having done so, they resolved on dividing the proposed Union into two parts, by which means they obviated the necessity of building the workhouse on Stoke Common, and prevented the paupers of Stoke from being mixed with the paupers of more distant parishes, which some of the inhabitants thought likely to prove injurious to their character and morals.

Thus modified, it appeared to the Commissioners that the Union was liable to no valid objection. By any further reduction in its size, its management would have been rendered more costly and less efficient. Its boundaries appear to be natural and convenient: on the west and on the south it is bounded by the Thames; on the east by the county of Middlesex; and on the north by the line of the Beaconsfield Hills. In the centre of this district the Parish of Stoke Poges is situate. To have excluded it from the Union would have disturbed and rendered imperfect the whole plan; and its position is such that it could not have been left out in the hope of annexing it more conveniently hereafter to some other Union.

It

It is true that the parish is not quite so highly rated as some of the adjoining parishes; but no Union can ever be formed by the Commissioners, if parishes are to be omitted solely because their present burthens, from temporary or accidental causes, may happen to be somewhat less than those of an adjoining parish. Whatever advantage Stoke may now have in this respect, it will, when its average expenditure is correctly ascertained, continue to enjoy.

It will contribute to the repairs and management of the workhouse in the proportion which its average expenditure upon the poor for the last three years bears to the like average expenditure of the rest of the Union, and it will only be charged with the relief of its own paupers, whether in or out of the workhouse.

As soon as the Union is completed a Board of Guardians will superintend the relief of the poor, and they will be aided by proper and efficient officers. No unnecessary pressure on the paupers need be apprehended, as the Commissioners have not deemed it expedient to enforce the provision contained in the 52d clause of the Poor Law Amendment Act, which enables them to direct that no relief shall be given to the able-bodied paupers except in the workhouse.

With reference to the workhouses, and the regulations to which they may hereafter be subject, it is necessary to point out that the Commissioners have not as yet issued with respect to the Eton Union any positive rules for their management, though as regards another Union they are shortly about to do so.

In framing such rules they are guided mainly by the practice and experience of parishes in which well-regulated workhouses already exist, and they think it will be their duty to act on that principle. They know no reason why a system of workhouse management, which has been found on trial to be perfectly successful in the parish of Cookham, (only a few miles distant from Stoke Poges,) should not be equally applicable to the workhouse in the Union in which that parish is situated.

When applied to for information on the subject of workhouse rules, the Commissioners have on all occasions said, that they thought married couples should not be placed in different houses; that children under the age of nurture should not be separated from their mothers; and that the aged, infirm and sick paupers should be treated with care and tenderness, and not of necessity be forced into workhouses, as they now generally are, in preference to the sturdy and able-bodied pauper.

With respect to the question which was in reality to be decided upon by the Commissioners, in reference to the memorial presented to them by the inhabitants of Stoke Poges, the Commissioners were fully aware of its great importance. It imposed upon them the necessity of deciding whether because a portion of the inhabitants of a particular parish were disinclined to be included in a particular Union, and desired to be left in the undisturbed management of their parochial affairs, it became at once the duty of the Board to acquiesce. It appeared to the Commissioners to have been foreseen and contemplated by the Legislature that parishes might frequently object to be included in proposed Unions, and that Gilbert's Act having failed principally because there was no power to compel parishes to unite, the Commissioners had expressly been entrusted with a power to overrule such objections.

The Commissioners, therefore, having deliberately inquired into the situation and circumstances of the parish of Stoke Poges, and given to the representation of the parishioners the fullest consideration in their power, decided on including the parish in the Eton Union, and they confidently believe that they have not erred in so doing.

Their attention had been drawn in a particular manner to the district in which that parish is situate, and their interference in the neighbouring parishes had been anxiously solicited.

The parish of Stoke itself, though the pressure of its poor is somewhat diminished by the extensive charities and benevolent disposition of many of its inhabitants, must still be considered as heavily burthened for the support of its pauper population. The charge for the maintenance of its poor in the three last years for which the Parliamentary Returns are made up was as follows:—1830, 671 l.: 1831, 515 l.: 1832, 778 l. Out of a population of 1,252, it appears by a recent return that 118 are paupers. Relief is stated to be allowed to the out-door paupers according to a scale, (a practice which in itself calls for a remedy, inasmuch as it is one of the worst which has been suffered to establish itself,) and the cost per head of the paupers in the workhouse exceeds 4 s. weekly, being nearly double the amount in well-regulated houses, where ample provision is made for the poor. The state of the parish, as compared with others in the Union, may be ascertained by a reference to the accompanying Table, with respect to which, the Commissioners lament that the returns are not complete to a later date.

Though as yet the Commissioners have refrained from issuing any rules which should apply generally to the kingdom at large, they have thought it their duty to lay down certain directions for the guidance of Boards of Guardians wherever a union of parishes is formed. A copy of these rules they have the honour to lay before you, together with a copy of the declaration by which the Eton Union has been formed.

The Commissioners have the honour to subscribe themselves, Sir, your very obedient and very faithful servants.

ETON UNION.

Eton, Iver, Datchett, Denham, Fulmer, Hedgerley, Horton, Langley Marish, Stoke Poges, Upton with Chalvey, Wexham, Wyrardisbury or Wraysbury, Boveney Lower, Dorney, Taplow, Hitcham, Burnham, Farnham Royal, Hedgerley Dean.

To all to whom these presents shall come, We, the Poor Law Commissioners for England and Wales, send Greeting.

WHEREAS, in pursuance of the powers given to us in and by an Act passed in the fourth and fifth years of the reign of His present Majesty King William the Fourth, intituled, "An Act for the Amendment and better Administration of the Laws relating to the Poor in England and Wales," We, the Poor Law Commissioners for England and Wales, appointed under the said Act, did, by an order under our hands and seal, bearing date the 25th day of February last, order and declare that the parishes and places named in the margin of the said order, which are situated in the county of Buckingham, being the same which are now named above, should, on the 25th day of this instant March, be, and thenceforth should remain united for the administration of the laws for the relief of the poor; and further, that on the 28th day of this instant March, in the manner therein mentioned, the said parishes and places should respectively elect a guardian or guardians for the said Union.

And whereas by the said Act it is provided that the Poor Law Commissioners shall prescribe the duties of guardians, and shall also, as and when they shall see fit, direct the guardians of any Union to appoint such paid officers, with such qualifications as the said Commissioners shall think necessary, for superintending or assisting in the administration of the relief and employment of the poor, either within or out of a workhouse, and for the examining and auditing, allowing or disallowing of accounts in such Union, and otherwise carrying the provisions of the said Act into execution; and the said Commissioners are thereby empowered to define and specify and direct the execution of the respective duties, and determine the continuance in office or dismissal of such paid officers, and the amount and nature of the security to be given by, and regulate the amount of salaries payable to, such officers respectively, and the time and mode of payment thereof.

Now know ye, that, in pursuance of the said provisions of the said Act, we, the said Poor Law Commissioners, do hereby order, direct and declare, that,

1. Upon and from and after the said 25th day of March, the ordering and directing of all relief to the poor of the several parishes and places comprised in the Union constituted by the order hereinbefore recited, and the building, hiring, and providing of any workhouse, poorhouse, or other premises for the reception and maintenance of paupers therein, and the altering, improving or enlarging the same, same, or any other existing workhouse or poorhouse within the said Union, and the regulation and management thereof, and the hiring or purchasing of land for such workhouse or workhouses, or for the employment of paupers therein, shall appertain and belong exclusively to the guardians of the said Union; subject however, in all cases, to the powers of the Poor Law Commissioners for the time being, and such orders, regulations, rules and directions as are herein contained, or as may hereafter be issued by the said Commissioners; and saving and excepting such powers and authorities as in the aforesaid Act are given or reserved to justices of the peace and overseers of the poor.

2. No guardian shall have power to act in virtue of such office, except as a member and at a meeting of the said Board of Guardians, and except as hereinafter is provided with reference to summoning extraordinary meetings of the guardians, and except also as in the aforesaid Act is excepted.

3. All the powers and authorities hereby or by the said Act granted to or vested in such guardians shall and may from time to time be exercised by the major part of the guardians who shall attend at any meeting to be holden as is herein directed; but no act of any such meeting, except for the purpose of adjourning the same, shall be valid unless three guardians at least shall be present and concur therein.

4. The guardians shall at their first meeting elect out of the whole number of guardians a chairman and a vice-chairman, who shall continue to act as such until the next annual election of guardians shall take place; and at every meeting during the year the chairman, or in his absence the vice-chairman, shall preside; and if at any meeting the chairman and vice-chairman shall be absent, the guardians present shall elect a chairman of that meeting: And when there shall be an equal number of votes upon any question, including the vote of the presiding chairman, he shall have a casting vote.

Meetings of the Board of Guardians.

5. The first meeting of the guardians shall be held at the workhouse at Eton, on the 31st day of March 1835, and shall commence at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at which meeting every guardian is hereby required to attend; but if three guardians be present at such first meeting, the non-attendance of the remainder shall not invalidate the proceedings of such meeting.

6. The guardians shall meet once at the least in every week at Eton, for the execution of their duties, and shall, at their first meeting, determine upon some fixed day of the week, and some fixed hour, between eight o'clock in the forenoon and two o'clock in the afternoon, for holding such weekly meetings, and also on some convenient place for holding the same.

7. Notice of the first of the said weekly meetings, and of the place, day, and hour fixed for holding the same, shall be given in manner hereinafter directed; but it shall not be necessary to give notice of any other than the first of such weekly meetings.

8. If three guardians be not present at any weekly or other meeting, the guardian or guardians who shall be present shall adjourn the same to the next day of weekly meeting, or to such other day previous to the next weekly meeting as he or they shall think fit; and thereupon the clerk shall make an entry in the minute-book of the adjournment, and of the cause thereof; and in case no guardian shall attend, the clerk shall make an entry of such failure of attendance; provided that, in either case, one hour, and no more, shall be allowed to elapse from the time fixed for the commencement of the meeting before any such entry be made as is above directed.

9. The majority of the guardians present at any weekly meeting may, if necessary, adjourn the same, to the day of the next weekly meeting, or to such other day previous to the next weekly meeting as they may think fit.

10. Any two guardians, by a notice in writing according to the Form (A.) hereto annexed, may direct the clerk to the Board of Guardians to summon an extraordinary meeting of the Board at any time by such notice as hereinafter is mentioned.

11. Notice of the first weekly meeting of the guardians, and notice of adjournment of a weekly or other meeting, and notice of an extraordinary meeting, shall be given in writing according to the Forms (B.) (C.) and (D.) hereto annexed, and signed by the clerk to the Board of Guardians; and two days, at least, before the day upon which the meeting to which such notice relates is to take place, the clerk to the Board of Guardians shall give or cause to be given to each guardian resident within the Union, or cause to be left at his place of abode, a copy of such notice.

12. If any case of emergency shall arise, requiring that a meeting of the guardians should immediately take place, they, or any three of them may meet, and act as if a regular notice had been given, and may take such case into consideration, and give order therein; provided always, that such order shall only be valid and have effect until the next weekly meeting of the Board of Guardians.

Proceedings of the Board.

13. At each weekly meeting of the Board of Guardians, the business shall be conducted in the following order:—

1st. They shall read over the minutes of the preceding weekly meeting, and of any extraordinary meeting which shall have been held during the preceding week, and cause an entry of the same having been so read to be made in the minutes.

2d. They shall dispose of such business as may have arisen out of the minutes so read, and give the necessary directions thereon.

3d. They shall consider and decide upon, and give the necessary directions respecting all applications which shall have been made since the last meeting, and also respecting the amount and nature of relief to be given or continued to the paupers upon the books of the parishes or places in the said Union, or within any of the workhouses thereof, until the next weekly meeting, or during such other time as such relief may be deemed to be necessary.

4th. They shall hear and consider applications of any paupers which may be made at the existing meeting; but no such application shall be heard unless such paupers shall have previously applied to the relieving officer for the parish from which such paupers claim relief.

5th. They shall determine the kind of work to be performed by the paupers, either in or out of the workhouse.

6th. They shall examine the books and accounts of the several relieving officers, receive reports on the state of the workhouse or workhouses of the Union, and give all needful directions thereon.

7th. They shall give the necessary directions to the churchwardens and overseers of the several parishes in the Union for providing such sums as may be requisite for the relief of the poor of such parishes, and for defraying such proportion of the general expenses of the Union as shall be lawfully chargeable on such parishes respectively.

8th. The guardians present, or the presiding chairman in their behalf, shall sign the minutes of the proceedings.

Appointment of Clerk, Treasurer, and Relieving Officers.

14. At the first meeting of the guardians, or within one month after the same, the guardians shall appoint a fit and proper person to be clerk to the Board of Guardians, and a fit and proper person to be treasurer to the said Union, and shall take such security for the proper discharge of the said office of treasurer as shall seem to them necessary and fitting; and shall also appoint such and so many competent person or persons as the said Board of Guardians shall think fit, to be a relieving officer or relieving officers of the said Union, and shall likewise determine the parishes or places for which each such relieving officer shall act; and in case and so often as any person so appointed shall die, or resign, or be removed, the said Board of Guardians shall, as soon as conveniently may be after such death, resignation, or removal, proceed in like manner to a new appointment; and the salaries of such clerk, treasurer or relieving officers shall be such as the said Poor Law Commissioners shall from time to time direct.

15. If any such clerk or relieving officer shall be at any time prevented by sickness or accident from the performance of his duties, the Board of Guardians may appoint a competent person to act as his temporary substitute.

16. If the Board of Guardians shall, in the event of any vacancy in the office of relieving officer or clerk, delay to make a new appointment, or to appoint a substitute in case of sickness or accident as aforesaid, the duties hereby required to be performed by such relieving officer shall in the cases aforesaid, and also in the mean time, and until the first relieving officer shall be appointed as herein directed, be performed by the overseers of the poor of the several parishes and places places in the Union respectively; and the duties of clerk to the Board of Guardians shall in the like cases be performed by the vice-chairman, or in his absence by some guardian to be appointed by the chairman.

17. No person shall be chosen as such relieving officer unless he will undertake to reside in one of the parishes for which he may be appointed to act, and to devote his whole time to the employment, not following any other trade or profession whatsoever, nor unless he can read and write and keep accounts.

Duties of the Clerk.

18. The following shall be the duties of the clerk:—

1st. To attend all meetings of the guardians, and to enter punctually into a book at every meeting the minutes of all the proceedings thereat; which minutes shall be submitted to the presiding chairman of the same for his signature.

2d. To keep all such accounts, books of account, minute-books, and other memoranda, as the Board of Guardians may think necessary, and as the Poor Law Commissioners may require.

3d. To conduct the correspondence of the Board of Guardians according to their directions; and to make all necessary copies thereof, and preserve the same, and all letters and documents belonging to the Union.

4th. To give such notices of adjourned and other meetings of the guardians as hereinbefore are mentioned.

5th. Generally to observe and fulfil all lawful orders and directions of the Board of Guardians; and likewise the rules, orders and regulations already or to be hereafter issued by the Poor Law Commissioners.

Duties of the Relieving Officers.

19. The following shall be the duties of each relieving officer:—

1st. To attend all weekly meetings of the guardians, and all other meetings when summoned for that purpose.

2d. To receive all applications for relief, and to examine into the merits and circumstances of each case, and report the same to the Board at their next weekly meeting.

3d. In cases of sudden and urgent necessity, to give such temporary relief as each case shall require, either by placing the pauper in the workhouse, or affording relief out of the house, in articles of absolute necessity, but not in money; whether the applicant for relief be settled in any parish or place comprised in the Union or not.

4th. As soon as he shall have had notice of the sickness of, or of any injury received by, any pauper in any of the parishes or places for which he may be appointed to act, he shall notify the fact to the medical officer, and in the mean time furnish such relief as the emergency of the case may call for; and shall also furnish such further relief, in or out of the workhouse, as the case, upon the certificate of the medical officer, may appear to require.

5th. To keep a separate, full and true account of all monies received and disbursed by him for or on account of the relief of the poor of each parish for which he shall be appointed to act, and also of all articles received and given out by him for the relief of the out-door poor, and to balance such account weekly, and present the same for inspection and approval at the meeting of the guardians.

6th. To report to the Board of Guardians, at their weekly meeting, all cases in which relief shall have been given by the churchwardens or overseers of the poor of any parish or place for which he shall be appointed to act.

7th. To keep a book in which he shall enter the name of and other particulars relating to the paupers relieved out of the workhouse, and the amount of relief afforded to them respectively; and to produce such book for the inspection of the guardians at every weekly meeting of the Board.

8th. Once in every quarter of a year, as soon as conveniently may be after the respective days following, namely, Lady-day, Midsummer-day, Michaelmas-day and Christmas-day, he shall make out a list according to Form (E.) for each of the parishes or places for which he may be appointed to act, of the paupers who have received relief during the previous quarter, and of the relief afforded them, in or out of the workhouse, and shall affix copies of such lists respectively upon the principal doors of the parish churches of the parishes or places for which such lists are made; which copies shall remain so affixed for three successive Sundays.

9th. Generally to observe and fulfil all lawful orders and directions of the Board of Guardians, and likewise the rules, orders and regulations already or to be hereafter issued by the Poor Law Commissioners.

1st. The churchwardens and overseers of the poor of every parish or place in the Union shall make, assess and collect all rates which shall be necessary for the relief of the poor, and for defraying all other charges and expenses which by law now are or hereafter may be chargeable on the same; and shall duly and properly satisfy all such charges and expenses; and shall, at the end of each quarter, submit to the auditor of the Union a distinct account and balance-sheet, exhibiting the amount so collected and the amount so disbursed.

2d. They shall, from time to time, pay over from the rates so collected all such sums as by the authority of the Board of Guardians, expressed to them in writing, according to the Form (K.) hereunto annexed, signed by the presiding chairman of any meeting and two other guardians present at the same, and countersigned by the clerk, shall be directed to be provided from the poor-rates of their respective parishes for the necessary relief of the poor thereof, and for defraying such proportion of the general expenses of the Union as shall be lawfully chargeable on such parishes respectively; and shall pay over such sums to such person or persons, at such times and places as by the same authority shall be directed, and shall take such person's receipt for the same; and shall produce such authority, and such receipt as their vouchers for those payments before the auditor of the Union in passing their quarterly accounts.

3d. They shall provide, at the expense of the parish or place, a rate-book, according to the Form (G.) hereunto annexed; and shall duly and punctually make the entries therein of the several matters mentioned in the headings of the several columns of the said Form; and every rate for the relief of the poor in such parish or place, and the allowance of such rate by the justices, shall be recorded in the said rate-book.

4th. If any churchwarden or overseer of the poor of any parish or place in this Union shall, in any case of sudden and urgent necessity, deem it right that temporary relief to any pauper, in articles of necessity, should be given out of the workhouse, such churchwarden or overseer shall, if possible, cause the same to be given by the relieving officer for such parish or place; but if such churchwarden or overseer shall give such relief himself, he shall forthwith report the same in writing to such relieving officer.

5th. If any churchwarden or overseer of the poor of any parish or place in this Union shall be ordered, under the 54th section of the Poor Law Amendment Act, to give temporary relief in articles of absolute necessity, but not in money, to any poor person not settled nor usually residing in the parish, and shall give such temporary relief accordingly, he shall forthwith report the same in writing to the relieving officer for such parish or place.

6th. If any churchwarden or overseer of the poor of any parish or place in this Union shall receive an order directing relief to be given to any person (duly certified under the hand and seal of one of the signing justices, to be of his own knowledge wholly unable to work) without requiring that such person shall reside in any workhouse, he shall forthwith transmit the same to the relieving officer for his parish, to be laid before the Board of Guardians at their next meeting, that the Board of Guardians may be enabled without delay to give to the relieving officer the necessary directions as to the amount and nature of the relief to be given.

7th. The churchwardens and overseers of the poor of the several parishes or places in this Union are hereby enjoined in all things where their aid may be necessary or required by the said guardians, or by any relieving officer acting under the directions of the said guardians, to give their aid in carrying the orders of the said guardians into effect, and generally to observe and fulfil all lawful orders and directions of the Board of Guardians, and likewise the rules, orders and regulations already, or to be hereafter issued by the Poor Law Commissioners.

Relief.

21. Immediately from and after the first meeting of the Board of Guardians above directed, the guardians of the Union, and the churchwardens and overseers of the several parishes and places comprised therein, and the relieving officers for the said Union, immediately from and after the time of their appointment shall, to such extent as in the convenient and proper discharge of their several duties they may be enabled, observe and conform to, and carry into effect the following rules and regulations relating to the relief of the poor in the said Union; and from and after the 1st day of May 1835, the said rules and regulations shall become peremptory and binding upon the parties above mentioned, and shall not be departed from in any case, nor shall any relief be thereafter given from the poor-rates of any parish or place in the Union contrary thereto:

1st. No relief shall be given in money (except in cases of sickness or accident) to any able-bodied male pauper who is in employment, (the same not being parish work,) and in the receipt of earnings; nor to any part of his family who shall be dependent on him, or for whose relief and maintenance he shall be liable.

2d. If any able-bodied male pauper shall apply to be set to work by the parish, one-half at least of the relief which may be afforded to him or to his family shall be in kind.

3d. One-half at least of the relief which may be afforded to widows or single women, not being aged or infirm, shall be in kind.

4th. No relief shall be given to any able-bodied male pauper by payment or payments, of, for, or on account of the rent for his house or lodging, or for the house or lodging of any part of his family who shall be dependent upon him, and for whose relief and maintenance he shall be liable, or by allowance towards such rent.

5th. Except in case of accident, sickness, or other urgent necessity, no relief shall be afforded from the poor-rates of any parish or place comprised in the said Union to any pauper between the ages of 16 and 60, belonging to any such parish or place comprised in the said Union, who shall not be resident therein: Provided always, that this regulation shall not extend to any person, not being an able-bodied male pauper between the ages of 16 and 60, who shall, on the day herein appointed for the first meeting of the guardians, be in the receipt of relief from any parish or place comprised in the said Union, although not resident in such parish or place, and although such person shall continue a non-resident; but in every such case due inquiry shall be made as to the propriety of such relief being continued.

Medical Relief.

22. The guardians shall contract with some competent person or persons duly licensed to practise as a medical man, to be the medical officer or officers of the said Union, and to attend duly and punctually upon all sick paupers belonging to and resident within the Union, either in the workhouse or otherwise, and to supply such sick paupers with necessary medicines; and such contract shall contain a clause, by which the said medical officer shall engage to attend, at a fair and reasonable charge per head, to be named in such contract, on all persons not belonging to any parish or place comprised in the said Union, whom by law any such parish or place may be bound to relieve, whether under suspended orders of removal or otherwise.

23. The medical officer shall in every case, when required by the guardians, or the relieving officer, or by the pauper on whom he is attending, give a certificate under his hand of the sickness of such pauper, or other cause of the attendance of such medical officer, the extent and nature of such sickness at the time of giving such certificate, and its probable duration, and such other particulars as may show how far the applicant is prevented from attending to his usual calling.

24. The medical officer shall make a weekly return to the Board of Guardians, according to the Form (F.) hereunto annexed, and shall also attend the Board of Guardians when summoned by them.

Relief by way of Loan.

25. Any relief, or the cost price thereof, which the Board of Guardians shall, after due consideration of the circumstances of the case, think fit to give by way of loan, to or on account of any able-bodied male pauper, between the ages of 21 and 60 ; or to or on account of his wife, or any part of his family under the age of 16, shall be considered as a loan to such pauper, and shall be recoverable as such under the provisions of the Poor Law Amendment Act.

Purchase of Provisions, and other Articles.

26. The Board of Guardians shall order and direct the purchasing of the supplies of bread, flour, and meat, and other articles required for use in the workhouse, or for the relief of the paupers out of the workhouse, in such manner as may appear to such guardians best calculated to prevent imposition, and to promote economical management ; and that with such view, such purchases shall, so far as circumstances will allow, be made upon tenders, after public advertisement in one county newspaper at least.

Accounts.

27. The guardians shall, at their first weekly meeting, or within one month of the same, appoint a competent person to be auditor of the accounts, and immediately report such appointment to the Poor Law Commissioners ; and such auditor shall four times in every year, that is to say, within 30 days of each of the following days, namely, Lady-day, Midsummer-day, Michaelmas-day, and Christmas-day, examine and audit, allow or disallow the accounts of the said Union, and of the several parishes comprised therein, according to the laws in force for the time being for the administration of the relief of the poor ; and the said auditor, having audited the quarterly account, shall with his own hand write a certificate of such audit at the foot of such account according to the Form (H.) hereunto annexed ; and such accounts so audited, allowed and certified, shall be open at all reasonable times to the inspection of the rate-payers of the parish or place to which such accounts relate.

28. That such auditor shall receive for the performance of such duty such sum as the Board of Guardians, with the consent of the Poor Law Commissioners, shall determine ; and the auditor so appointed shall remain in office (unless he shall previously die or resign) until he be removed therefrom by the said Commissioners, or by the said Board of Guardians, with the consent in writing of the said Commissioners ; and in either of such cases, another auditor shall be in like manner appointed.
